In the House of Representatives, April 13, 1943.

The situation that has arisen in the Senate and House of Representatives in connection with the reading of bills is a matter that should be adjusted before this Session brings representative government into disrepute.

Resolved (if the Senate concurs), That a committee of five members of the Senate, to be appointed by the President pro tempore, and five members of the House to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, is hereby created, whose duty shall be to immediately meet for the purpose of deciding upon a solution of the difficulty that now prevails in both branches of the General Assembly, and that the committee shall report its findings to the General Assembly as soon as possible in order that constitutional government shall again be vindicated.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the immediate consideration of the resolution? Is there objection?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted. The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the Rules.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENNISON. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that this bill has already passed, reached the Governor and has been recalled. Will the gentleman tell me whether or not there were amendments inserted into the bill?

Mr. DENNISON. Amendments were inserted, yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. For my information, Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell me what changes the amendments made in the bill as originally passed? Tell me the object.

Mr. DENNISON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield to the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Royer. They were his amendments.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROYER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Lancaster tell me wherein the bill was amended since its recall from the Governor.

Mr. ROYER. Mr. Speaker, they have inserted the word "may" instead of the word "shall." They have made a "may" bill out of it.

Mr. COHEN. On what page, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. ROYER. On page nineteen, lines four and nine, take out the word "shall" and insert the word "may."

Mr. COHEN. Will the gentleman tell me whether or not the striking out of the word "shall" and inserting the word "may" would be entirely within the Secretary's discretion in the matter of who shall be the issuing agent.

Mr. ROYER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. That is all, Mr. Speaker.

Shall the bill pass finally?

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Subsection (c) of section three of the act approved the first day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1168) entitled "An act to protect the right of employees to organize and bargain collectively creating the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board officers of the State government and courts providing for the right of employes to organize and bargain collectively declaring certain labor practices by employers to be unfair further providing that representatives of a majority of the employes be the exclusive representatives of all the employes authorizing the board to conduct hearings and elections and certify as to representatives of employes for purposes of collective bargaining empowering the board to prevent any person from engaging in any unfair labor practice and providing a procedure for such cases including the issuance of a complaint the conducting of a hearing and the making of an order empowering the board to petition a court of common pleas for enforcement of its order and providing a procedure for such cases providing for the review of an order of the board by a court of common pleas on petition of any person aggrieved by such order and establishing a procedure for such case providing for an appeal from the common pleas court to the Supreme Court providing the board with investigatory powers including the power to issue subpoenas and the compelling of obedience to them through application to the proper court providing for service of papers and process of the board prescribing certain penalties" is hereby amended to read as follows

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MODELL. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 2. Subsection (e), Page 4 by striking out on Line 27 after the word "charge" the balance of said line.

Amend Section 2, Subsection (e), Page 5 by striking out Lines 1, 2 and 3 inclusive.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection?

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, since these amendments cut out the four weeks additional time for the appeal, I will ask the members of the House to vote the amendments down, and I object.

The SPEAKER. All the gentleman needs to do is to object. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MODELL. Mr. Speaker, I have just endeavored to have amendments approved to House Bill 120 Printer's No. 314. This bill amends the Act of 1937 known as the State Labor Relations Act as amended in 1939. It was my thought, and I believe the thought of the sponsors of the bill originally, that the purpose of the original act was to make haste in deciding the various problems between labor and the employer. As a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, the second amendment in this bill before the House is to subsection (e) of section nine of the State Labor Relations Act, and in 1937 the act read as follows:

"Petitions filed under this Act shall be heard expediously, and if possible within ten days after they have been docketed."

In 1939 an additional clause was added to that section, reading,

"No objections or charges involving cases arising under certain clauses shall relieve the board of determining any questions on certain other sections immediately."

The sponsor of this bill before the House is endeavoring to add to the six weeks allowed under the Act of 1939, an additional four weeks, so in all there will be ten weeks of further delay than originally planned by the sponsor of this particular act in 1937.

It is my thought that six weeks certainly is more than a sufficient period to determine any questions that may arise, and there certainly can be no need for an additional four weeks. If we do enact this particular bill now before the House, we are losing the effect of the original act, and for that reason I am asking the membership of this House to vote for these amendments.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Westmoreland.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia.

Mr. MODELL. Mr. Speaker, through a misunderstanding I asked the membership of this House to vote for these amendments. I should not have made that request, inasmuch as these amendments were not agreed to. I would like just to say a few more words in reference to this bill.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Is the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Modell, debating the amendments that he offered to the bill, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has stated he was in error as to the amendments, and has asked permission to debate the bill.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. MODELL. Mr. Speaker, as I stated before, this second amendment in this particular bill before the House is to subsection (e), section 9 of the State Labor Relations Act. This amendment would allow four more weeks of delay before the State Board would get busy on charges of unfair labor practices, and thereby delay preparations for collective bargaining. By this amendment the board's hands would be tied for a month longer. This is, of course, exactly contrary to the idea of speeding up action, which is the principal reason given for the first amendments to House Bill 120. To delay action means to defeat the public policy of the State Labor Relations Act. House Bill 120 permits any person entitled to file a petition or charge to stop enforcement of the act by stating that he is attempting to mediate or arbitrate in a labor dispute.

It can be taken for granted that only delay would result from this amendment, because the service to be rendered by the Board is made clear by the opening sentence of subsection (e), wherein they state,

"Petitions filed under this act shall be heard expeditiously, and if possible within ten days after they have been docketed."

Instead of getting immediate action to effectuate the public purpose of this original act, the amendment permits a delay of ten weeks altogether. The amendment would stretch the desirable ten days into a very undesirable ten weeks. This amendment, gentleman, would be a step backwards. This amendment purposed by House Bill 120 is in line with the damage already done by the 1939 session of the Legislature, with undesirable amendments to the State Labor Relations Act. It makes the State act altogether different from the present National Labor Relations Act and its policy. That policy is against certain employers, especially labor-hating corporations using their tremendous economic control over the workers by compelling them to accept company-dominated unions and yellow dog contracts. It would prevent them from choosing their own representatives in the American and democratic way to meet with these employers to bargain collectively and agree on terms of work agreeable alike to employers and their employes.

The 1939 amendments changed this policy of the State Labor Relations Act so that today the public fears that the act cannot accomplish its intended purpose to substitute industrial peace for that old time industrial warfare which was a dark blot on the good name of our Commonwealth. All of us should be glad to know that Pennsylvania cannot be so condemned to fear and the Dark Ages, because only a small proportion of the industrial workers are now engaged in intra-state occupations; the greater proportion of them are engaged in interstate commerce occupations and are therefore under the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act.

The 1939 amendments to the State Act do handicap a small per cent of the employes and also they handicap the fair-minded employers. These fair-minded employers who recognize that honest collective bargaining is the best labor practice are handicapped by those who would impose onerous wages, hours, and working conditions on their employes. The remedy for this deplorable situation is to defeat the amendments proposed by House Bill 120 and then take out of the Act all those pernicious amendments which were adopted in 1939, which make the State Act so much less effective than the National Relation Act.

For that reason, Mr. Speaker, I ask the members of this House to vote down House Bill 120.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, I hate to introduce a bill in the House and not know all about the bill when I am taken on the carpet as I have been by Mr. Modell. This is a lawyer's bill and there are a lot of technical questions in it that are very hard for me to explain. I do know this, that the bill was introduced by me in good faith, feeling that a four weeks' extension would be the best solution of the difficulty at the end of the six weeks' program, where the employes and the employer who were in negotiations were just about to have the thing settled at the end of six weeks. If you had to stop at the end of the six weeks period it might knock out the purpose of the bill, and these four weeks were put in there as four weeks more time to negotiate. Mr. Modell of Philadelphia thinks that the four weeks were put in there for delay and that if they cannot agree in six weeks they never can in ten weeks. I feel different about the bill, and I will ask my colleagues and all the members of the House to support it.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, this bill that we now have before us has been designated as an attorney's amendment. The sponsor of the bill has said that, and the gentleman who spoke before me on this side of the House as much as said the same. Now, I want in my humble way if I can, to give you the version of the men who possibly don't look at this thing from the attorney's angle, and are a little closer to the labor question. We have talked about employers in this state who criticized newspapers who flash across their pages that there is a strike here or there under the present set-up, under the Labor Relations Act. I say to you that the employers themselves criticized that action of those newspapers who flash those headlines on the pages of their papers, and will say that they have no labor trouble under the present Labor Relations Act.

I think in all fairness to labor and the work that they are doing for the war effort, we should not enact legislation that would prolong the time in which these disputes may arise over the wishes of the employer. My friends, I want to say to you and to the men on the other side of the House, because I know that the men on this side of the House will vote against this bill, but I say to you men on the other side who believe in labor, who go out and campaign in the interest of a fair deal for the laboring class, that in enacting legislation of this kind you are not acting for the laboring people of Pennsylvania and giving them a square deal in this type of legislation. I ask the members of this House to defeat the bill before the House.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, this bill is on third reading and has been on the calendar for a number of weeks, and no man from the minority party and no labor organization, individually or collectively ever has come to me and said a word about this bill. All at once it springs up as a labor proposition, and it is quite a surprise to me after all these weeks when nobody has said one word to me about its affecting labor.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, being a member of the Labor Committee and attending this committee's sessions when this bill was under consideration, the sponsor of the bill brought an attorney before the committee to explain the bill, which was very nice and a very fine thing, and one that I appreciated very much. The explanation, of course, was from the standpoint of the bar, a lawyer's explanation in the interests of the employer insofar as I could judge from his statements. There was, of course, no statement made from the standpoint of those who would be affected by this change.

I have had considerable experience in negotiating agreements for the last forty years. Sometimes we are in there four or five weeks. My experience is that the longer it takes for us to settle a grievance or negotiate an agreement the more restless the workers who are directly affected become, and as you are all familiar, the newspapers carry regularly, and never miss on the so-called wild cat strike, particularly if it happens to be in a war plant, it is played up to get public opinion against what the working people in this country are trying to do in their interest and in the interest of their families.

Now then, we negotiate an agreement for four or five weeks; neither side is able to agree. As the law provides either side or both can go to the Labor Board and the Labor Board has six weeks to work to get the matter adjusted. This bill permits the Labor Board to prolong it four weeks more. Is that going to help satisfy the worker who is the one that is especially affected? What can the employer lose by a quick settlement? The fact that he wants to delay settlement is the fact that he is not quite ready to make a settlement, he wants to linger on.

We are opposed to this bill because we know by experience that a quick settlement brings about an understanding, and one satisfactory to those for whom you are making an agreement.

On that stand, Mr. Speaker, I am asking the members of the House on both sides to consider it from that viewpoint and not look at it from the standpoint of a bill being introduced by the majority of this House. You are dealing with the conditions that surround the people that make up the state of Pennsylvania, the people that make it possible for you and for me to be sitting here this evening, the people that make prosperity for the State of Pennsylvania, and their families. I think that that comes before anything else we might have in mind, and so I am asking you all here to vote this bill down.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, I believe it is due me to say a word. Just another short statement in connection with this bill. There is a C. I. O. convention in the city, and many of the delegates are in this House, and Mr. Leonard is leaving the impression that I am against labor and doing something detrimental to labor. That is not the truth. I have never done that in my life. It is a good time to tell about this subject when the C. I. O. delegates are in town, but I want to tell you that my record here in four terms and four special sessions shows that I never did anything detrimental to labor.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, very briefly I want to say that as a member of the ranks of labor and from one of the largest unions in the state of Pennsylvania, representing more than twenty-one thousand members, and coming from a district representing more than fifty thousand Members, I wish to tell the Members of this House that we are absolutely opposed to this bill, and I ask you to vote it down.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LOVETT. I will Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker did I understand the gentleman to say that employers objected to having newspapers spread the news of a strike in their papers?

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman object to having published news of that type in the newspapers?

Mr. LOVETT. Unless they give a full account of the circumstances and explain the conditions on both sides, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, evidently the gentleman from Westmoreland believes in suppression of the news

Mr. LOVETT. I didn't get that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. I say, Mr. Speaker, evidently the gentleman believes in suppression of the news unless it is put in to fit his particular viewpoint.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I am just the opposite to that; I believe in giving all the news.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman differentiates between news and editorials, does he not?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, we are talking about news, not editorials.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman realize that it is not within the province of the reporter to express opinions in the news items, therefore they could not take sides in the matter.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I am not so familiar with the editor's position or what his employer demands of him or anything of that kind.

Mr. DIX Mr. Speaker, I have observed not only in this session of the legislature but the two previous sessions of the legislature the members of the Democratic party are quite willing to castigate the newspapers, stating that they are not fair.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe the gentleman is speaking on the bill.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The Chair is of the opinion that the interrogation is becoming somewhat rambling. The gentleman will confine his interrogation to the bill.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that the gentleman from Westmoreland Mr. Lovett, charged that the newspapers published unfair stories in regard to strikes? I simply wanted to tell the gentleman that I feel that they have a perfect right to print stories of strikes without being criticized here in the Hall of the House continuously.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, is that an interrogation or a speech?

Mr. DIX. It is a statement, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman wish to interrogate the gentleman further?

Mr. DIX. If the gentleman from Westmoreland states that the newspapers are unfair in their news, Mr. Speaker, I certainly am of the opinion that the members of the Democratic party are very unfair to the newspapers of Pennsylvania.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's interrogation I might say that I did not say that the newspapers were unfair. I said that the outstanding corporations of the state of Pennsylvania were not in sympathy with newspapers who flashed across the headlines of their papers that there was a strike in progress, when it was only a matter of settling some little thing or grievance along the line in order to get to the point of arbitration. I think that I made myself perfectly clear on that subject, and I want to say while Mr. Hewitt did not accuse me of leaving the impression that he was opposed to labor, he did say that Mr. Leonard left that impression.

I want to say to the Members of this House that as far as Mr. Hewitt or any other Member of this House on the other side is concerned, that is not true. I only say to you men on the other side of the House, as a labor man and a man who is pretty close to the conditions of the working man, and has been close to them, that I feel that this type of legislation is unfair, that it will only prolong and cause more of these newspaper flashes, and will not help the outstanding manufacturing industries of Pennsylvania, but will only bring against labor a public opinion which is very unfair, and I ask you to vote down this bill.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt made an accusation here that I resent. I thought I qualified in my remarks when I previously spoke to the assemblage, that Mr. Hewitt was good enough to bring an attorney before the committee to explain the intent and purpose of that bill, and I want Mr. Hewitt to know that it was the farthest thing from my mind to say anything in this House that would in any way blemish his intention in introducing this bill. I want that strictly understood.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, certainly I feel that the action of the minority is consistent in opposing this measure that is before us at the present time. I feel that we are consistent inasmuch as not only in governmental circles, but throughout the state in the relationship between employer and employe groups, labor has been given the assurance that during the present crisis that there will be a hands off policy in all such matters as affect labor. Certainly this piece of legislation is restrictive legislation against the red blooded group in the state of Pennsylvania who gave up many of their social gains toward the primary point of interest of the people, that of winning the war. Everybody here will readily acknowledge that they have given up many hard-fought gains in order to further the program which is before us at the present time. Primarily we today are interested in winning this war, and certainly no restrictive legislation should hinder certain groups in our state, who have been so good as to give freely of what they have possessed toward this goal.

I want to say in answer to the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt, that certainly no one on this side of the House was suspecting such a motive, as it was in direct opposition to the promise given by the administration to labor in Pennsylvania during this present crisis.

I want to say in regard to the newspaper stand taken by Mr. Dix, regarding the strike issue and different grievances that appear on the labor front regarding employer and employee, I certainly would like to see each and every newspaper in the state of Pennsylvania take up labors' side of the grievance as well as that of the employer, so that the public could really formulate its own opinion regarding such actions as are taking place in each individual community that they may appear in. I want to say that we here in a minority at the same time, while we give assurance that we are willing and anxious to cooperate to the fullest extent within our power to every move that has for its object the winning of the war, the maintenance of the morale, in industrial and agricultural work in Pennsylvania and the preservation of peace, certainly we cannot go along with a measure which is a hindrance to labor in its position in the present emergency, inasmuch as they have gone four square with the employer and with the governmental agencies in giving their full efforts on the front line of production here at home toward the winning of this war at the earliest possible date.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, you have been very patient with us, and I am speaking for the third time on this bill, and that is really asking too much. But, Mr. Speaker it is surprising to me that there was no debate on this bill on second reading, no person came to me in this House from either side and said a word to me about this bill, but now on third reading all of a sudden a bunch of fellows jump up and make the claim that this is a bad piece of legislation for labor. This bill is not one-sided; it may be on the side of the people or on the side of the employer, and it works both ways. In the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen they have six months for deliberations on matters of this kind. I ask all the Members of this House on both sides to vote for this bill.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, there may be bills before the House for several weeks, and we do not pay much attention to those bills until they get on the Calendar. After they are on the Calendar everybody scrutinizes them to find out just what they are all about. Sometimes a lot of people connected with labor do not have a chance to study those bills as they advance on three legislative days nor do the people at the far end of the state of Pennsylvania have a chance to study those bills.

A lot of the C. I. O. members and several other members of labor have been in Harrisburg here, and they find that this bill is not favorable to labor. They only found that out after it is on third reading, and we have been contacted and asked to fight against this bill.

I ask the Members of this House whether they be Democrats or Republicans, this is a non partisan bill, it affects labor. I am asking the Members of the House to vote against it.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, just so that the record will be straight, when this bill first came on the Calendar, I think about two and a half weeks ago, I requested the sponsor of the bill to hold the bill on second reading because there were some questions I wanted to raise, some matters we wanted to strike out for persons who came to me objecting to the bill. I did not object to the bill when it passed on second reading, and that was all right. I believe the bill was even held on third reading at my request so that proper research might be made and amendments drawn. That study was represented in the amendments we sought to offer tonight and which were not considered, which culminated in the debate on the bill by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Modell.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 610, Printer's No. 215, entitled:

> "An Act to amend section four of the act of one thousand seven hundred five (1 Smith's Laws 25) entitled 'An act to restrain people from labor on the first day of the week' by authorizing the service or execution on Sunday of certain warrants and other instruments in cases of misdemeanors involving gambling," was defeated on final passage in the House on Monday, April 5, 1943, be reconsidered.

Mr. BARRETT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Barrett, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. BARRETT. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.
On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER declared the ayes appeared to have it,
Whereupon, a division was called for, seventy-one members having voted in the affirmative and forty-seven in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.
The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 368 as follows:

An Act providing that in the post-war period owners of buildings in counties of the second class may improve enlarge remodel repair or replace the same with no increase of assessed valuation for tax purposes for a certain period of time and authorizing in certain cases the said counties and the political subdivisions therein to convey free of cost land to individuals for building purposes

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HANNON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, page 1, lines 5 to 8 of title, by striking out the words "and authorizing in certain cases the" in line 5, all of lines 6 to 8, both inclusive.

Amend Section 4, page 3. lines 4 to 29, both inclusive, by striking out all of said lines.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, is it permissible at this time to raise a constitutional point of order on this bill?

The SPEAKER. The bill is before the House. The Chair would also inform the gentleman that the amendments are before the House. The question is will the House give its unanimous consent to the consideration of the amendments.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I object because I desire to raise the constitutional point of order on the bill, and as I understand it, if consent is given to the insertion of the amendments the bill will then be held over for final passage and I will not then be able to raise the constitutional point of order until the final passage of the bill. Am I correct in that?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inform the gentleman from Allegheny, that a constitutional point of order can be raised when the bill is on final passage.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I object to the amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection, and consent is not granted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, has the floor. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Fleming?

Mr. BROWN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill 368, Printer's No. 313, be placed on the third reading postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman's motion is in good faith. I have talked with the sponsor of this bill for several weeks and I have also talked with the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Fleming, who makes this motion, but this is a bill that is so palpably unconstitutional that we ought to save the expense to the State in placing it on the postponed calendar. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Hannon, has tried to amend this bill. He has taken out one page, now he attempts to take out another page, and there is very little left of the bill, but that which is left is just as objectionable as that which was in it before.

I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Hannon.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HANNON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, the amendments that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Hannon, gave me a few minutes ago delete section 4 on page 3 of the bill, is that correct?

Mr. HANNON. That is correct.

Mr. BROWN. So that if those amendments would prevail we would have section 2 and section 3?

Mr. HANNON. That is correct. Mr. Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. FLEMING. I rise to the point of order, Mr. Speaker, that there is a motion on the floor of the House, made by myself to place the bill on the third reading postponed calendar, and Mr. Brown is not talking on the motion to place on the postponed calendar.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I objected to that motion, which is a motion that must have unanimous consent.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inform the gentleman from Allegheny that the amendments require unanimous consent. The question now before the House is on the motion to postpone the bill. The Chair is of the opinion that this interrogation, if it does not wander too far afield, will be in order. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, may I under the motion before the House interrogate the gentleman on sections 2 and 3 of the bill?

The SPEAKER. That will require unanimous consent. The bill is not before the House now, the question is on the motion to postpone.

Mr. BROWN. I would not trespass upon the ruling of the Chair, Mr. Speaker. I would then ask permission to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Fleming.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Fleming, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FLEMING. On the motion to postpone, yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. May I ask the gentleman for what purpose he makes his motion?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, for the same purpose as the gentleman has just said, to conserve the time of the House so that we may, if there are any difficulties with regard to this bill on the question of constitutionality, be able to settle them before it is brought up from the postponed calendar at a later date

I believe, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, is an authority on constitutional law, but I wish to assure him, that we have consulted people who likewise are authorities on constitutional law, and they are of the opinion that the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Hannon, would pass the test of constitutionality, and it was only with the thought of clearing those questions up more quickly that I moved to send the bill back to committee.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I accept the explanation of the gentleman and I would not prolong the debate because I feel no valid purpose can be served. I feel that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Hannon, has done all that he can do, and to save the time of the House I will withdraw any objection at this time.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. ROOT.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 558, entitled:

An Act to further amend section two to add Sections 2.1 2.2 2.3 and 2.4 to and to amend Section 5 of the act approved the twenty-ninth day of March one thousand eight hundred ninety-nine (P. L. 21) entitled "An act to establish a board for the examination of accountants to provide for the granting of certificates to accountants and to provide a punishment for the violation of this act" by changing qualifications as to education and fitness necessary before taking examination further regulating the business or practice of certified public accountants prohibiting such practice by corporations and by individuals copartnerships or associations under any name other than that of the person or persons so practicing and fixing penalties

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. ROOT and SKALE. Mr. Speaker, we ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 10, by striking out the words "business or"

Amend title, page 1, line 11, by striking out the words "certified public accountants" and inserting in lieu thereof: "accountancy"

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2.1), page 4, line 13, by inserting after the word "accountant" the following: "or public accountant or as an auditor or accountant"

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2.1), page 4, line 16, by striking out the word "business or"

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2.1), page 4, lines 21 and 22, by striking out the words "holding certificates as provided by this act and"

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2.2), page 4, line 29, by striking out the words "when such employes are certified public"

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2.2), page 5, line 1, by striking out the word "accountants"

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2.3), page 5, line 6, by inserting after the word "accountant" the following: "or public accountant or as an auditor or accountant"

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2.4), page 5, line 11, by inserting after the word "accountant" the following: "or public accountant or as an auditor or accountant"

Amend Section 2. Page 4. Line 1 by striking out the word "five" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "three"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection?

Mr. STONIER. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection, and consent is not granted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE

Mr. ROOT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill was ordered to be transcribed for third reading be reconsidered.

The SPEAKER. The Chair cannot entertain that motion, because under the rules of the House the time limit has expired. The question before the House is, will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROOT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent of the House to make a statement.

The SPEAKER. If the gentleman wishes to discuss the bill on third reading he may do so. The Chair recognizes the gentleman for that purpose.

Mr. ROOT. Mr. Speaker, may I state to the Members of the House that insofar as the sponsor of the bill and myself are concerned, we were satisfied with this bill as it was printed, Printer's No. 199. It has been on the calendar for several weeks, but in order to avoid any possible disagreements or disputes, we tried to please every objection. The purpose of these amendments that were offered tonight was to please those men who have asked the sponsor to consider their thoughts. Now, the gentleman from Lackawanna will not give consent to consider the amendment.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. ROOT. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the third reading postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER declared the noes appeared to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, one hundred five Members having voted in the affirmative and two in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I want to make a brief statement. I sat down with some of the minority Members in the consideration of this bill. There was some objection to one section of the bill, particularly Section 6. After very serious consideration, consulting a number of people, I want to say of record at this time that Section 6 of this bill in no way intends to jeopardize the rights of labor, or in any way curb their rights and privileges enjoyed at present or in the past.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 44

Mr. MOSER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Resolution No. 44, Printer's No. 375.

The Resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 15, 1943.

After the discovery of the Philippine Archipelago four hundred years ago by Ferdinand Magellan, and until 1898 the islands were held and ruled by Spain.

Following the sinking of the Maine in February, 1898, the declaration of war against Spain and the taking of Manila by Admiral Dewey, the Spanish Government ceased therein and was succeeded by United States Military Rule.

In June, 1898, the Philippines proclaimed their independence with Aguinaldo as President, and within less than a year which was marked by increased hostility toward the United States, the Malolos Constitution was proclaimed declaring the Philippines a Republic.

On the night of February 4th, 1899, the inevitable conflict between the Americans and the Filipinos was precipitated and Aguinaldo declared war on the United States resulting in a struggle which was not terminated until the capture of Aguinaldo by General Frederick Funston, two years later.

Many of the American soldiers who participated in quelling the Philippine insurrection and bringing peace to the islands and their inhabitants and delivering them from starvation, are alive today and are deeply interested in the freedom of the natives and their full and complete independence, which under the terms of the Tydings-McDuffie Act is scheduled to occur in 1945.

The seizure of the islands by Japan will not interfere with the realization of that dream by the Filipinos, for before the day fixed in 1945 for their independence the Japs will have been driven from the Islands and the loyal natives will be better equipped than before to take their place among the free peoples of the world.

Nothing could better serve to mark this epochal event than to have the men who delivered those islands from slavery in 1899 return as Ambassadors of Good Will to the new nation for whose existence they will in great measure have been responsible; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the Congress of the United States to take such measures as may be necessary to furnish free transportation on United States warships or other vessels to and from the Philippines as soon after the cessation of present hostilities as is possible to all those men who formed a part of the expeditionary force that made possible the freedom of the Filipinos and the creation of the new Republic of the Philippines; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to the President of the United States, the presiding officers of each House of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the Resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. TROUT offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 13, 1943.

Whereas, The Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association was organized in 1895 and has been in continuous and uninterrupted existence since that date; and

Whereas, The Association has been recognized by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in its rules; and

Whereas, It has been the custom of the Association to hold a biennial dinner during regular sessions of the General Assembly in which members of the General Assembly have participated; and

Whereas, This year is the 48th anniversary of the organization of the Association which is the oldest association of its kind in the Nation; and

Whereas, The members of the Association have voted to dispense with their biennial dinners for the duration of the war; and

Whereas, The Association has used its funds, ordinarily expended toward the cost of these biennial dinners, to purchase War Bonds; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania felicitates the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association on its forty-eight anniversary; and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly expresses its hope that conditions will be such in 1945 that the Senators and Representatives can unite with the Correspondents in celebrating in a fitting and appropriate manner the Golden Anniversary of this Association; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association at its offices in the News Room in the Capitol.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

WEDNESDAY, April 14, 1943.

The Senate met at 7:00 o'clock, a. m., Eastern War Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John C. Bell, Jr.) in the Chair.

PRAYER

In the absence of the Chaplain, prayer was offered by the gentleman from Butler, Senator CARR.

We raise our hearts and souls to Thee this morning, our Heavenly Father, thanking Thee for the light of another day, for the opportunities to serve that it brings with it and asking that Thy blessing may rest upon us in all that we do this day. Grant, our Heavenly Father, that Thy rich blessing may rest upon this country of which we are a part and give Thy guidance and direction to our President and all others in places of authority over us. Grant wisdom and understanding to us in our world struggle, which we believe is for the freedom of all mankind.

We glorify Thee in all things and pray that Thou accept us to Thyself. We ask it in Thy Name. Amen.

JOURNAL

The Clerk started the reading of the Journal of the preceding session.

ROLL CALL REQUESTED

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire a roll call.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any other requests that the roll be called? (There was no response.)

The PRESIDENT. There being no further requests that the roll be called, we will proceed with the next order of business, the reading of the Journal.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his point of order.

Mr. HALUSKA. A roll call is always in order, is it not, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. According to the rules of the Senate, Rule 35, it is necessary that four members ask for a roll call.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, this is not a call of the House. I am asking for a roll call, not a call of the House.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, after the order of business of leaves of absence, I think a roll call would be proper. There are a few members who are now absent for good reasons.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Wade asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. TAYLOR on account of illness.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. DEITRICK on account of an emergency call.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. ZIESENHEIM.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. MALLERY on account of illness in the family.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. EDMONDS, temporarily, he will be here in a few minutes.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. BARR. We are all out of order I think, Mr. President, as there is a motion before the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Barr, when the Chair recognizes you he will hear what you have to say. The Chair is running this according to the rules of the Senate. Members of the Senate have very frequently transgressed the rules of the Senate. The Chair has not restricted members of the Senate and will not until a member of the Senate raises a question. The Chair will continue to run the Senate that way.

If the gentleman from Allegheny wishes to raise a point of order he may do so.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE REQUESTED

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, am I in order to ask for leaves of absence temporarily for all absent Democratic members.

The PRESIDENT. Unless there is objection the gentleman would be in order in making such a request.

Mr. WADE. I object to the request for blanket leaves of absence.

Mr. DENT. Then, Mr. President, I will ask for them individually, since we seem to have been circumvented on having the roll called.

I ask leaves of absence for Senators Jaspan, Lanius, Mundy, McQuiddy, McCreesh and Coleman.

The PRESIDENT. Does the gentleman from Westmoreland request leaves of absence individually?

Mr. DENT. Yes, I have named the Senators.

Mr. HEYBURN. I object, Mr. President, and would like to give my reasons.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Delaware.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, if the gentleman from Westmoreland had been listening when the Senator from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, requested leaves of absence, the Senator from Westmoreland would have noticed that Senator Taylor is ill, Senator Deitrick is absent because of an emergency operation; Senator Edmonds, as everyone knows, is quite ill, but we expect him here in a short time. Senator Mallery has a death in the family. Senator Ziesenheim is in the United States Army.

They are all good reasons, Mr. President, but the fact that some Senator did not get out of bed early enough is not a good reason, and, therefore, I object unless there is a specific reason given for each request for leave of absence.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

Mr. PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his point of order.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I raised the point of order this morning to determine whether or not we have a quorum present and before we can ask for leaves of absence it is my contention the roll should be called to determine whether we do have a quorum present to function.

The PRESIDENT. Before such a roll call can be requested or demanded under Rule 35 of the Senate such request must be made by not less than four members of the Senate.

The Senator from Cambria asked for a roll call. Thereupon, another Senator requested leaves of absence. There being no objection, the Chair recognized the Senator from Cumberland and heard his request for leaves of absence and granted leaves of absence to the Senators enumerated by the Senator from Cumberland. As we all know, some of those Senators are ill and there was a reasonable excuse for the other Senators mentioned.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I believe all men are inherently honest, and I believe that those men for whom leaves of absence were requested were for legitimate purposes. If the Senate refuses to grant leaves of absence to Senator Lanius and Senator Mundy and the rest of them, it is all right with me. I am here.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I have no objection to leave of absence being granted to Senator Lanius, who has been ill. That is perfectly proper.

However, Mr. President, there has been a filibuster started here in the Senate which has necessitated an early start of this Session of the Senate, and if some Senators do not get up in the morning, then I can not agree to leaves of absence for those gentlemen, and whether they are Republicans or Democratic it does not matter.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any further requests that the roll be called.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I join in the request of the gentleman from Cambria that the roll be called.

Mr. JAMES. I likewise join in the request for a roll call.

Mr. BECKER. I join in the request that the roll be called.

The roll was called and the following Senators answered "present".

be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. HEYBURN read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 566, entitled:

An Act to further amend section one of the act, approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one (P. L. 662), entitled "An act relating to retirement from the Pennsylvania National Guard," by providing that Colonels having certain service shall be placed on retired list as Brigadier Generals.

Which was committed to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. WOODRING read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 567, entitled:

An Act to add subsection E to section two hundred two of the act, approved the fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 364), entitled "An act relating to business corporations; defining and providing for the organization, merger, consolidation, reorganization, winding up and dissolution of such corporations; conferring certain rights, powers, duties and immunities upon them and their officers and shareholders; prescribing the conditions on which such corporations may exercise their powers; providing for the inclusion of certain existing corporations of the second class within the provisions of this act; prescribing the terms and conditions upon which foreign business corporations may be admitted, or may continue, to do business within the Commonwealth; conferring powers and imposing duties on the courts of common pleas and certain State departments, commissions, and officers; authorizing certain State departments, boards, commissions, or officers to collect fees for services required to be rendered by this act; imposing penalties; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to corporations," prohibiting domestic and foreign business corporations from doing business, entering into contracts or advertising under any but its corporate name; and prescribing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Corporations.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COX asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I wonder whether, under this order of business, I may interrogate the gentleman from Butler, Senator Carr, relative to some legislation which is in his committee.

The PRESIDENT. Has the Senator from Butler any objection to being interrogated.

Mr. CARR. None whatever, Mr. President.

Mr. COX. Senator Carr, are you Chairman of the Committee on Constitutional changes.

Mr. CARR. I am.

Mr. COX. Senator Carr, has your Committee considered the Ruth bill, which would permit the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to have a graduated income tax.

Mr. CARR. I could not hear the question of the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. COX. I said, Mr. President, has the Committee on Constitutional changes considered a bill introduced by Senator Ruth which would permit the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to have a graduated income tax.

Mr. CARR. Every bill in my committee is laid before the Committee each time the committee meets and when any member requests that any specific bill be considered, that bill is considered. There was no request from anyone to consider the bill mentioned by the Senator from Allegheny.

Mr. COX. Senator Carr, I am not a member of that Committee, but in all sincerity I wish to say that I hope your Committee will consider that bill.

Mr. CARR. At every meeting of the Committee on Constitutional Changes any bill receives consideration when such a request is made. If someone should ask for consideration of the bill the Senator from Allegheny mentions it will be considered at the next meeting of the Committee on Constitutional changes.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, my reason for making this request is that in 1941 bills were introduced by Senator Ruth and Senator Woodward, both of which had for their purpose changes in the Constitution of Pennsylvania so that Pennsylvania could have a graduated income tax law passed by this Legislature. The Woodward bill went to the House and was defeated, but the Ruth bill passed. I did not know this and had myself prepared a bill for the same purpose, but, of course, since we have the Ruth bill, we do not need any other.

This is an important and serious matter, because it is obvious if we are going to ever make any changes in the tax structure of Pennsylvania, one of the primary things we must do is to have a graduated income tax.

Due to the fact that in order to have a change in the Constitution a bill must pass two sessions of this Legislature before it goes to the people on a referendum, if we believed in 1941 in the theory of a graduated income tax for Pennsylvania, then, of course, we should pursue the same philosophy in this session. Otherwise, if no action is taken or the bill should fail, we must start all over again at some other time and that would be only delaying it, as ultimately we will have a graduated income tax in Pennsylvania.

While I am talking about income tax, Mr. President, I would like to put myself on record so that my motives may not be misconstrued. A graduated income tax in any program would be only one type of measure for raising revenue.

I do not want anyone to get the idea my attitude would be that we are going to have an income tax in Pennsylvania that would take all the methods of raising revenue and place them on the fellow who had the largest income. I think everybody should pay a tax through some form of taxation.

Some time ago I introduced in this Senate a bill which would have the effect of exempting from taxation the first five thousand dollars of assessed valuation on persons owning homes. That bill came back to haunt me last week. In Allegheny County, at a meeting of the solicitors of boroughs, in protest against a bill which would exempt machinery from taxation, one of the individuals brought up the fact that I had introduced this particular bill. I might say I introduced the bill, first, because I wanted to call attention to the fact that the burden of taxation on real estate is a tremendously great one and something should be done about it, and secondly, because ultimately there can be, if we work out our tax program properly, a reasonable exemption on properties used for homes.

Of course, I did not introduce that bill without having in mind a tax program to raise revenues which would be lost by this exemption. I know you are not interested in hearing my theories on taxation this morning, but I want the record clear so far as my motives in introducing that particular bill are concerned.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HEYBURN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, before we start consideration of the Calendar, inasmuch as this foolish filibuster is serving no useful purpose, is costing a tremendous amount of money, loss of manpower and everything else, and is completely disgusting the taxpayers of the Commonwealth, I would like to request that the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, withdraw his request that all bills be read at length and that we return to the symbolic reading of bills.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, in answer to the request of the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, he probably knows—if he does not he should know—that the first eighteen bills that passed the Senate and House cost the taxpayers of the state the sum of $768,000.

Since I have insisted that Article 3, Section 4, of the Constitution be observed, there has been far more work done in this Senate. We all know the reason for this. I told the Democratic Caucus Monday just what would happen to the congressional reapportionment bill, and my words were borne out yesterday afternoon by the majority side of this Senate and by one of my colleagues from Allegheny County.

I therefore will have to insist that Article 3, Section 4, of the Constitution be observed.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, may I make a short answer to the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection, the gentleman from Delaware may proceed.

Mr. HEYBURN. That is entirely up to the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, but I would like to warn him that he is fast becoming something of a "goat" or whatever you want to call it, in connection with this filibuster, and it is as a friend that I make that suggestion.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. These bills have been reported from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation with the request that they be referred to the Committee on Labor and Industry, because they refer to Unemployment Compensation and all other bills relating to that subject have been referred to the Committee on Labor and Industry. On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred.)

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I raise the question as to what bill we are voting on.

The PRESIDENT. Senate Bill No. 361.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, they were going to allow that bill to go over in its order.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. The roll is being called, Mr. President.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. It is all right with me, Mr. President.

Mr. WATKINS. It is true, Mr. President, that this bill was to have gone over in order because one of the Senators was preparing some amendments, but it was decided that the amendments would be introduced in the House, if that is satisfactory to the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Henry I. Wilson.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. I am sorry, Mr. President. I am not the sponsor of this bill but I hate to be embarrassed on the floor of this Senate about it. This was not arranged for. I ask to be recorded as voting "no," under the circumstances, because there are some features in this bill to which I cannot subscribe without having them corrected. It was understood that the bill would go over in order. That is all there is to it. Just record me as having voted "no" and that is all there is to it.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Jefferson will be so recorded.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HEYBURN. The Senators will have to keep their seats. We can not do business unless the Senators remain at their desks.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct. That is what they are supposed to do; they are here for business.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, we can not hear a thing over here. I would like to know what is going on, but we can not hear the bills being read over here. I can not hear anything.

The PRESIDENT. Very well. We will have to have strict order kept and the Chair requests that the Senators co-operate in order that it will not be necessary to bang the gavel and break it.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, this bill is known as a merit rating bill but it would really be better named if it were called a fund raiding bill. For years I have heard, every time we introduced legislation proposing to increase weekly benefits or the benefit period, that that would be a raid upon the unemployment compensation fund.

For the first time in the history of this Legislature we now find the employer group raiding the unemployment compensation fund. This fund was collected for the express purpose of paying workers when, through no fault of their own, they became unemployed. You are now saying that we are going to give back, as it were, something to a certain group of employers on the premise that they merit this particular consideration. That can not be true when measured against the facts surrounding this type of legislation.

The worst thing that has happened to this bill is the amendment that was made last Thursday, making it a war baby. If anybody were to have an ounce of reasonable thinking power and would study the provisions of this bill and then take the amendment that was added last Thursday, if he does not come to the conclusion that this is a downright political steal, then I say that person is not honest to himself or to the State of Pennsylvania.

Just let me give you my thoughts about this bill. I was prepared for this bill but I did not understand that they had enough votes to call it up today, so I will have to rely on my knowledge of this type of legislation which I have gained through the years I have been fighting this type of legislation.

I want to quote from an article in the New York Post dated Friday, April 9, and this is very pertinent to this particular question now before us. It reads as follows "Some war plant boom centers may soon turn into ghost towns"—here is the point I want you to get: "The American Car and Foundry Company in Berwyn, Pennsylvania, which made a special type of tank, is reported shutting down. Some three thousand of its employes have been dismissed."

What does that bring to your mind? You have a fund of approximately $350,000,000 and you are saying "that is too much money to put aside for unemployment relief; we are going to raid that fund; we are going to reduce the tax on special companies which have no fluctuating employment problem or which by the very nature of the business they are engaged in, have a so-called static situation in their employment; we are going to reduce their tax to 1.7 per cent," and I submit, members of the Senate, that the 1.7 per cent will not be 1.7 per cent because duringing this period of war time for which the bill is effective, we have a Federal Government income tax which will absorb all over nineteen per cent of the profits made.

I am assuming that every company will have this additional money that it will save as an added profit—I know that if the companies I am interested in are fortunate enough to be amongst the many that will get this so-called kickback, that the money that I receive in the interest of my company will be given to the Federal Government, all but nineteen cents, and I submit, members of the Senate, that it is ridiculous to destroy a fund that will be a lifesaver to the taxpayers of the State of Pennsylvania when our boys come back from the war.

Here is the case of one particular steel company in western Pennsylvania, which has 31,000 employes in the military service. They are pledged by law and by company policy to return those boys to their jobs when they come home from the war. That means that 31,000 of those now in temporary employment, if you please, will be returned to the unemployment compensation rolls. That means that that particular company, one of the largest steel companies, will consider that when this bill passes and instead of throwing its doors open to expansion for war purposes, will start considering the matter of unemployment compensation from a merit viewpoint and unless you pass some act of legislation here that will protect a type of company such as that, which is producing for the war effort, this is a deliberately unfair piece of legislation to companies that have opened their doors for expansion for war purposes, because you are penalizing them for doing the patriotic thing, while a few individual groups, a few laundries and a few bakery shops and a few mercantile establishments, which have no fluctuating employment problem due to the war, find themselves grabbing 1.7 per cent out of the unemployment compensation fund.

I further submit to you that the persons who will be aided by this legislation or the companies that will be aided and protected are not the companies which produce the payrolls which in turn make possible the very existence of those who will benefit without the basic payroll of production companies, because they are newspapers, they are banks, they are service utilities and they I submit are the only ones which can possibly benefit under this fund raiding proposition.

Leaving labor entirely out of the picture, we know that the General Assembly as now constituted would not pass any legislation giving additional benefits to employes—so therefore they can not raid the fund—and in their behalf and in behalf of one million boys who will be in the armed services by the time this war is over, from Pennsylvania, I say that you are being unfair, you are being entirely unfair, because you are closing your eyes to the stark reality of the unemployment situation that will face this state and this nation when this war is over.

Do you think for one moment, gentlemen, that you are going to be able to close the doors on the drain on this fund when this war is over? You say in this bill and you admit by the amendment that you have put into this bill that it is nothing but a steal, a downright steal, because you know, you know and you admit that you know, when the war is over one per cent will not carry the fund, and therefore in order that what you disburse will not be in a position of going to the men that the promoters of this legislation have promised would have to continue merit rating, you have said that this bill will only be in effect until the war is over or a short period after that and then, mind you, after the fund has been raided, after you have taken the surplus as it were, out of the fund, you place a 2.7 per cent tax on everybody again.

Do you think that the American people are so stupid as not to be able to see what you are doing? If you have the courage, if the promoters of this legislation have the courage, then pass a bill for all types on a merit rating proposition that can stand on its own feet. Why make it a war baby?

Certainly the fund will have a surplus during the war—it can not have anything else. Men and women are working producing war goods, eleven million soldiers will be in the armed forces, you will not have any unemployment problem during the war except in cases such as the one I have read, concerning companies that are no longer able to make equipment because of the fact that it has already become obsolete.

You will not have it during the war, so you say we will cut the tax down during the war, but immediately when the war is over—at least your timing is such—at the time the unemployment problem begins to be felt you say we will go back to a 2.7 per cent tax.

Gentlemen, that is not even an honest way to do business; that is not even a fair way to pass legislation. I take great pride in trying to know something about the sponsorship of this act. This act has been sponsored—maybe I should not say sponsored because it was sponsored by a member of this Senate and I do not in any way doubt his motives—but it has been promoted, if you please, in all the states of the union by a group headed by a man by the name of Cliffe, who represents the General Electric and other utility groups. They came to the State of Pennsylvania and said, "Why, we have this bill in Texas, that is where it was first put in, and a few other states," and I get to thinking to myself how in the name of decency and common sense can you compare the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with its diversified industries and activities, to the State of Texas? How can you do that? New York State, which is a state that could be compared with ours very favorably, after a long study of this problem, with a standing committee that spent huge sums of money in their study, rejected, set aside any proposal for merit rating. It seems to follow a pattern that was started here—I do not know why—by this group in this state who believe that this is the time to destroy your surplus, when in fact every businessman knows that this is the time to build up your surpluses for the time when you need them.

Thousands of men in this state are employed in the coal industry, in the steel industry, at this time, who were not employed there prior to the war. Every one of those industries will pay a penalty for putting men on their payroll, and whom do you benefit? You benefit the bankers, you benefit, as I said, mercantile establishments, and newspapers, which do not have a fluctuating labor problem, and the 1.7 per cent does not amount to a fiddler's darn to most of the persons who benefit.

I do want to say this, so that the record will remain clear, I as a coal operator, my friends as steel operators, will receive the benefit of this, all right, they will receive the benefit because you are going to raid the fund and reduce everybody—I will say, almost ninety per cent of the contributees to the fund will receive the 1.7 per cent reduction from now until the war is over, and by that time you will have the fund down to about $76,000,000, or it can drop down to that amount under the terms of this bill—any statement to the contrary not being true—this fund can and will drop to approximately $76,000,000 if, as I believe will happen when the men come back from the armed services, you are going to have a major unemployment problem during the time of rehabilitation and readjustment.

You want to remember, gentlemen, that when the call goes out over the firing lines in this war and they say cease firing, the same order will be given to industry—cease firing—cease firing your boilers, pull your fires, cut down the steam, the war is over.

When that happens you are going to see that this fund which we have built up during the years will have to be much larger than it is to take care of the problem.

It does not make sense to me. Insurance companies do not follow this policy. They give you a dividend, yes, but I would like to have any man here that knows anything about insurance companies tell me something about the reserves that they have built up over and beyond any claims that can ever be made by policy holders. Everybody knows that is true of insurance companies, I submit to the authority on insurance, Mr. Wade.

You call this a filibuster. If I really did what I ought to do on this bill, on this one bill whose importance supersedes every other bill which has been before this Legislature this session—this is one bill that means more to the welfare of Pennylvania than any other act that has been before us, because I have heard on this Senate floor condemnation of the Federal Government in its handling of the relief load, coming into Pennsylvania with W.P.A. and other agencies, and yet you are now setting a course so that the Federal Government sits at the table and deals the deck out, because you will not have money to take care of your unemployment problem, you will not have the money to do the job we ought to do as a state with sovereign rights and sovereign integrity.

Gentlemen, pass this bill if you wish—we can not stop you, we do not have enough votes; you have the votes. On many occasions here you have stepped on the rights of the minority. You believe in the right of the majority to rule. I do too, but, gentlemen, I do not believe in the right of the majority to ruin.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman from Westmoreland two questions, please.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, sir.

Mr. WOODWARD. I do not want to interrogate him for long. This pool or fund of $350,000,000, why is is that the Federal statute differentiated, drew a deadline at employers of less than eight, and why is it that New York state, which the gentleman from Westmoreland said is comparable to Pennsylvania, made a like exemption, not eight, but of employers of five, I think it is. Those are expenditures, you say, from that pool and I would like to know why in a state like New York such a provision was made.

Mr. DENT. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia want me to answer that?

Mr. WOODWARD. I am asking that in all sincerity, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. I can not speak for any other state, but as to the State of Pennsylvania, we in Pennsylvania felt that by including employers of one or more we were doing exactly what we intended to do from the beginning, build up a fund from those who would benefit from unemployment compensation benefit payments being paid to the unemployed. Mr. Woodward, you must realize—

Mr. WOODWARD. Senator Woodward.

Mr. DENT. I beg your pardon but in America, to me, Senator Woodward, the greatest title that is given to man is Mister—not Senator or President.

Mr. WOODWARD. All right.

Mr. DENT. Senator Woodward, a person who works in the coal mines and receives unemployment compensation does not buy coal with it; that person goes out and buys food, he buys clothing, he buys utility services and he buys the necessities of life, and so, therefore, in order to insure to that man a decent rehabilitation payment through unemployment compensation, it was decided that the wisest thing to do would be to include all employers because this is not only an economic measure, it is in a sense a social measure.

Mr. WOODWARD. Then, Senator Dent, you can not answer the question as to why New York State made an exception of employers of less than four or five or three?

Mr. DENT. Because New York state, at the time they passed the law, felt that would build their fund up sufficiently. The federal government left in the eight person requirement because they realized various states had various problems and they did not want to make provisions in that act so that they would impose any burdens on states such as Oregon or the mid-western states where farming and so on are the main industries.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, this pool of $350,000,000 is that lodged in Washington?

Mr. DENT. I imagine that fund itself is kept in escrow. The Federal government has provided for that.

Mr. WOODWARD. Between ourselves in confidence, can you tell me about the danger, of the Federal government spreading this pool all around the country, taking our money and sending it for payments, for instance, in that little state of Texas.

Mr. DENT. I can not answer that, sir. I have great faith in our democracy and our manner of providing laws, and I do not believe that the Federal government will ever do anything that will injure our state.

Mr. WOODWARD. That was a sincere question. I was not trying to put you in the middle.

Mr. DENT. I might say, Mr. President, that the state of New York has a fund of over $500,000,000 and rejected merit rating.

Mr. HOMSHER. In the first instance, Mr. President, I want to say that this bill is not a war measure. This bill has been under consideration by the Legislature of Pennsylvania since 1939; it was studied by the Joint State Government Commission, which made recommendations to the Legislature that attention be given to merit rating.

Merit rating, or unemployment compensation, began with the Federal Congress, and first payments became effective in 1936, that is, from the employer.

In the consideration of that bill it was recognized that it was something new in the United States, there was no yard stick to measure by and nothing to furnish information by which the Congress knew what rate to fix. They fixed a rate of three per cent, which was the total rate, and three tenths of one per cent was allowed for administrative expenses, paid to the Federal government, and 2.7 per cent paid into the unemployment compensation fund to be distributed under a schedule of grants.

Congress realized at that time it did not know whether 2.7 per cent would be sufficient or in excess of the required amount. It was even suggested on the floor of the Senate, when the bill was being discussed—and for that reason it was written into the bill—that the forty-eight States could experiment with this matter, they should try it and if they felt the rate was too high they could resort to what is known as experience or merit rating. Thirty-eight states have already adopted a merit rating schedule, some under plans somewhat different from what we have here—some have reduced the rate, where employment is perfect, to no compensation payments by the employer at all, that is, in premiums. Under this bill there are limits fixed.

The thirty-eight States that have this bill are satisfied with it. There was some talk of dissatisfaction in Wisconsin, which has an exceptionally low rate, and their intention is to increase that low rate.

We have in Pennsylvania at the present time a surplus of over $350,000,000 in the fund and with employment continuing for another year the surplus in the fund will amount to nearly $500,000,000, which it is felt is very sufficient to meet all the needs of the fund, together with payments which will be paid by employers wholly to increase the surplus.

Estimates have been carefully made as to what might happen when the war is over, and I think it is safe to say that they have been carefully made. This bill is so safeguarded with its schedules that when the surplus or the amount in the fund is reduced to less than 8.1 per cent of the total payroll in Pennsylvania, the rates go up certain percentages, depending upon what per cent of the total Pennsylvania payroll is in the fund.

I can see no harm in this bill, because immediately the surplus goes down the rate goes up. As I have stated, careful calculations have been made as to what might happen with heavy unemployment. The fund is well stabilized, I think, with those precautions. There is a provision in this new bill, and in addition to that an amendment was added, and I think rightfully so, that if it is shown that this fund does go down more than is expected, they will restore the 2.7 per cent paid into the fund without any additional legislation. If it proves satisfactory, which I believe it will, the next Legislature will take up the matter again and either continue this form of experience rating or drop it.

I see nothing wrong, as the Senator from Westmoreland stated, that a representative of the General Electric Company supported the bill. Any industry in Pennsylvania whose organization or officials believe in unemployment compensation have a right to come into Pennsylvania and advocate a bill, when they have ten manufacturing plants within the state and are vitally interested in this subject.

Unemployment, as I say, has been carefully studied. When this war is over we believe there will be sufficient money in the fund to take care of all needs.

There is another thing we must take into consideration. The State of Pennsylvania and the Federal government are now studying post-war planning and they are arranging to provide as much employment as is possible through public construction and other ways. Are we to have no faith in this planning? Do you believe that we will not gain experience from the disastrous results which occurred after the last World War? Surely we are not going to have a depression of that kind. I think we are fortifying ourselves against that in every way possible. In fact, the depression did not appear until many years after the last war. The war was concluded in 1918 and the depression did not begin to appear until 1930, or over ten years afterwards. Is it supposed that we are going to continue to pay into this fund heavy surpluses to continue the fund up to probably a billion or a billion and a half dollars, and then it will not be used. Should not those funds be put to better use than lying in a surplus fund in Washington?

Industry, even if it pays back taxes, and it does, those taxes help the Federal government in emergency, and the balance which is left over can be used by the different industries in experimentation and searching out new inventions, new commodities to be manufactured and in studying added efficiency of their plants. Those things must all be considered in studying this bill.

I do not believe that it is necessary to go into a long history of the calculations and methods used in the bill, because that would be hard to explain on the floor of the Senate, and I do not believe it would be understood. By reading the bill you will have to go into the act itself and find out the methods of calculation, and if any one desires to do that I feel sure that they are safe and sound and I think the Senate would be doing a wise thing in supporting this bill.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, I realize that the voting minds have been already committed; no matter what I say or other members of the Senate say this morning, the vote is going to be recorded as it was when we walked into this hall this day. I therefore will refrain from any extended debate, but I do want to say that I personally am very sympathetic to experience rating in unemployment compensation. I think there is a lot of merit in the principle of experience rating. I think some day the Assembly of Pennsylvania ought to adopt it into our law, but I want to point out to the members of the Senate that this is a very dangerous time to adopt experience rating, in view of the certain lay-off from employment of very large numbers which is bound to come at the end of the war.

I have one industry in my county which employs upwards of thirty thousand men. The normal working complement of that company is about ten or twelve thousand and the depression complement of that company was about six or seven thousand, so that after the war we can very easily contemplate that that particular industry—and it is only one of many—is going to have a lay-off of upwards of 22,000 or 23,000 men, most of whom, if not all of whom, will be recipients from this fund which we are by this act now restricting its further growth and development, so that I say while I personally may be very sympathetic to experience rating, yet my vote on the bill today and this session must be "no."

Mr. WADE. I assure you, Mr. President and my colleagues that I shall not be very long and I will also guarantee that I will not use any technical figures. However, I do not agree with the statement of the Senator from Northampton, Mr. Woodring, when he said that he believed that the votes were already determined when the members came into this Senate.

I think that is absolutely unfair, and I think when the vote for this measure has been recorded it will indicate the opinions on this side beyond a question of any doubt, and I will not make any statement at all about the other side.

First let us just review this matter. This fund was created in substance because employers of Pennsylvania and America have said to their employes "we will take a certain portion of our money and set it aside as a reserve fund to meet future unemployment." That fund is built entirely by contributions from employers.

Secondly, this measure that we have now before us that would amend the original act is a measure that would tend to make employment permanent.

In other words, we have in automobile insurance and other forms of insurance certain rewards for safe driving, in automobile insurance, and if fire loss records are favorable in certain districts, fire insurance premiums are more favorable than in other districts where fires are more frequent. We have those same things in all plans, whether they are reserve plans or insurance plans or what not, to reward the person, the employer, or whoever it may be that shows a good experience, and this bill would tend to do that exact thing.

It is certain, of course, that some employers are favored by being in a business where employment is more favorable, more permanent, where their business is not seasonal, and where they can retain the same employes year in and year out almost on a level basis.

The fact that this bill has been amended to make it a war measure is sort of misleading—I agree with the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent. However, the sponsor of the bill agreed the other day in conference that was the way to write into the bill that we should experiment with this merit rating system for a period of two years, and at the same time I say again, as my colleague has said, that is purely automatic, because if we have bad experience we will revert right back to the present status of the law.

In the seventeenth century men on this globe devoted about seventy-five percent of their time and energy to the promotion of war; in the eighteenth century that was cut to fifty per cent and in the nineteenth century it was cut to twenty-five per cent. We think we are in unusual times now because we are in a war, and that is true, but every time we are passing through a period of any kind whatever we do not think it is normal. We think it is unusual, this period we are going through, even though employment is up and may continue to be up, because everything is being done, I believe, by the Federal government to prevent inflation and to make it possible for employment to continue on a high level. Therefore this is just as good a period as any time at all to experiment and merit rating has been adopted—which has been adopted, I repeat—and which the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Homsher, has stated has been adopted by thirty-eight states—and the obligation of this body as we vote on this measure is to say to other states of the Union and to the Federal government, "we will keep our fund not at a certain level in dollars, but we will keep our fund at a comparable basis to that of the other states of the Union, so that if the Federal Government should decide, on account of certain products we use in our everyday life being produced in certain sections of America, this fund should be spread over a larger basis, over the entire United States, then our fund will compare favorably with funds of all other states.

We do not have any experience. We go back in our experience only to 1938 and we do not have any satisfactory experience to base rates on. We were taking a step in the dark when we passed the original issue, and also when we pass this measure, but it is a step, and members of the Senate, it is a step trying to find out where a satisfactory base exists.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I too am of the opinion of the Senator from Northampton, Mr. Woodring—I am attempting from a scientific viewpoint to cast my vote on this measure, but on the other hand there is some misgiving which militates against this measure. I have in my hand a book recently released by the Pennsylvania State College entitled "Pennsylvania State College Studies, No. 11, Industrial Trends in Pennsylvania since 1914."

According to statistics which are covered in this book and which are very impressive, one gathers that Pennsylvania is declining industrially not because of taxation, not because of other reasons, but simply because the center of gravitation of industry is moving westward and Pennsylvania has been steadily losing. If we adopt today this measure, what protection do we have for the future, if this constant process of decline will start again after this war is over?

I believe that the story of Joseph, who provided during the seven fat years for the seven lean years, should apply today and we should provide more money in this fund against the industrial decline which will begin after this war.

For that reason I am going to cast my vote in the negative.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I am not going to consume much time of the Senate; I know probably too much talking already has been done about this matter, but there are a few observations I would like to make in connection with some of the speeches that have been made, especially by my good friend, the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent.

He talked about an amendment in the bill to provide that it expire at the next regular session, after the President's declaration of peace. Of course, that amendment was inserted in the bill. Mr. President, those companies which he claim will be helped by the bill, the original sponsors of this bill, had no idea of any such amendment and they had all the courage in the world as far as making this thing permanent was concerned.

The gentleman from Westmoreland also said that after the war every soldier would be back here in Pennsylvania which would cause this tremendous shift in employment. Everybody in this Senate well knows that after this war is over there will be a tremendous policing job to do, as there was after the last war, only it will probably be ten times as great after this war, and our soldiers will come back not all at one time but over a period of several years.

Mr. President, the gentleman from Westmoreland also talked about the original promoters, as he called them, of this idea. He talked about a certain Mr. Cliffe, I believe the name was, from the General Electric Company, which he called a utility. As a matter of fact, Mr. President, the General Electric Company is not a public utility; it is a manufacturing concern with very widely diversified operations.

Nobody in Pennsylvania, Mr. President, is the original promoter of experience rating. The original promoter of experience rating, Mr. President, was His Excellency, the President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, because in the first unemployment compensation law provisions were made for experience rating, signed by President Roosevelt many years ago. Therefore, Mr. President, the gentleman from Westmoreland was wrong when he said that the promoters were the General Electric Company and certain other utilities.

The gentleman from Westmoreland talked about companies being aided, Mr. President, by this thing, which would save money on unemployment compensation contributions, and then pay it to the Federal government. That is true of corporations in the excess profits field, they will pay taxes to the federal government, and that money will go to the prosecution of this war. But, Mr. President, all small business men, of course, do not fall into that class and they will have substantial savings.

Another thing which has been overlooked here today, Mr. President, is this, that thirty-eight states in the Union have unemployment compensation experience rating and for us not to have it, Mr. President, puts us in a position of not being able to compete with those states after the war and anyone, it seems to me, interested in progress in Pennsylvania must realize that we must be in a position to compete with industries of the thirty-eight states which have experience rating.

When questioned by Senator Woodward, the gentleman from Westmoreland said that the reason employers of less than eight employes were taken into this Pennsylvania law was because they wanted to help the fellow who worked for somebody that employed less than eight and therefore the Pennsylvania law is out of conformity in that particular with the federal law. The real reason, Mr. President, and I am not saying, I am not in favor of taking care of employers of less than eight—every employe I think ought to be covered in the Commonwealth—but the real reason is because of the uniformity clause in the Constitution. That is the reason every employe is covered.

Mr. President, I would just like to read a couple of paragraphs if I may, from a Mr. Atkinson, Administrator of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation of the State of Ohio. I will not take time to read this letter in full, but any members of the Senate who desires to read this letter in full may do so later.

Here is one paragraph, Mr. President, which is particularly interesting to me, which reads "We have been particularly impressed in Ohio with the fact that an important percentage of employers do seek to stabilize their employment, and do seek to regularize their operations in such a way as to eliminate unnecessary or unsound benefit charges. Our belief is that this is beneficial to the worker too, since it results in more regularized employment for him and far less frequent periods of unemployment.

"Perhaps the most important of all, from an employer's standpoint, is the manner in which merit rating polices the entire unemployment compensation operation. Employers can and do check on payments made by the state to individuals, because such payments directly affect their future tax rates. The agency is enormously assisted in detecting fraud and is constrained to eliminate loose practices and sloppy operation in general."

"It is the conviction of many observers in this field that untold millions of dollars have been paid out improperly in states which operate without the merit rating feature in their law. This does not imply any criticism of the officials operating such agencies; it is humanly impossible to do the policing job with the facilities available to an agency, where the employers have no reason to scrutinize the operations for accuracy and the correctness of its methods."

Mr. President, I will also read a couple of paragraphs from that great liberal newspaper, the great New Deal Democratic newspaper in Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia

Record, from an editorial of March 20, 1943. The heading reads "Pass the Merit Rating Bill; Better Late Than Never."

"Nearly two years ago the Record urged a 'merit rating' system which would put Pennsylvania's unemployment compensation on a real insurance basis."

Another paragraph, Mr. President, I should like to read is as follows: "If employers knew they could save two-thirds of their present unemployment insurance payments by putting their personnel system on an even keel—most, if not all, would find it well worth while. Thus the new bill would benefit both employer and employe."

Mr. President, the gentleman from Westmoreland also spoke about the danger to the unemployment compensation system because he said the fund would probably be reduced by experience rating. As the bill is now drawn, Mr. President, the floor in this bill is 6.4 per cent of the previous annual payroll, which would mean about a $320,000,000 balance minimum. I would like, Mr. President, to give a few figures. I have no personal interest in this bill.

In 1938 benefits were $71,553,000; in 1939 benefits were $54,594,000; in 1940 benefits amounted to $44,260,000.

Let us take the maximum amount, Mr. President, which was in 1938, $71,000,000, and when you divide that into $320,000.000 you will see it goes pretty nearly five times. In other words, Mr. President, the floor, the absolute minimum, would be almost five times the maximum benefit payments in any one year. Aside from that, Mr. President, there is always a great inflow into the fund, due to contributions every year, regardless of how bad business gets. There is always the lowest rate of contribution.

Let me read you the figures. In 1937 contributions amounted to $70,000,000; in 1938 they amounted to $70,000,000; in 1939 they amounted to $95,000,000; in 1940 they amounted to $132,000,000.

So you see, Mr. President, there is a real reason for every one to believe here that this floor in the fund will guarantee pretty near absolute protection for the employes of the Commonwealth.

I do not want to take up any more time of the Senate, Mr. President, but I did want to place an answer on the record to the statements of my good friend from Westmoreland, Senator Dent.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not want to hurt anybody's feelings by talking too long, but as I understand parliamentary procedure, this is a debatable question, and therefore I am entitled to all the time necessary to clear up doubts contained in the minds of the members.

First of all I want to state to the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, that I got the inference from his remakrs that he has no personal interest. Every man in this Senate who has one cent's worth of stock in any company that hires more than one person has an interest in this bill, as much as I have or anybody else has that might own stock of any operating company, so we will get that straight. I do not like the inference that I have a personal interest and that I would probably be one of the gainers under this bill.

Mr. Heyburn also stated that the uniformity clause of the Constitution was the basis upon which we passed the act for one employer or more. If that uniformity clause applies in that particular instance, then the uniformity charge against employers must also comply with the Constitution, to my mind as a layman and not a lawyer.

As far as quoting the Philadelphia Record is concerned, it has often been said that the devil can quote the scripture for his own good, and again I say to the Republican Majority Leader when he leans upon the Democrats or upon anything the Democrats do for an excuse or for the purpose of passing any legislation, I again become suspicious of that legislation.

Some reference was made concerning a Mr. Cliffe of the General Electric Company. The Senator from Delaware knows full well that years ago when we studied this, I too was a member of the committee that was studying it, and the man who promoted the legislation and spoke to us, when no other man on the committee knew anything about experience rating was Mr. Cliffe of the General Electric Company. I do not say that he was wrong in doing so—I think he is an admirable man and I think he is working for the interest of his own people to the best of his ability; that is his job and he is doing it.

I, too, am working in the interests of working men and women of the state of Pennsylvania, who are first mortgagors of this fund, and not the employers. This is not an employer's compensation fund; it is an employe's unemployment compensation fund.

The gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade, seems to lose sight in his construction of the figures pertaining to this particular legislation—and as an insurance man he only took into consideration the economic view point or the statistical view point, and he set aside the social view point, the primary factor in the passage of this legislation.

I think that it was the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Homsher, who said that there were rewards for certain companies. What rewards will there be for the steel companies in the State of Pennsylvania, which have an inflated employment status today of anywhere from 60 per cent to 250 per cent; where will their reward come in? I will tell you where it will come in. It will come in through the provision of the act that makes it effective during the war, because the period during the war, gentlemen, will be a low unemployment period and they will receive a sort of rebate, as it were, or a reduction in taxes. I want to tell you another reason for making this deal effective for that period of time. In no other state of the Union where this kind of legislation is in effect is there such a proposition as a ceiling on the tax that can be charged. You know that it is unsound to give merit benefits to one group without penalties on the other group. That is not sound business.

If you say that this bill will stabilize employment, again I refer you to the coal industry or the construction industry or the steel industry or other basic industries. A contractor who gets a contract for the so-called public work which the gentleman from Lancaster has so much faith will cure our unemployment after the war, that contractor is the man you are penalizing, the man who will do the public work, because all his work is of its own nature a seasonal occupation, he will always pay the maximum rates under this bill. Everybody knows more coal would be used during winter months by domestic consumers than during the summer months, and yet you say you will stabilize employment.

Yes, in a sense you may, but in so doing you are stopping expansion, you are stopping or shutting the door in the face of part time employment during lean months. Companies will operate on a basis of a minimum payroll. Companies with payrolls like big merchants operate under are the people that will benefit under this bill because, you see, they have a skeleton or a static payroll, and then, during rush seasons they employ help on the basis of temporary or part time clerks. They will not pay the maximum, they will pay the minimum, or they would not pay anything. They could not pay anything if the basic industries did not provide the payrolls that are the cause of their existence.

You say you have a surplus of $350,000,000. Let us call it what it is. Do you mean everything paid in that fund is surplus? Is there no figure that can be used as a basis of legitimate reserve? Is every cent in this fund a surplus? Well then, perhaps you want to put it on a pay-as-you-go plan. Why carry the fund at all? According to your arguments you could work it on a monthly basis and have the tax fluctuate with the monthly need, if that were sound economics.

Something was said by Senator Stiefel regarding the declining of permanent employment in the State of Pennsylvania. Every man in this room knows that a major industry when this war is over will be the airplane or aviation industry and its allied trades and subsidiary groups. What has been done in Pennsylvania to bring to Pennsylvania that particular industry? Every man in this room knows that Detroit, the mid-west and the far west will be the site or the hub of the aviation industry, and when this war is over you are going to find we are going to have an unemployment problem in this state of ours that will astonish you.

The gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Homsher, has said that a careful study has been made of the unemployment problem. I desire that Senator Homsher will answer me this question: what do you believe, after your study, will be the percentage of drain upon this fund the first month, the second month, the third month, the fourth month, after the war is over? What does the gentleman from Lancaster believe will be the percentage of unemployment when the war is over?

I appreciate, of course, the compliment paid by the Senator from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, to our Federal Government, because that is sweet music to the ears of those of us who belong to party that is now administering the Federal Government; it is music to hear somebody say that through the wisdom of the federal government planning for the post-war period they are going to see to it that we are not going to have a depression when this war is over. I appreciate that and thank the gentleman, although he might be criticized when he gets into his Caucus.

I also appreciate the proposition that your minds are open. Perhaps if your minds are open there might be a few ears over there that might believe what I am saying is the truth, that Pennsylvania can not stand an unemployment compensation merit rating plan. Our industries are too diversified. We are not an apple growing state in the sense that is our major industry, we are not a steel state in the sense that is our major industry, we are not a textile state because that is not our major industry; we are composed of all these things. We have all the problems, we have the problems of the basic industries with their fluctuating employment, we have the problems of the so-called service industries with their static employment.

You here are passing legislation, gentlemen, in favor of the so-called parasitic payrolls as compared to the creative payrolls.

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I want to state now on the record that the State of Ohio is unquestionably comparable with Pennsylvania, and statistics from Ohio show, considering all the various industries of Ohio that at least 75 per cent, even taking into consideration the worst, the construction trades, benefit by experience rating; and of the iron and steel industries in Ohio 96.5 per cent of those industries benefit through experience rating.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Section 3 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, most of what I intend to say is with deference and with respect to the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, because yesterday he made an inquiry concerning this bill. The only thing this bill does is to take out of Section 7, Clause (d), the provision allowing an appeal, and I will tell the gentleman from Westmoreland, because he asked me yesterday, the purpose of that was the fact that where this was in clause (d) of Section 7, it had been criticized by the courts as ambiguous and inquiry had been made a great many times. I want to say that it is taken from that section and inserted in Section 9, Clause (b), giving anyone who is aggrieved by an order certifying a collective bargaining agent of employes the right to appeal.

It does not affect the bill or the law of Pennslyvania in the slightest degree, excepting that it is taken from one clause and put in another, because of the fact that the courts have criticized the clause where it was as being ambiguous.

Another question was raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, and I now want to answer that, that is, under this bill the right to a supersedeas is not affected because it remains a supersedeas when the court allows it. That is all the bill does. It takes the ambiguous language out of one clause and puts in it clear language in another place and does not affect the law of Pennsylvania except to make it clearer and put it in a more proper place and leaves the right of supersedeas, where the court allows it, as it is now.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not want to seem to be obnoxious but somebody has to do some of the answering on these problems. Before I do, after this last vote and after this reconsideration vote and other things, I just want to read this one statement to you in order that that may perhaps bring to your minds on this day, which is being commemorated by Pennsylvania as the birthday of Thomas Jefferson, and to you folks who over on that side claim him as the foster parent of your party, I would like to read this one remark before I start my remarks on this bill. This is from a letter to a Mr. Bidwell, and it reads as follows:

> "There never was a time when the services of those who possess talents, integrity, firmness, and sound judgment, were more wanted in Congress. Some one of that description is particularly wanted to take the lead in the House of Representatives, to consider the business of the nation as his own business, to take it up as if he were singly charged with it, and carry it through."

I want to say that because we are losing sight of the fact here that we are legislators or law-makers for all the people of Pennsylvania, and are moving directly into the channel of party politics, the thing that Jefferson abhored, and the thing Washington cried out against.

Now, Senator Wilson, you say that the change you describe is made in the bill, and I agree with you, I think that it is a perfectly good change, and a wanted procedural amendment. However, on page four, a clear analysis of lines 26 and 27 has this effect upon this act; you say those entitled to judicial review are described in section (b) as Any person aggrieved by a final order of the board granting a denying in whole or in part the relief sought may obtain a review of such order in court, and you have added the following words, after the word sought "or by an order certifying a collective bargaining agent of employe."

This has an effect I do not believe the gentleman from McKean knows, is being done by the bill, because if he knew he would tell me so. I believed him and still do believe that he was given the bill by the department as a procedural change much needed in the administration of the act, but this is what this line does, "any person aggrieved by a final order of the board granting or denying in whole or in part the relief sought or by an order certifying a collective bargaining agent of employes." The Federal Labor Relations Board holds elections in the state of Pennsylvania, for the certification of a bargaining agency, and if an employer who is brought before the State Labor Relations Board by a collective bargaining agency takes the position that he is aggrieved by the order that certified that particular employe group, and he is not qualified to seek so-called judicial review of the board, what happens to the case, when one of the litigants does not appear? What is the use of making the appeal?

I am telling you that the sneaker in this particular bill is to destroy the appeal of employes when an employer wants to get out by saying that his case is not a proper matter for judicial review, because he is aggrieved by the certification of his collective bargaining agent, and that is the interpretation that I, and others who are learned in the law—I not being a lawyer—says that is exactly what happens. If that is not the case, then why are these lines put in the bill?

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I have a great deal of respect, as does everyone, for the honesty of the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, and his interest and his fairness, and I would like, if I may, to say this to him and to the Senate, that yesterday I went over not only to the department, but I went over to the Legislative Reference Bureau, and I left the bill with them and I said I would not put my name on the bill if the department or anyone else had a sneaker or anything in it that did not appear on the surface, I would not be guilty of any miserable, slimy, sidestepping political trick, and nobody could use my name for that If I could help it. This morning they came back to me with the very thing Senator Dent speaks of, and I am sure it does not do it, Senator Dent, I am sure that all it does is to transfer the right of appeal from one section, containing ambiguous language, to another, and that it leaves the right of supersedeas still subject to the order of court, as Senator Shapiro says.

Mr. President, I can not see in it the danger that Senator Dent speaks of, after I studied it very carefully yesterday, and after I submitted it to the department, and after I submitted it to the Legislative Reference Bureau, with the request that they tell me straight and honestly whether or not there was anything in this that was not proper.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, may I inquire of the gentleman from McKean, Senator Wilson, if this bill is supposed to correct a decision of the Supreme Court sometime recently which held that the Labor Relations Board had no right of appeal of its own.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. It does not. It is purely a routine correction of a situation where the language is so ambiguous, and putting the clause in the proper place, and leaving the law as it was, so that it is clearly defined that any party aggrieved may appeal, and leaving the right of supersedeas subject to the order of the court.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, there is still a great deal of confusion on this side among the lawyers, and I am making this request, because we are sincerely interested in this particular bill, whether the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson, would be willing to have this bill go over until tomorrow.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I can not do it. I would like to do anything that the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, asked me and I think he knows that, and Senator Cox, but Mr. President, I can not do it. This bill has been on the Calendar it has been defeated and I understand the bill was thoroughly studied. There is nothing to it but pure routine, making a procedure clear, and I am sorry, but I can not agree to have it go over until tomorrow.

Yesterday, Mr. President, I did put it over at the request of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro. I have never refused a request of this kind, but we now have this thing where it is ready to vote on, and in this very peculiar parliamentary situation and not knowing what will happen tomorrow or any other day, I have to ask that the roll be called.

I am sorry, Mr. President, and I think the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Cox, knows that I would not be so ungracious as to refuse such a request under ordinary circumstances.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, many of us on this side will be put in a position, because we are not completely satisfied as to the interpretation that will be placed on this act later by these amendments, because of this doubt that we will have to vote against the bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I can, of course, take it with a smile, but a lot of the fellows who are handing it out can not take it.

An hour and ten minutes from now we are going to hear some remarks commemorating the two hundredth and one day anniversary of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson. I should like to read a brief paragraph from Jefferson's first inaugural address, showing that a minority also has rights, which is as follows:

> "All, too, will bear in mind this sacred principle, that though the will of the majority is in all cases to prevail, that will, to be rightful, must be reasonable; that the minority possess their equal rights, which equal laws must protect, and to violate which would be oppression. Let us, then, fellow citizens, unite with one heart and one mind. Let us restore to social intercourse that harmony and affection without which liberty and even life itself are by dreary things. And let us reflect that having banished from our land that religious intolerance under which mankind so long bled and suffered, we have yet gained little if we countenance a political intolerance as despotic, as wicked, and capable of as bitter and bloody persecutions."

That, Mr. President, is from Thomas Jefferson's first inaugural address, on March 1, 1801.

The gentlemen on the majority side are somewhat fortunate today that I have a very bad cold and am running a temperature, and I promise not to be up here talking any longer than I can help.

I told the Democratic members in caucus on Monday, as I told you earlier today, that I thought that the time had come in my life where I had become a crystal gazer. I said that I had dealt with the gentlemen on the Majority side in 1941, 1942, and this year. I said no matter what course we take, they will do as they please and just as they wish. I think the course they have taken has proven to the people of Pennsylvania that the Republicans are saying, to the people of Pennsylvania, "the people of Pennsylvania be damned, we have the House, we have the Senate, we have the Governor, we have the Courts."

The night before last several members on the majority side told me that they thought we could probably come to some compromise with regard to reapportionment in Allegheny County, and I probably wrongfully took them at their word, and went to the expense of having a man come to Harrisburg from Pittsburgh with figures, registration maps and so forth; he gave up a full night's sleep, worked all day yesterday, and took the train back last night. To him and to him only I apologize.

I also heard when I walked into the Penn Harris Hotel last evening one Senator on the majority side who was using rather abusive language in his terms of me. To that gentleman I say that I still have the same respect for him, because I have become, since being in this Senate and being a minority member, I would say, rather thick-skinned; you must be or you can not exist in this hodge podge that we have now.

Senate Bill No. 272 is a bill that the people of Pennsylvania will not forget, and I promise, as one, I will never let them forget it, if that is the way it is going through this Senate.

The Majority Leader, a few moments ago, read from the Philadelphia Record, and I would like to read to the members of the Senate an editorial appearing in the Philadelphia Record of today, which is as follows.

IF OUR BOYS IN TUNESIA COULD SEE HARRISBURG—!

Hon. Edward Martin, Governor,
The Executive Mansion,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Governor:

Have you forgotten your own inaugural message—so soon?

You are the man who told the people that "right now nothing matters but winning the war."

You are the man who pledged, in the same message:

> "The democracy our boys are fighting for must be kept clean and strong."

You are the man who promises:

> "Pressure groups—any kind of groups seeking special privileges for themselves—are out."
>
> (Reflect on that gentlemen.)

Yet now, Governor, you sit idly by while your party machine in the Legislature runs amok in an orgy of political grabbery.

Look at the program of your party, as translated into proceedings of the Legislature. How would you like to submit it to the boys in Tunisia—for their opinion?

Item by item, the GOP program:

1. The Civil Service ripper bill.

It aims to pack State payrolls with political pets at the special expense of veterans of this war and the last one. No wonder veterans are fighting it.

2. The parole ripper bill.

The Jaspan ripper was killed after a long fight, but the new "ripper" would open the way for revival of the old tie-up between politicians and the underworld, with price tags put on the keys of our prisons

3. The reapportionment bill.

A simon impure political steal; an attempt to legislate Republicans into Congress through compound gerrymandering.

4. The straw bail bill.

It would restore the old straw bail racket, in which one small piece of property could be put up as security for thousands of dollars worth of bail. Governor James vetoed a similar scheme.

5. The bill to amend the State Labor Relations Act so politicians can be appointed to the State Labor Board.

6. Senate Bill No. 72—

Which would move all the jobs in the Mercantile Appraisers' Bureau from the Auditor General's department to the Secretary of Revenue, so holders of those jobs could be fired to make way for Republican hangers-on.

In 50 days of this legislative session, only 32 of the 1635 bills introduced have been enacted into law. Save for routine measures, such as the deficiency bill, no important action has been taken in any way beneficial to Pennsylvania—

And not one bill has been passed, or given real consideration, which is remotely aimed to fulfill your pledge to extend "all our energies" to helping win this greatest of wars.

Little has been done on your program for post-war planning.

As a General as well as Governor, you should be able to imagine what a reception this program would get on the firing lines.

* * *

It's time, Governor, for you to get out of your swivel chair and assert your leadership.

When your own party stages a sit-down strike; when it twists your own program into a grim farce; when it makes a joke of your solemn promises to voters and fighting men alike—

The moment has come to call your party's leaders in the Legislature on the carpet and remind them there's a war going on.

Tell them, Governor, this war is against Hitler, not against the Democratic party.

Tell them those boys over there are coming home some day, and that when they get back they'll want to know what the hell happened to Pennsylvania under a General's administration while they were risking their lives.

You've got to be more than "half as good as Arthur James" to command the respect of the Legislature and to win the confidence of the public.

You've been taking it too easy, Governor. You've got to get tough, even if you do hurt a few of your fair weather friends.

THE PHILADELPHIA RECORD.

If possible, I would like to sign that "Joseph M. Barr, ditto."

On Monday I told some of the gentlemen of the Senate that we are here representing, I think, a great minority. I told them that I had the figures of the votes that had been cast on both the majority and the minority sides in the election of 1940, and the election of 1942, which sent us to this body. I told them I had them if any of them would care to look at them, but, of course, knowing them as I do, none of them came to look.

For the twenty-five gentlemen who ran for the Senate in 1940, the Democrats received 938,162 votes and the Republicans received 897,491 votes, but through your gerrymandering, which passed this body years ago with a Republican House, a Republican Senate, and a Republican Governor, you elected the majority.

In 1942, the Republican vote was 696,970 and the Democratic vote was 650,210. If you add those, the Democratic total in 1940 and 1942 was 1,588,372 and the Republican total was 1,594,461, but with your gerrymandering, you have thirty-two men seated in this Senate and we have eighteen yet you have only a 6,000 majority in votes cast. Reflect on that gentlemen, if you will, the count that put you here.

I have, as I say, these amendments, and of course, I will send them to the House of Representatives, and if the leadership over there is the same as here, they, of course, will have the same fate.

Mr. President, as I say, today I have a pretty bad throat and cold, and several friends on my side here are going to tell you just what Congressional Reapportionment does to our county.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I am going to explain my vote on this bill.

It seems to me that the bill introduced by my friend, Senator Heyburn, will remove a congressman from my district and unite him with a congressman in the adjoining district, and although I am a firm believer in the Constitutional provision of reapportionment, I feel on account of this shifting around of my district, I will have to vote "no."

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I too am a great admirer of Senator Heyburn, and I have served with him since 1936, but I am afraid today I have to change the word "gerrymandering" into "Heyburn-mandering."

Mr. President, this is an example of political chemistry and of the different illusions that can be gathered when you examine the third congressional district. This third congressional district of Philadelphia is one of the largest in Pennsylvania and it has more than its share. As a matter of fact it is carved up, they carved up three Senatorial districts out of this third congressional district, but apparently, in Philadelphia they made Democratic districts stronger and doubtful districts definitely Republican; by adding to the third congressional district the fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth wards, they are assured that Congressman Bradley, who was one of the outstanding champions of the New Deal in Congress, is going to be defeated.

On the other hand, in such districts as the fourth and the second, which have always been Democratic strongholds, they have added additional Democratic wards and they will become even stronger Democratically.

Through this reapportionment we will lose three New Deal Congressmen from Philadelphia. I want to say that I have examined the history of this matter since 1790, and I find this is the first example of having two reapportionments after a census.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, my remarks on this bill will be very brief. However, I feel that if I did not take the floor in opposition to what this Senate is trying to enact, that I would not truly represent the people in my Senatorial district or of Allegheny county, the greatest industrial district in the world.

In 1942 this Legislature reapportioned certain congressional districts in Pennsylvania. I opposed the bill. I opposed it because I believed in the American principle of government. I believe in a true representation of all the peoples and I thought that that bill was not a congressional reapportionment bill in any sense of the word, that it was not a fair attempt to do the thing that we must do in this country if we really are to have a representative government. I assure you it was difficult for me to take that position. It was difficult for me to sit here and vote contrary to the wishes and the manner in which many other members of the Senate voted, but I feel there are things that transcend interest in any politics or any political party, and there has got to be someone with the courage of his convictions to stand on the floor of this Lagislature, and do the thing in a crisis like this that he feels is the honest thing to do.

Mr. President, this bill is a monstrosity in its relationship to Allegheny County. Yesterday the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Kephart made the statement that he believed the majority should rule. If Senator Kephart meant that the majority should represent, I could agree with him, but I do not understand the relationship of his remarks to reapportionment in Allegheny County, because if he believed what he stated or if he meant what I think he meant, then he made a splendid argument against reapportionment of Allegheny County as it is done by this bill.

When you talk of pluralities, consider the plurality in registration between the two parties in our county. We have in the entire county a plurality representation of 75,000.

This bill has been called a gerrymander, and it gets its name from the reapportionment of certain districts in Massachusetts many years ago. I recall, when I was a small boy studying history in a grade school, a picture of this gerrymander in Massachusetts. Unquestionably if this bill passes there should be printed in every history book in the schools of Pennsylvania a map of the Pennsylvania gerrymander in its relationship to Allegheny County.

With our plurality in registration of 75,000, we find that this bill would take strong Democratic districts and dump them into one district in the very center of our county. It is obvious the purpose for which that is done; it is obvious that in giving us a Democratic congressional district, where the Democratic population is twice larger than the Republican population, that that is a method whereby our plurality in registration will be mal-retricted in all other sections of Allegheny county.

There is not much more that I can say. I regret that this bill got to this place on the Calendar, and I certainly hope that when the matter gets to the House, those gentlemen will sit down in a spirit of compromise and attempt to work out something that will be truly representative of both parties in our state.

If we are to survive as a democracy, as a people who have a representative form of government, there must be a fair understanding between all factions and that understanding can never come unless there is mutual agreement between the parties to be honest and fair and to forget political interests.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, as a Senator from the city of Philadelphia, I am very much interested in this reapportionment bill as it affects the city. As it stands today there are seven Congressmen. Under this bill we are losing one. To my mind, and I think the minds of everybody in this Senate, Philadelphia is the largest city in the state of Pennsylvania, and does more to contribute to the state government, the city government, and the federal government than any other city in the state of Pennsylvania.

This bill or set-up, as it relates to Philadelphia, is politically motivated. It certainly is an unfair and an unjust reapportionment, particularly with respect to the first and second districts and to the third as well, in which I live.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, in reply to the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Cox, may I say that my remarks the other day were not directed towards the merits of this reapportionment bill, and may I repeat here, so that it may be clear what I had in mind, that is, that it was not a Democratic form of government for the minority to rule the will of the majority by a filibuster, nor should the taxpayers' money be wasted through filibuster tactics.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, during the last few days I have begged several Senators on the other side to reconsider this bill as it affects Allegheny County.

I feel that the Republican Senators from Allegheny county, if they were sincere themselves on their side of the House, could sit down with some of us so that Allegheny could have a fair reapportionment bill.

For instance, in the district in which I am placed, it takes three wards on my side of the river, three Democratic wards, and tosses them over into the old city of Pittsburgh, across the Ohio, across the Allegheny and across the Monongahela, across three rivers, and gives us a registration of 100,000 Democrats to 49,000 Republicans. Of course, it takes these wards from sections where they naturally belong by topography and by population and throws them all in one bunch in the center, and then they dish out the other four districts to suit themselves.

The state of Pennsylvania has been reapportioned twice: a good many years ago it was done. Under the old reapportionment in Allegheny County, made by the Republican Party when in power, we elected every Congressman. At the time of the last reapportionment, in 1942, in order to avoid having thirty-three Congressmen running at large, we of the Democratic Party in our county voluntarily gave up one congressman—we lost one congressional district in the county election. We have four left and we elected four congressmen. Part of our district was thrown over into Washington county and that district was very close, although we did elect a Democratic congressman in that district, but it does seem to me that a party that has in past years built their congressional districts to suit themselves, that when it comes to reapportionment now, when it gets down to Allegheny county, having had all the rest of the districts, having reapportioned them, that they would take Allegheny County and give us a fair and square deal.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to state my position on this bill. I have gone into detail on this issue. Some of my colleagues are against it who believe a great injustice has been done to the county of Allegheny. I never believed that might meant right. A majority might have the might to do many things but not the right.

However, my district has been to some extent relieved and I am compelled, of course, to inform my colleagues on the left that I am going to vote for this bill for the reason that my Congressional District has been relieved of one county.

I am in sympathy with my colleagues from Allegheny County, and I have felt up until this moment that a compromise might be in the making. However it seems now that there is no chance of such a compromise.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to make a few remarks here on the record so that some thoughts I shall express here may take the form of rebuttal for posterity with regard to this reapportionment in Allegheny county! I am first going to show to the members of the Senate how the philosophy of redistricting our County was approached. Those of us who were primarily interested in the redistricting, as it now appears in Senate Bill No. 272, began this work back in 1940-1941, and we had reapportionment bills in at that time; in 1942 we had reapportionment bills in at that time, and at the conclusion of 1942, in that Special Session, Allegheny county was tossed to the wolves.

The Democrats have lost one congressman. They were permitted to carve up our county as they saw fit, and here on the floor of this Senate for the past week we have been accused of trickery, juggling, chicanery and gerrymandering until it approaches the realm of unreasonableness.

I do not propose for a second to discuss personalities with the gentlemen on the other side, because I appreciate the fact that what they have said about my distinguished colleague from Allegheny, Senator Geltz, and also what they have said about me, was mostly for local consumption back home and for strictly political and not personal purposes.

First they accused us of jumping rivers and giving them the heart of the City of Pittsburgh—in that connection it has been suggested by our distinguished farmer in the Senate, the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, that the heart of a watermelon is perhaps the best of the fruit, and we have given them the heart of the city of Pittsburgh in creating one of those districts.

In the city of Pittsburgh there was a Democratic district where they outnumbered us almost two to one in that district, and therefore they are complaining, and when we pick four other districts that are almost even they are complaining because they are almost even.

It is difficult for me to find out just what is the basis of the complaint that they make. First, they say that it was unfair because we were outnumbered by two to one, and then they say it is unfair because we give them four districts which are almost even, but they avoid saying the thing that, to them, is really wrong with this bill, as far as Allegheny County and the Democratic Party is concerned, that at long last there will be a chance for the Republican Party in Allegheny county to send Republican congressmen to Washington; that is the thing that they do not like.

Let me say to you that in those four districts we have divided the city of Pittsburgh and the county of Allegheny so that they are almost square geographically, they are compact, they are contiguous and they are almost identical in population figures and they are almost even in registration figures.

Let me now impose upon the members of the Senate a few statistics that will illustrate just what I am discussing. In district No. 29 the population is 272,288 and the Democratic registration was 76,040 and the Republican registration was 78,033. In district No. 30 the population is 271,544. The Democratic registration was 69,689 and the Republican registration was 72,060.

In district No. 31 the population is 295,000 and the Democratic registration was 76,969 and the Republican registration was 76,404.

In district No. 32 the population is 301,241; the Democratic registration is 105,797, and the Republican registration 49,133. In district No. 33 the population is 271,403; the Democratic registration is 75,842, and the Republican registration is 62,623.

Mr. President, in the discussions that we heard Monday and that we have heard here today, the distinguished gentlemen on the other side have been criticizing the merits of this bill and, avoiding personalities, they suggested that we are river-jumpers in trying to arrive at a proper redistricting of Allegheny County, but they have avoided discussing the fact that in 1942 when they were carving up Allegheny county they were anxious to see to it that all of the representatives in Congress from Allegheny county were of the Democratic philosophy of government, so they jumped a river in order to take in some additional territory and make it a Democratic district, because they knew full well that with any kind of a candidate who could make some intelligent approach to the people in that district, they knew that district would go Republican and so they jumped the river and they took two heavy Democratic wards and hooked them up to that district, just to make sure that there would be a Democrat in Congress to uphold the New Deal and represent what is a predominantly Republican district in Allegheny County.

We attempted to compromise—and when I say we I mean myself and my distinguished colleague, Senator Geltz—and we met with the gentlemen from the other side in order to determine whether or not there would be a common meeting ground—perhaps they could show us where mechanically we were wrong, perhaps they could show us where we had skipped boroughs or run around rivers or where we had avoided geographical lines. We met with them yesterday and Senator Barr, who has been the front runner in this so-called filibuster, or whatever he calls it, to blockade legislation, Senator Barr presented to us a series of pencil notes in which he had outlined the proposed districts, and practically all the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, did in that discussion and with those notes, was to return to what the districts in Allegheny County had been under the Act of 1931; with one or two slight changes and a couple of things that were mechanically wrong with Senator Barr's suggested amendments, it was suggested to him that because he had isolated the borough of Brentwood in Allegheny County, and surrounded it with an entirely different district, that the act would be declared unconstitutional and we said to him that we could not do that and he agreed with us.

And then in another district he had taken the thirteenth and fourteenth wards and he had affiliated them with the sixteenth ward in a congressional apportionment set-up, and it was pointed out to him that the fifteenth ward and the fourth ward in the city of Pittsburgh intervened between the fourteenth and the sixteenth wards, and therefore those two wards were not contiguous and the district would be unconstitutional and so would be the act. The naive approach to contiguous territory under the amendment Senator Barr suggested to us was this—and those of you who are familiar with the topography of Allegheny County will appreciate the humor in such an explanation—the Monongahela River washes the shores of the sixteenth ward and then comes down around what is called the Glenwood bend and passes the fifteenth ward and then a couple of miles further down the river it washes the shores of the fourteenth ward, and because the Monongahela River washes the shores of the sixteenth and fourteenth wards that made them contiguous.

We submit to the gentlemen on the other side that we have been patient and we have been fair about these amendments which the gentleman offered and which were voted down by this body. If he proposes to submit these amendments to the House, that is his privilege, and as to his prognostication as to what will happen, if the amendments are along the same lines as those presented to us yesterday, that is just what should happen to them.

Measured from a geographical standpoint this reapportionment is fair, from a population standpoint it is almost even, from the standpoint of registration it is a toss up, with two districts which the gentleman feels are Republican—well, that is fair, two districts are Democratic but they will not admit it, in fact they deny that even that one district, where they outnumbered us two to one, will be a Democratis district and they say that is unfair. As far as the fifth district is concerned, that is a toss up because it is almost identical in population and almost identical in registration.

They say that because they outnumber the Republicans by seventy-five thousand in Allegheny County that they should have a predominant representation in Congress. For a hundred years the Republican Party in Allegheny county and thousands and thousands of Republicans have been denied Republican representation in Congress and last year when we had a chance to get them they deliberately gerrymandered that district so that we could not get even one Republican in Congress in Washington.

I say, Mr. President, that at no time have the Democrats, from Allegheny county or anywhere else in Pennsylvania, attacked the mechanical results of this bill. There has been a playing of personalities and blanket indictments made here that have not been substantiated. This bill divides Pittsburgh and Allegheny County into equitable, contiguous districts, and the only fault the Democrats find with this bill is that at long last Republicans from Allegheny county will go to Washington.

Mr. BARR. Very briefly, Mr. President, it was no fault of mine that we sat here during two years trying to get an equitable reapportionment bill and no other part of the state was willing to give up one congressman—Mr. Walker knows that is the truth and so does Mr. Geltz.

Speaking about the fourteenth ward not being contiguous to the sixteenth ward, in case you do not know it, Senator Walker does not live in the city of Pittsburgh—I do—and those wards come together at the Monongahela River at Second Avenue and Greenfield Avenue.—Mr. Geltz is shaking his head "no"—he does not know and Mr. Walker does not know either, but when I go home I will take them out and show them where it is.

He says that Brentwood was isolated in this bill. That was a mistake. We had this information downstairs and I showed it to Mr. Walker and he knows that was changed.

When we went downstairs yesterday he had the sheriff of Allegheny County, Bob Corbett, whose amendments these were, and when we came upstairs Bob Corbett called me and told me he thought my amendments were mighty fair and he thought that with one or two changes we could get together.

As a member of the minority I can only say that the majority rules and they will not allow us even to present our amendments.

The 1931 Act the gentleman was speaking about was a Republican act and at that time it was gerrymandered by the Republicans and then it so happened that the Democrats came into power in 1937 and they did not gerrymander well enough and we elected Democratic congressmen.

Senator Walker says they want a chance to elect some Republican congressmen. He forgets that in 1938 they elected the congressmen, and this bill aims to put those gentlemen back in Congress. In 1940 those two gentlemen ran and they were defeated and we elected five Democratic Congressmen. We gave up one Congressman in 1942 and elected four. Now, with a majority of seventy-five thousand it looks as though we will be allowed to elect one Democratic Congressman.

Mr. GOURLEY. Mr. President and members of the Senate, it is extremely difficult and in fact impossible for me to cast a vote in connection with this measure which will truly represent the feelings and the desires of my constituents in Greene and Washington counties.

The congressional apportionment bill for the twenty-fourth district will bring back Greene county with Washington county, and take away Allegheny county, which is now a part of the twenty-fourth congressional district.

As far as my constituents in Washington and Greene counties are concerned, it is highly beneficial to those men and women who are of the Democratic faith, for the reason that as apportionment now exists, with Allegheny county a part of Washington county, the Republicans have a majority. By substituting Greene County for Allegheny County, and making it a part again of Washington county, we will gain a Democratic majority of five thousand, approximately, so this bill will mean that ten thousand registrations would be gained, through a backlog of five thousand majority that now exists and the gain of five thousand Democratic majority which would be secured in the reapportionment of Greene county with Washington county.

Therefore, Mr. President, I want my constituents to know that I am in favor of the reapportionment bill as it pertains to Washington and Greene counties. However, in the many arguments that I have heard and from the study which I have made, I believe the reapportionment bill is grossly unfair and will bring about a great hardship to the people, generally of Allegheny county, when it is considered that there is a majority of seventy-five thousand people in Allegheny county in the Democratic Party, Therefore, Mr. President, I have no other alternative than to vote "no" on this measure.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. President, I think the members of this Senate know that there are now assembled in convention in the city of Harrisburg and C.I.O. to meet their members.

Last night I had the opportunity of sitting down with some of the C.I.O. leaders of Allegheny county. I was impressed with the attitude these men of industry are now taking, with one purpose only in mind, with one goal only before them; that goal is to win the war and to smash Hitler and the Japs.

We discussed this bill and I want to express their opinions on this bill, especially to the two Senators from Allegheny County, Mr. Geltz and Mr. Walker. They said that this bill was following the pattern, woven and developed by the labor haters, those men who would rather defeat Roosevelt than defeat Hitler.

Mr. President, this bill is a Jim Crow bill. They pointed out to me, Mr. President, that this bill was class legislation of the highest degree. It means this, that in the district that was created, which jumps over three rivers, that they place in that district all the men and the women who toil in the mills. It is saying to those men and women who are fighting the battle on the production line, "you live across the railroad tracks, you must be segregated, you have no right to be recognized by your superiority in registration," and I say to those gentlemen, Mr. Geltz and Mr. Walker, this bill is an anti-labor bill.

Oh, Mr. President, they can laugh, because I happen to know that we just passed a bill this morning that was anti-labor, not only anti-labor. but it was opposed by the big industries of Pennsylvania who now have on their payroll over two million men and women in excess of their usual employment.

When the war is won and when these two million men and women are unemployed, I wonder what is going to become of that fund! Yes, Mr. President, every move made by the Republican Party in this Senate up to date has been anti-labor. I still, Mr. President, wish to express to the Republican members of this Senate, who want to laugh, I say to them the remarks that I have made are the expressions of some of the finest labor leaders in Allegheny county, who are devoting every minute of the day to getting out production, to getting the guns and material to our boys at the front to win this war, and not doing like the Republican Party is doing, fighting the Democrats instead of fighting Hitler.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, when I heard the C.I.O. was in town, I wondered how long my colleague from Allegheny county, Senator Holland, was going to be able to keep quiet, and I found out.

Mr. President, I do not think it is necessary for me to discuss this bill which is under consideration from the standpoint as to whether or not it is fair, because I consider that my colleague, Senator Walker, made a very splendid argument in connection with that question, and anyone who is at all fair minded, it seems to me, must come to the conclusion that the bill upon which we are going to vote is so much fairer than the one which was rammed down our throats last session, that there is not even any argument that should be considered.

But there were a couple of points raised on the other side, Mr. President, and it seems to me that it ill-behooves anyone over on the Democratic side of this chamber to raise any question or make any statement in connection with the rights of the minority being prejudiced by the majority in this Senate.

My recollection is still fresh and still vivid, Mr. President, of the session held in this chamber when the Senate convened in 1939. That to me was the most disgraceful thing that was ever seen in the legislative halls of this Commonwealth and I certainly hope the most disgraceful thing that ever will be seen, when there was a question of almost even balance and a question as to a proper majority in this Senate, but because of the tactics of Kennedy, Shapiro and a few others, Senators who had served prior to that session and who had been re-elected, were not permitted their rights in this chamber as Senators, and I defy any member of the minority in this session to say that he has not received his full rights at all times to take the floor and vote and to do pretty much as he saw fit to do.

Then, there was some statement, Mr. President, I think by my colleague, Senator Barr, as to demagogues. Well, it seems to me that possibly I do not even need to say anything about that, except to suggest that those persons who attend the sessions in this chamber undoubterly have already made up their minds as to who might be the demagogues in this Senate, and on which side of this center aisle they sit. Just in case there might be a question in the mind of someone as to whether or not we did honestly try to have this thing worked out, let me corroborate my colleague, Senator Walker, as to our sitting down and as to the mistakes which were in the reapportionment plan as presented by my colleague, Senator Barr.

Of course, Mr. President, we understand what this situation is. When we peer through the smoke, we know that this plan disappoints Senator Barr, and his boss, Dave Lawrence. We know that as a result of that disappointment—we do not have a filibuster—but we have a Lawrence-Barr Democratic blockade

The district in which I live, Mr. President, as it is set up now, has a two thousand majority for the Republicans, and that is, as even my colleagues on the left must admit, a normal Republican district. Senator Barr thought that was unfair and he brought to us in his reapportionment plan a set-up for that district which he considered was fair, and in his set-up, Mr. President, the Democratic majority was over six thousand.

I think that could give us the answer to the whole situation. We can not have something that appeals as being fair to the Democrats, unless they have two to one or three to one advantage, but if it gets to the point where it is fairly even or the Democrats only have one thousand or two thousand majority, that is unfair.

For that reason, Mr. President, I think the vote should be taken now on this bill and the bill should be passed as a fair, decent reapportionment plan, including Allegheny county, and a much better bill than the Democrats gave us last year.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I will be very brief. I studied this matter very carefully and I am of the opinion the bill is unconstitutional under our Constitution, once a reapportionment having been made after a census, and this is within a given census period, so between 1940 and 1950 we have no right to enact a bill to reapportion again.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Chair wishes to advise the members of the Senate that the Committee from the House will be here in a few minutes to escort the Senators to the Hall of the House.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would suggest, in order that the record be complete, that we do not take a vote on this bill until after we come back.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Westmoreland may proceed with his remarks.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, as a member of the committee that put through that so-called monstrosity a few years ago, I want to say that I thought I was serving with honorable men, and still believe that I was.

All my life, Mr. President, I have had to live by negotiation and agreement. I was not born into a position where I could get by without negotiation or compromise on differences. Having learned my lesson very early and young in life, I have carried with me the firm belief that although radical thoughts may emanate from my mind, at times, I am conservative in the application of those thoughts when I put them into practical action. I believe that is a sound basis of applying myself to the problems of the day.

I hated to hear the gentleman from Allegheny recall the story of 1939 and the session on this Senate floor. He said it was a disgraceful sight for the people of Pennsylvania, and I agree with him, but if he will remember clearly, the will of the majority was not at that time applied to the actions of this Senate. The acts of legislation that were passed were passed because the Republican minority succeeded in purchasing, if you please, the votes of two minority members. I remember, Mr. President, when we had to crash the barber shop door to rescue a prisoner of the then Gestapo of the Republican Party. I say in all fairness, Mr. President, that our parties have both during and through the years committed crimes against majority rule, and against what you and I consider good government, but that does not excuse us here today.

I heard the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Kephart, say that this was a filibuster. Mr. President, a filibuster, if one were in progress, would not result in having more legislation passed this week than any week since the start of this session in the Senate of Pennsylvania. You say they are dilly-dallying tactics, you say this is a blockade. How in God's name could the minority of this Senate, the minority party of Pennsylvania, get any recognition for its efforts in this Senate, unless we resort to something proper and legal under the rules of the Senate, something proper and legal under the Constitution of Pennsylvania, to call to the attention of the people of this state that you have a majority here taking orders like no majority ever took since I have been a member of this body.

I want to say that the votes here as they are represented on the roster, compared to the sentiments of the members as they talked to one another, are not a true reflection of the will or the wants of the members. I say that, Mr. President, without fear of contradiction, and I will not divulge the names of the men who told me. I know what is happening, and I know the people of Pennsylvania know, not because of a filibuster but simply because we have resorted to a legal procedure, and I might say, Mr. President, it has not created any hardship. We came here yesterday morning at six o'clock, we came here this morning at seven o'clock. A great many people in Pennsylvania get up every morning at six o'clock. Some of you, born to wealth and born to the crown, perhaps, have laid in all your life, but some of us on this side happen to be men who sympathize with labor, not as demagogues but as sincere friends of the people, who, but for the grace of God and a few breaks in life of luck would still be punching a time-clock with the men who are here assembled at the C.I.O. convention, and I do not believe that I personally have reached the point where I can satisfy my own conscience and say that I have sufficient worldly goods stored up in some bank vault that I may not again be punching the clock with that group, and so, I am very jealous of their rights, I watch their interests here in the Senate of Pennsylvania, because their interests at one time was my personal direct interest, because I had to work, and I fear that perhaps some day I may have to go back to work; I fear that because, you know, I have become accustomed to two inch steaks and good whiskey and I do not like to go back to Four Kings and hamburgers.

Mr. President and members of the Senate, pass this bill; you have the votes. We were told—I understand someone has said you have the Courts, but I do not believe you have. I believe the Courts are still a free and separate branch of government, and that they may in their judicial capacity, as a branch of government, say to the Senators of Pennsylvania, this state has been reapportioned once and under the Constitution that is sufficient, and so, Mr. President, for fear of stopping the kind words that I know I am going to hear about Thomas Jefferson, and for fear of being blamed for keeping the Senate from listening to the gentlemen who now head the two important states that played such an important part in the life of Jefferson, the one that gave him birth and the other that gave him fame, for fear of stopping you Senators from hearing advice that you ought to take more to heart, I will conclude with the prediction that I know you will have a majority of twenty-eight votes for the bill and a small minority against it. However, I do not believe that I or any other man here has covered the entire ground of this session's activities. We all know the activities behind the scenes.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred.)

Mr. GOURLEY. Mr. President, for the reasons given in my oral statement, I vote "no".

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I call up from the Calendar at this time Senate Bill No. 71, Printer's No. 239, which went over in its order temporarily, earlier in today's Session.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 71, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section four article two of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania providing for annual sessions of the General Assembly salary of members and annual general appropriations

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby resolves as follows

Section 1 The following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be and the same is hereby proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof

That section four article two of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 4 The General Assembly shall meet at twelve o'clock noon on the first Tuesday of January every year and at other times when convened by the Governor but at the regular session in even numbered years there shall be no legislation upon subjects other than those designated by the Governor and the general appropriation and other appropriation laws

The members of the General Assembly shall receive such salary for annual and special sessions as shall be fixed by statute

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Consitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President and members of the Senate, my contemporary, the old gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, yesterday remarked that the Democratic caucus was not always harmonious, that the ties do not bind very tightly but that the Republican caucus seems to have better control, because there is a kind of closed shop in the Republican caucus.

With that kind of introduction I would like to say that this bill of mine has been on this front page of the Calendar so long that I am getting rather fond of it, and that gives me a certain standing with my constituents, that I am on the front page—at least of the Calendar.

I had a very discouraging letter from the Secretary of the budget. I wrote to Dr. Logan that I would like him to send me a letter endorsing my bill, Senate Bill No. 71, and he sent me a letter the other way around, but I am honest enough to tell you part of it. My great point in this bill—there are several—is that it is easier to write a budget for one year than it is to write a budget for two years—and I had testimony on that subject which I read here before you, quoting the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Assembly in New York state, but Dr. Logan has let me down because he says that he can perfectly well write a budget for two years unless, he says, there is a greater need for relief money, and he admits then that there is difficulty.

So I went to the caucus, the closed shop caucus, this afternoon and I stood up and said that I was defeated on this bill and I thought I would use that phrase to strike it from the Calendar—that always sounded pretty fine to me, to strike a bill from the Calendar—but they said no, the right thing is to recommit it, and I rather agreed to recommit it, but I am saying this because I am not bound by the caucus—they did not tell me to recommit the bill; it was my own idea and I changed my mind.

I am now going to have a vote on this bill, if you please, and I recognize probably this is the world's worst moment to propose annual sessions of the Legislature, since we have been suffering here from biennial, centennial and diuturnal sessions, and to propose annual sessions seems to me to take some courage.

I was going to practice what is called social ostracism on Senator Barr, I was never going to speak to him again, but I am discouraged. He and Senator Walker lambasted each other here on the floor, and then, when I was eating my lunch quietly today they barged in with their arms around each other's necks and they came up and almost put their arms around me nearly choked me, as if they were intimate friends. They were lawyers and perhaps that might explain it; members of the Bar are supposed to strive amiably, and eat and especially drink as friends.

Now then, as you all know, New York has an annual session, New Jersey has an annual session, and they closed their sessions a month ago while we are going on—I don't know—indefinitely—so that is an argument for this bill, and when it comes to that, as I said, I am fond of the bill because, after all, I have worked pretty hard on it—I have read it at least once.

I went to Mr. John Fertig, and I employed Mr. Fertig, that is, as my lawyer I employed him—of course Mr. Hannestad comes free—but I employed both of them to write this bill and they wrote it and they took the word "budget" out because the word "budget" was not recognized in 1874; when Senator Henry I. Wilson and I sat in that convention of 1874, there was no such thing as a budget at that time, and they had to take the word "budget" out of the bill and then they forgot to take it out of the title and that is what has delayed me in making these remarks.

Now then, to give the real reason for this bill, we have heard here that we are very much opposed to delegation of power—we are all powerful here, we seldom know it, but we are all powerful—and Governor James, you know, wanted to have us delegate power to him and Governor Martin says there are no "must" bills and he would not ask for any delegation of power, but just as soon as you go home, watch out, watch what will happen—when the cat is away the mice will play.

Another argument in favor of my bill is that if we held annual sessions we would not raise this question of delegating power to the Governor, because we would always be here.

The very best argument is this, you may not approve of annual sessions but, you know, owing to this Constitution of Senator Henry I. Wilson and myself, the bill will have to pass two sessions and this is the first session, and therefore you might pay me the compliment of voting for it now and then you can change your mind and vote it down at the next session. That is a perfectly practical thing to do. I had another argument but I have lost it so I will close.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, it is true that Senator Walker and I did see Senator Woodward at noon. We were going down the street, burying the hatchet, but if you look at our backs you will find a hatchet in each of our backs. Dr. Woodward was very solicitous of my health and said something to the effect that I was Peck's bad boy and he said that I ought to be in bed.

Mr. WOODWARD. The gentleman ought to go to bed.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred.)

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I rise on a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from McKean will proceed.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. What are we voting on, Mr. President? What is the question before the Senate?

The PRESIDENT. The question is will the Senate agree to Senate Bill No. 71 on final passage.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. I appreciate that, Mr. President, but I had understood that there was to be another procedure and I am now inquiring, is the question now before the Senate shall the bill pass finally?

The PRESIDENT. That is exactly the question. If there is any other procedure the Chair has not heard of it.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Thank you, Mr. President. I am not in any way blaming the Chair, but I understood there was another procedure to be followed and some other member also understood there was another procedure to be followed, and I just wanted to know.

The PRESIDENT. If there is any further procedure it has not been called to the attention of the Chair.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Whereas The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has heretofore made a legislative finding of fact that "milk is the most necessary human food vital for the promotion of the public's health and for development of strength and vigor in the race" and

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Luzerne will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I wish to interrogate the Minority and Majority Floor Leaders separately. First I would like to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McGINNIS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. In my home town, during my absence from the Senate, I read in the papers that the Minority and the Majority Floor Leaders had stood on this floor protesting against the absence of certain members.

Now, Mr. President, I want to ask Senator McGinnis, if a man was away for the past fourteen weeks, from this Senate, what has he been absent from.

Mr. McGINNIS. Well, Mr. President, we did make that statement, both the Majority Floor Leader and myself, and a resolution was also passed by the entire body here. I do not think that was directed particularly at Dr. Mundy, because we know that he is very busy in the hospital up there, on account of the shortage of physicians and surgeons, but there were a good many other members absent from this body, and we felt that we should bring it to the attention of those who were absent too often.

Mr. MUNDY. I assure you, Mr. President, that I had no arrangement with the Senator from Pittsburgh to pay such a compliment to me for my absence.

May I now interrogate the Majority Floor Leader?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes indeed, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, does the Majority Leader, in view of the performances of the past fifteen weeks, seriously think that any Senator was derelict in his duty in being held away from the session in view of the legislative performance or both bodies? In the last few weeks does the Senator from Delaware really think any Senator missed any vital function in his absence, any vital function of government?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I think I heard the Doctor's question but I am sorry I could not follow very closely. Yes, Mr. President, we always miss the presence of an able legislator like Dr. Mundy.

However, what happened here the other day was this; one of the members of the Senate threatened to make a call of the Senate in the next week and the reason was that there were not enough members here to conduct the business of the Senate, and then the Democratic Floor Leader and myself sponsored a resolution, aimed at no one particularly, which provided that members of the Senate should not be absent unless they were absent with leave.

Now, if my good friend, Dr. Mundy, is working in a hospital and I understand that he is, and I know that surgeons are very scarce, of course, that is a good reason.

I do want to say, however, that regardless of what has or has not been done, that is not the question, as members of the Senate should attend sessions of the Senate unless they are absent with proper leave and for good reason.

Does that answer the interrogation of the gentleman from Luzerne.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. MUNDY. I request that the Senate body and the President grant me leave of absence for the remainder of this legislative week.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none. Leave is granted.

RE-REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. CROWE, from the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 135, recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment the vote by which it passed finally and third reading reconsidered, entitled:

An Act to amend section seven hundred sixteen of the act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1225) entitled "An act concerning game and other wild birds and wild animals and amending revising consolidating and changing the law relating thereto" authorizing the sale and purchase of hides of lawfully killed deer under certain circumstances and making it unlawful to buy or sell raccoons for propagating purposes.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COX asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Majority Floor Leader.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. COX. I would like to inquire of the Majority Floor Leader if the majority party is attempting to make any disposition concerning Senator Walker's sub-committee of Judiciary General to investigate penal affairs.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, that matter has not yet been taken up by our caucus, but if the Senator desires I can tell him how I personally feel on that proposition.

Mr. COX. Does the gentleman from Delaware care to express his personal opinion?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes, Mr. President, I am against it personally because we have a Joint State Government Commission to make such investigations and I think it is a sort of waste of the taxpayer's money to appropriate money for the Joint State Government Commission and then appropriate an additional $10,000 or $15,000 for another commission in the Legislature.

Mr. COX. Will the Senator from Delaware tell me if he feels that the only commission to study penal affairs would be the Joint State Government Commission.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, under the law setting up the Joint State Government Commission they can have other members of the Legislature make studies. It seems to me that would be a better way of doing it, because the Joint State Government Commission already has the personnel, a secretary and all that sort of thing; that is already there in the Joint State Government Commission.

Mr. COX. Will the gentleman from Delaware tell me what the appropriation is for the Joint State Government Commission.

Mr. HEYBURN. For the next biennium, Mr. President?

Mr. COX. Will the gentleman from Delaware tell me what the appropriation was for the last biennium?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will have to look that up, Mr. President, I think it was something like $65,000.

Mr. COX. I would suggest, Mr. President, the reason for my inquiry, as I have indicated, is that I am very much interested in an investigation such as the one indicated by Senator Walker, and I went to the trouble of preparing a bill to set up a commission to study this matter. I am perfectly willing to bow to the majority of the Senate, however, if they feel that a separate committee should not be set up and the matter should be referred to the Joint State Government Commission.

I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Delaware, however, as to what the procedure would be for the Senate to insist that the Joint State Government Commission make a study of penal affairs.

Mr. HEYBURN. That could be done by a resolution, Mr. President, directing the Joint State Government Commission to make a study or to appoint a sub-committee to make a study. I do not think that is necessary, however, and I want to say that is my own personal view; it has not been discussed in caucus.

Mr. COX. I appreciate the attitude of the gentleman from Delaware. The reason I have asked these questions is due to the fact that the sponsor of the bill has indicated to me that there were many people on that side who felt that way and I think that this matter is one of such tremendous importance that it should not be allowed to die in the closing days of the session.

I also would like to state that I introduced a bill proposing to investigate the educational system of Pennsylvania, which certainly needs investigation, and I would not want that idea to die in this session.

HOUSE MESSAGES

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

FELICITATIONS EXTENDED TO LEGISLATIVE CORRESPONDENTS' ASSOCIATION

In the House of Representatives, April 13, 1943.

Whereas, The Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association was organized in 1895 and has been in continuous and uninterrupted existence since that date; and

Whereas, The Association has been recognized by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in its rules; and

Whereas, It has been the custom of the Association to hold a biennial dinner during regular sessions of the General Assembly in which members of the General Assembly have participated; and

Whereas, This year is the 48th anniversary of the organization of the Association which is the oldest association of its kind in the Nation; and

Whereas, The members of the Association have voted to dispense with their biennial dinners for the duration of the war; and

Whereas, The Association has used its funds, ordinarily expended toward the cost of these biennial dinners, to purchase War Bonds; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania felicitates the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association on its forty-eighth anniversary; and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly expresses its hope that conditions will be such in 1945 that the Senators and Representatives can unite with the correspondents in celebrating in a fitting and appropriate manner the Golden Anniversary of this Association; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association at its offices in the News Room in the Capitol.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

He also presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read as follows and referred to the Committee on Federal Relations:

CONGRESS MEMORIALIZED TO FURNISH TRANSPORTATION TO PHILIPPINES AFTER CESSATION OF HOSTILITIES TO MEN WHO FORMED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE

In the House of Representatives, March 17, 1943.

After the discovery of the Philippine Archipelago four hundred years ago by Ferdinand Magellan, and until 1898 the islands were held and ruled by Spain.

Following the sinking of the Maine in February, 1898, the declaration of war against Spain and the taking of Manila by Admiral Dewey, the Spanish Government ceased therein and was succeeded by United States Military Rule.

In June, 1898, the Filipinos proclaimed their independence with Aguinaldo as President, and within less than a year which was marked by increased hostility toward the United States, the Melolos Constitution was proclaimed declaring the Philippines a Republic.

On the night of February 4th, 1899, the inevitable conflict between the Americans and the Filipinos was precipitated and Aguinaldo declared war on the United States resulting in a struggle which was not terminated until the capture of Aguinaldo by General Frederick Funston, two years later.

Many of the American soldiers who participated in quelling the Philippine insurrection and bringing peace to the islands and their inhabitants and delivering them from starvation, are alive today and are deeply interested in the freedom of the natives and their full and complete independence, which under the terms of the Tydings-McDuffie Act is scheduled to occur in 1945.

The seizure of the islands by Japan will not interfere with the realization of that dream by the Filipinos, for before the day fixed in 1945 for their independence the Japs will have been driven from the Islands and the loyal natives will be better equipped than before to take their place among the free peoples of the world.

Nothing could better serve to mark this epochal event than to have the men who delivered those islands from slavery in 1899 return as Ambassadors of Good Will to the new nation for whose existence they will in great measure have been responsible; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the Congress of the United States to take such measures as may be necessary to furnish free transportation on United States warships or other vessels to and from the Philippines as soon after the cessation of present hostilities as is possible to all those men who formed a part of the expeditionary force that made possible the freedom of the Filipinos and the creation of the new Republic of the Philippines; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to the President of the United States, the presiding officers of each House of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. This question of personal privilege is directed towards the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. ———, I am trying to forget his name—Senator Barr, to make him really sick when he hears this news.

On these pages of the Calendar, from page 19 to the end of the chapter, page 26, there are twelve bills. Those twelve bills contain 15,173 words which we have to hear. I do not know the cost of the printing of those twelve bills, 15,000 words, which is to accomplish the change of one word, namely, to change the name of the Motor Police to the State Police; it is a change of the word "motor" to the word "state," and we are afflicted with 15,000 words and twelve bills in order to do that. I consider myself underprivileged.

The PRESIDENT. Would the Senator from Philadelphia object to granting leave of absence to the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, during the reading of these bills.

Mr. WOODWARD. I would be delighted if he went home and went to bed.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in connection with a visit of Democratic members of the House and Senate to the Governor I ask unanimous consent to make a statement.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. KEPHART. I do not wish to object to Senator Shapiro making a speech, but I would like to ask for leave of absence for myself for the balance of the afternoon so that I do not have to listen; with a filibuster going on today I think that is enough for one day.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion that is not a proper request.

Mr. KEPHART. I object to the speech.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am quite sure the gentleman from Philadelphia, my colleague, Senator Kephart, if he listens—I do not say he would not understand, I would not be so unkind—I know he is a good legislator and is interested in everything that is for the purpose of bringing about good legislation.

The committee I mentioned visited the Governor and before stating our position I want to say that the Governor was very gracious, very courteous, very attentive and very considerate. We discussed some of the matters that are contained in this statement which I have before me, and he said he would give all of the suggestions consideration and that we would hear further from him. Therefore I feel that I should read to the members of the Senate the statement which we left with the Governor.

Mr. JAMES. May I inquire, Mr. President, of what committee the gentleman from Philadelphia is speaking.

Mr. SHAPIRO. A committee appointed by the Democratic members of the House and Senate to call on the Governor.

The statement is as follows, Mr. President, it is addressed to His Excellency, the Governor, Honorable Edward Martin, and is as follows:

"To his Excellency, Honorable Governor Edward Martin.

"The Democratic party assumes full responsibility for invoking the provision of the Constitution that all bills shall be read at length. For fourteen weeks we have been waiting patiently for the verbal promise of cooperation between the two parties to be put into action and for evidences of a real effort on the part of the administration to pass legislation in aid of the war and in anticipation of post war necessities.

"For fourteen weeks nothing has been done in either of these directions. For fourteen weeks we have listened to the introduction or passage of bills ripping out the Parole system, the Civil Service system, Public Utility Commissioners, Democratic Congressmen, mercantile appraisers and transferring the appointing powers from Democratic elected officials to Republican officials.

"Whatever legislation has been passed, was generally either personal or political. In all, eighteen bills were finally enacted into law. The best information available indicates that the cost of this Legislature, including tomorrow's payroll, will have reached the amount of $1,101,207.70, a cost in excess of $60,000.00 per act.

This extravagance in time and money is complete justification for our action in invoking the Constitutional provision, requiring bills to be read at length, for it has already succeeded in its sole purpose to focus the attention of the public on the actions of the Republican majority party in this Legislature; to serve as a protest against the use of the power of votes for political aggrandizement in the period of this tragic war.

"The eyes of the people of the Commonwealth are on this Legislature. The objective having been attained, the time has arrived for constructive suggestion. It is timely that we should bring the matter officially to your attention, for you are the Governor of this Commonwealth; you are the titular head of the Republican party. We Democrats remember your promises of cooperation and your pleas for passage of legislation that would help to win the war. You said, and we agree with you, that "nothing else matters". Nothing else matters except the winning of the war and the preservation of the peace.

The method we adopted was the only way which we could make our protest heard and we hope that now these matters have been brought to the light of day, there may be an end to the use of this Session as a political vehicle and a return to the patriotic duty that this Legislature can, with unity and cooperation, carry out to the fullest extent.

With that end in view and in the hope that the promised cooperation can become a fact, we make the following suggestions:

(1) That a Committee be appointed consisting of members of the Senate and House from both parties to confer with you for the purpose of bringing about the passage of the following legislation.

(2) That a Planning Commission be appointed and that there be transferred to that commission sufficient funds to enable it to become an effective agency for post war readjustments. (There can be transferred to that commission a surplus of $30,000,000.00 available in the Motor License Fund at the end of this biennium). There should be transferred to this commission any surplus over and above current revenues remaining at the end of this biennium.

(3) That legislation be passed to aid the Federal Government in enforcing price ceilings and in policing "black markets".

(4) That a Legislative Committee be appointed to confer with Federal and State Health authorities for the purpose of recommending and enacting into law at this Session such protective measures as are necessary to guard the health and welfare of persons employed in war industries and specifically to prepare and pass legislation at this Session necessary to furnish treatment for the care and prevention of the spread of tuberculosis and social diseases in congested areas.

(5) The speedy enactment into law of bills now on the calendar and such other bills as may be necessary to give authority to Federal agencies to enlarge their activities so as to aid in slum clearance and to supply necessary housing for defense workers.

(6) The passage of legislation amending the existing Civil Service laws so as to provide an opportunity to the returning men and women in the armed forces to compete on an equal basis with all appointees after a given date without destroying the principles of Civil Service.

(7) Reduction in taxes not only for corporations, but in those emergency taxes now in existence which burden the individual citizen directly, namely, the Emergency Cigarette Tax and the Emergency Gasoline Tax.

(8) That this Legislature pass appropriate legislation to make financial provision for returning men and women of the armed forces following the cessation of hostilities.

(9) That legislation be passed granting to school teachers and other school employees an increase in pay sufficient to enable them to meet the increased cost of living.

(10) That passage of legislation which will disrupt the friendly relations between employer and employee be discouraged.

(11) That effective legislation be passed which will enable the Commonwealth to cooperate with the Federal Government and procure Federal funds for the purpose of establishing proper child care centers for the children of defense workers.

This is a frank, plain and sincere statement made with the same purpose which motivated our protest in the Senate and the House. We give you our assurance with equal sincerity that we are willing and anxious to cooperate to the fullest extent with every move that has for its objective—the winning of the war, the maintenance of the morale of the industrial and agricultural workers of Pennsylvania and the preservation of the peace. With equal frankness we say that we will continue to protest and give pitiless publicity to every effort that may be made to use this Legislature for political purposes and to the failure of the majority party to use the Legislature to carry out not only its promises, but its duty to all the citizens of this Commonwealth."

I should say in fairness that the Governor called my attention to the fact that some of the issues to which we referred were on the Calendar or were in the House or were in committee.

I called the attention of the Governor very respectfully to the fact that this is true and that is the reason we said in our statement "To bring about the passage of legislation."

I want also to say in conclusion, to repeat what I said, I hope that we can get the consideration from the members of the Senate that we got today from the Governor.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WALKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, one of the most dangerous things you can do in this Senate is to make extemporaneous rebuttal to a prepared speech of the distinguished gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is about to say to the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, that we have been in session for approximately eleven hours, and while it is very natural that the gentleman from Allegheny among others, should wish to reply to the speech which has just been made, it is quite possible that a night's refreshing sleep would permit the gentleman to make better speeches tomorrow.

Mr. WALKER. Will the Chair bear with me, Mr. President?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair will gladly hear what the gentleman from Allegheny has to say.

Mr. WALKER. I am going to insist, Mr. President, with full realization of the danger that I may be sticking my chin out on a thing like this, but I should like to make a suggestion to the Governor—I was not on the committee that went over to see him—but I would like to say, Governor, when this filibuster started here in the Senate there was not any discussion of a lag in legislation on the floor or a falling down in the program that was adopted by the Republican Party in its platform and enunciated by you in your inaugural address. Everyone knows full well that when a Legislative session starts there is a certain drag between the time bills are introduced and committees have a chance to study the legislation, and they are brought out and placed on the Calendar, and carefully studied, and everybody who has had any legislative experience at all knows full well that as a session progresses there is a certain step-up in the number of bills which appear on the Calendar and the number of bills which pass in the Senate and are sent to the House for concurrence, and it is obvious that in the last two weeks of this present session there has been an increase in the number of bills coming over to the Senate for concurrence from the House, which shows that is true in that chamber as well as in this Senate.

Last week when the bill on congressional reapportionment was reported out of the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment, the challenge was made in front of us that this filibuster would start, and, Govrnor, I would like to suggest to you that it is not because of any dereliction on the part of your administration that we are going through this business of having bills read at length, so do not let them lay this at your door; it is because they are trying to justify the silly position in which they find themselves, by saying that you have failed in your duty, and Governor, when the doors close in this 1943 session of the Legislature, it will go down in history as one of the greatest in Pennsylvania, and when this Legislature adjourns sine die we will not be ashamed of the job that has been performed.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HEYBURN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I am not going to make a speech but I would like unanimous consent to just say a word in reply to what Senator Shapiro has said.

It seems to me that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has made an unwarranted attack here and of course he is actually trying to slip out of a ridiculous position. I just want to talk about a couple of misstatements he has made.

I notice Senator Shapiro said we ought to co-operate and pass some sort of a planning commission bill. Mr. President, I just want to say that if it had not been for this Democratic filibuster, that bill would have been through this Senate this week, having passed the House two weeks ago. The same thing, Mr. President, goes for all the statements he has made, they are ridiculous, without foundation, and it seems to me they fall of their own weight.

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, talked of the school teachers' problem, Mr. President. The Committee on Education has not been able to work this week on account of this filibuster, so all the speech of the gentleman from Philadelphia is intended to do, it seems to me, is to attempt to slide out of this silly situation in which they find themselves.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the Senators on the other side persist on calling insistence on a constitutional requirement a filibuster. Perhaps a filibuster may be explained by saying that when a filibuster is in effect no legislation passes. Here legislation has passed. If you do not like the requirements of the Constitution, then change the Constitution, but do not insist on calling this a filibuster.

I do not feel that it is a ridiculous situation to come here and sit and listen to bills, and if you go ahead with your program and pay more attention to reading of the bills and to passing legislation, then we will not delay the operation of this Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair will be glad to entertain a motion to adjourn.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Thursday, April 15, 1943, at 10:00 o'clock a. m. Eastern War Time.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 5:33 o'clock p. m. Eastern War Time until Thursday, April 15, 1943, at 10:00 o'clock a. m. Eastern War Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, April 14, 1943

The House met at 11:30 a. m.
The SPEAKER (Ira T. Fiss) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Lester C. Updegrove, offered the following prayer:

O God, we thank Thee for valient men of former years and of our own times through whom victories for humanity have been won. May we know that true greatness still consists in serving Thee and others unselfishly. Grant, O Lord, that the words of the poet may inspire us to greater humanitarian achievements:

"Lives of all great men remind us,
We should make our lives sublime,
And departing, leave behind us
Footprints, in the sands of time."

For Thy name's sake, we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Tuesday, April 13, 1943.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Tuesday, April 13, 1943, when, on motion of Mr. MOORE, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

JOINT SESSION

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR JOHN C. BELL PRESIDING

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR BELL. The Joint Assembly will be in order pending the arrival of the Governor, and the distinguished guests.

The SERGEANT-AT-ARMS OF THE SENATE. Mr. President, I present to you the Committee appointed to escort the Governor to the Hall of the House.

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President, we have the pleasure and the honor of presenting to you His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, the Honorable Edward Martin, and the distinguished guests.

The PRESIDENT. Senators Stiefel and Stevens will come to the platform as members of this Committee.

Members of the General Assembly, the Chair has the pleasure of presenting the Chairman of the Thomas Jefferson Bi-centennial Commission of Pennsylvania, our distinguished colleague, Senator Dr. Leroy E. Chapman.

Mr. CHAPMAN. The Thomas Jefferson Bi-centennial Commission was created by an act of the Legislature to give expression of our admiration of Thomas Jefferson's personification of democracy.

We had extensive pre-war plans for the celebration but found in order not to diminish the war effort those plans had to be curtailed.

Thomas Jefferson, the symbol of the Declaration of Independence, the statute of freedom, and Governor of Virginia, the president of the University of Virginia and of the United States, we honor him who has sworn on the altar of God, eternal hostility for every form of tyranny over the mind of man.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair now has the pleasure of presenting Dr. Robert L. Johnson, former Relief Admintrator of Pennsylvania, President of Temple University, Chairman of the State-wide Jefferson Bi-centennial Commission of Educators, a man noted for his outstanding ability and accomplishments.

Dr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, Governor, Members of the General Assembly, distinguished guests, when I was honored more than a year ago, by being named Chairman of the State-Wide Jefferson Bicentennial Committee, it was my thought that through a program that would be carried into every home and school and forum in the state, we could make Thomas Jefferson live again, and re-introduce to us those principles which his generation fought to establish, and ours fights to save. Few of us realized how then, heavy would be the war's demands on public time and attention. We know now. The result is this meeting today. We couldn't go to the people in all of Pennsylvania's towns and boroughs, but we could do the next best thing. We could go to their duly elected and trusted law-makers, and we could ask them, as our emissaries, to take the message of Jefferson back to the homes and schools which they so ably represent. This we do.

There is nothing strange or new about this message. You know it well. And that is precisely why it should be re-examined. It must never become a commonplace.

It would seem logical to look at it first in its original setting.

Early in 1826 an old man looked across the lawn from the great house on a Virginia mountain top. It was the house to which he had brought the bride of his youth and in which he had lived out his life, except for sojourns, some of them long ones, in Williamsburg, Washington, Philadelphia, Paris, and other places where public duty had called him.

The hills about Monticello were becoming green, and life was astir again, but for himself, the master knew the sands were almost run out. Hence, though he seemed to look into the valley, he really was looking down through sixty years of public life, and making an evaluation.

He had been governor of Virginia, minister to France, Washington's Secretary of State, and the Vice President under John Adams. Himself the president for two terms, he had been, as an elder statesman, the counselor and confidante of the two men who successively followed him in office—Madison and Monroe. Thus one might almost say he had been part of five national administrations, a record still unsurpassed.

He had doubled his country's domain by the Louisiana Purchase, he had founded a new political party, he had secured the adoption of the decimal system of currency, he had obtained legislation that forbade the importation of slaves, and its inventive genius had given mankind many minor, but substantial satisfactions. One was that symbol of authority and instrument of relxation, the swivel chair. Another was the leather top buggy, which has utilitarian and romantic associations for the minds of millions of men and women still alive.

Perhaps these and other achievements flashed through his mind as he evaluated his career, but his judgment unerringly rested on three deeds that might merit most the remembrance of his countrymen. Then, while time and strength still remained, he wrote that simple epitaph: "Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, and Father of the University of Virginia."

Each of these services represented a major freedom for which he had striven. They were freedom from political tyranny, freedom of conscience, and freedom from ignorance.

I propose, then, on this 200th anniversary of this man's birth, that we accept his own evaluation, and organize our thinking around the three freedoms that he believed to be the most significant accomplishments of his life.

It does not matter really, of course, whether we talk about three freedoms, or four freedoms or ten freedoms. We can discuss the freedoms inscribed on a Virginia tombstone or those drawn up for the Atlantic Charter. The conclusions that we reach will be the same.

Freedom is not a limited quantity that can be segmented, labeled, or pigeon-holed. It is a cumulative force that has new dimensions, and new manifestations in each generation. Like every other force in nature, freedom is always confronted, by an opposing force. This means that every generation must win its own freedom in conflict—if not, in physical violence, then in intellectual or spiritual struggle. The point is that freedom cannot be securely packaged and sent insured to a person who is remote in time or space. It is a privilege that must be earned.

Jefferson's age was in some respects much like our own. In his administration the little American fleet was fighting along the shores of North Africa, bombarding the cities of Tripoli as our great air fleets are today bombing the cities of Tunisia just next door. Our foes then were Moorish pirates—fairly jolly fellows who were intent only in plying their trade of piracy and extortion on the high seas. They had no thought of enslaving whole peoples, and fettering their minds, as well as their persons.

Jefferson also saw the rise and fall of a European despot whose might was broken on the snowy plains of Russia, and whose defeat was accomplished by a combination of nations on the western front. The imminence of a historical parallel to this, in our own times is pleasant to contemplate.

But the important thing is that a revolutionary movement was sweeping the world in Jefferson's time as it is sweeping it today, and America was caught up in it then, as it has been now. The only difference is in the direction of the pendulum's swing. That revolution was started to make men free; this one was started to make men slaves.

Jefferson's contribution both to that struggle, and to this, was a set of principles, and his faith in the common man. This has always been the secret of democracy's strength. Jefferson knew that men in whom others believe, come to believe in themselves. Nothing is more magnificent than the deeds that can be done by persons of only ordinary ability, who thoroughly believe in themselves. As a business executive, I have usually found that when I am depending on a man, and I let him know it, he proves to be dependable. One of the most thrilling things about a university president in these difficult times is seeing boys—and girls, too, rise to accept the responsibilities of men and women under the compulsions of war. They seem to mature overnight. They have a hard job, a perilous job to do. But they will do it. Their families, their university, their country believe in them.

Democracy works like that. It treats its people not as subjects, but as partners in a common enterprise.

Jefferson expressed the ideal for democracy when he said:

> "When every man feels that he is a participator in the government of affairs, not merely at an election one day in a year, but every day, when there shall be not a man in the State who will not be a member of some one of its councils, great or small, he will let his heart be torn out of his body, sooner than his power be wrested from him by a Caesar or a Bonaparte."

The ideal of every man belonging to some council, great or small, was lost in the rapid growth of our country, but when peace returns, and the sense of emergency passes we shall again be faced with the problem of getting the results that would come from wide participation in local government.

"Every government degenerates," said Jefferson, "when trusted to the rulers of the people alone. The people themselves, therefore, are the only safe depositories."

It is true that almost every defect in our government has stemmed directly, or indirectly to "political apathy," in great masses of our population. This apathy may be expected to increase in proportion to the growth of centralization in government, and the increase in our population. After the war, the solution of this problem will continue to be America's first item of unfinished business.

Local institutions always seemed important to Jefferson. Although his broad culture and urbane spirit placed him at ease in foreign embassies and in the courts of the world, his heart was always in Albemarle County, Virginia. Strong state government and able administrators at the helm in the several states were essential to his political theory for several reasons. In the first place, he feared dictatorship, and he counted on the states to provide grassroots opposition that would be strong enough to balk the ambition of any man who would be a Caesar. Secondly, he understood enough about engineering to know that the more rigid is a structure, the more likely it is to give way under severe strains, and he was afraid that a government strongly centered in the nation's capital would be unable to withstand the strain of clashing state and sectional interests.

For these reasons, Jefferson, along with Washington, has sometimes been tagged as a provincially-minded Virginia squire, who would be wholly unable to appreciate the united efforts of nations associated, to secure themselves against depotism, and to establish a rule of freedom and justice.

To speculate on what an eighteenth-century statesman would do if he were confronted with the twentieth century's problems of state, is a pastime that is innocent and diverting, though usually without profit. Every man is the product of his own time and place, and serves only that time and place. Many excerpts may be found in Jefferson's voluminous writings that would be labeled isolationist if uttered by a contemporary, about contemporaneous matters. But his principles must be viewed as a whole, and the man himself must be studied against his own background. Such study reveals nowhere a feeling that America, in this shrinking world, can withdraw from the family of mankind. This great humanitarian believed that the highest moral codes controlling the relations of individuals, should likewise guide conduct of the nations toward one another, but he recognized there was little likelihood of this, unless such codes were supported by some enforcing authority.

In Jefferson's time, as in ours, many suggestions were being made for a federation of European states on the order of the union of states in America. If he was skeptical of this planning, it was because he saw only too clearly that such unions were doomed to fail unless their members shared common principles such as those that bound the American colonies.

The three freedoms which Jefferson's epitaph commemorates cannot be discussed separately. They are closely intertwined and none could survive without the others. The Declaration of Independence gave a complete theory of government but that government can stand only when supported by men who have unfettered consciences and who have been the beneficiaries of universal education.

All three of these concepts of freedom are the products not only of a great mind, but a great heart. Jefferson's greatness rests as much on his love of human kind, as on his intellect. His theory of government is a practical expression of the doctrine of human brotherhood—"that all men are created equal."

He didn't believe, of course, that all men are alike, intrinsically, for natural endowments vary, but he wanted the artificial obstacles removed that might prevent men from winning such positions as they deserved That may be worth remembering, when we turn our critical fire on that element of the American character that we call individualism. Jefferson was always the individualist. His whole career emphasized not machines, or money or organization, but men. He believed in individuals and sought to give them opportunity. That was why his views of democratic government do not take the form of blueprints. He happens to have been not only a statesman, but one of the great architects of his time, yet his plans for the American state include few rigid specifications. As a student of history, he knew that no government was so bad, it would not work well in good hands, nor was any government so good it would not work badly, in bad hands.

Our post-war planners—and I think there is hardly a man alive who does not have some plan for the brave new world—ought to accept that truth, as a starting point. Broad principles to work with, and man of good will to build on those principles—that, is the beginning of all good governmental enterprise.

As it is with government, so it is with religion. Jefferson believed religion should rest on the basis of love, not of force. Ecclesiastical despotism was as hateful to him, as political depotism. Moreover, religion does not need the support of government to enable it to overcome error.

> "Truth", he said, "is great, and will prevail if left to herself. She is the proper and sufficient antagonist of error and has nothing to fear from conflict unless disarmed of her natural weapons, free argument and debate."

This argument, which he applied to freedom of conscience, he likewise used in support of freedom of the press.

That's the way freedom is. Once it comes into being you can't set limitations to it. Freedom in government leads to freedom of conscience which involves freedom of speech and press, which means freedom in education, which brings greater freedom in social and economic relationships. Freedom in one nation contributes to freedom in other nations until finally no nation feels secure in its freedom, unless that freedom is shared by all nations. Thus you see what a dynamic force it was that Jefferson and his contemporaries were releasing on an unsuspecting world. No wonder many men feared it, both in this country and in England. Their intellectual descendants still fear it, and perhaps with good reason.

The freedom of the press is a case in point. I suppose no American has had better cause for resenting utterances of the press that were both unfair, and untrue than did Jefferson. He lived in a time which historians have called the era of black journalism, and many were the moments in his career when the air about him was thick with the dead cats being hurled at him by his journalistic foes. Yet he took it philosophically, sometimes jocosely.

Musing on the scurrility of the Federalist press, he once reflected:

> "It is like the chimneys to our dwellings; it carries off the smoke of party which otherwise might stifle the nation."

So great, in fact, was his faith in the triumph of truth, that he gave to newspapers one of the highest tributes ever paid by a man in public life, when he said that if he must choose between government without newspapers, and newspapers without government he would not hesitate to choose the latter. He knew that government without newspapers, or some other form of public correction, was the surest path to dictatorship.

I believe one of the important contributions to the present-day war effort has been critical comment by the newspapers on that effort. Some of that criticism has been unfair, some has been inspired by political motive, but I know of no way of eliminating only bad criticism. We must accept all kinds in the interest of good government.

If I were in public life and holding elective office, I would put the life and writings of Thomas Jefferson at the top of my list of required reading. I would do that regardless of what label I carried on my political banner. After all, Jefferson does not belong to the Democratic Party, any more than Lincoln belongs to the Republican party. He belongs to the American people, and his qualities of statesmanship are the essentials of political success.

I have mentioned his willingness and ability to accept the sharp barbs that come to all men who fight in political wars. This was only a phase of his larger serenity. As Claude Bowers says, his hates were reserved for principles, policies, and systems, not for men. John Adams, his political foe of middle life, was his "ancient friend" in the years of their retirement. Alexander Hamilton, when he cast the vote that made Jefferson president, said that if there was any man in the world he ought to hate, it was Jefferson, but the public welfare compelled him in his choice.

To be most successful in politics, one should sincerely love and respect mankind in the mass, for love begets love. Jefferson believed in the common man, and the common man placed its faith in Jefferson.

That was the difference between Jefferson and Hamilton. Hamilton feared, and distrusted the masses. Both men, of course, were right. Nothing in the world is more dangerous, more fearsome than great masses of ignorant people. The point is that Jefferson looked one step beyond that condition. He knew that ignorance need not be the natural state of men. Give a boy a book, a teacher, and one or two discerning friends; give him a desire for good things, reveal to him his natural talents, and help him to develop them. Do these things, and you will have, an earnest citizen, who will serve the state, as well in his smaller sphere as will the few who are called to leadership.

Here then is Jefferson's third freedom—freedom from ignorance. It is the freedom that upholds his structure of government. As Jefferson himself put it in a letter to his friend George Wythe:

> "I think by far the most important bill in our whole code, is that for the diffusion of knowledge among the people. No other sure foundation can be devised for preservation of freedom and happiness . . . Preach, my dear sir, a crusade against ignorance; establish and improve the law for educating the common people. Let our countrymen know that the people alone, can protect us against these evils, and that the tax which will be paid for the purpose is not more than one thousandth part of what will be paid to kings, priests, and nobles who will rise up among us, if we leave the people in ignorance."

Jefferson was an aristocrat. His mother was a Randolph —and every Virginian knows what that means—and his father was not only well born, but was a landed proprietor who needed five overseers and a bailiff to look after his vast estates. But Jefferson did not believe in a closed shop for aristocrats. He believed we should take the sons and daughters of Pennsylvania farmers, Philadelphia shop keepers, and Pittsburgh factory workers, and lift them to the level of aristocracy—not the aristocracy that defines itself, by wealth and family name, but that which is defined by proven talent and manifest virtue. This republic, this thing of the people, will be preserved, if it is preserved, pause by the common people, for they will always predominate in number. They must be prepared for that rule, then, as carefully as the scion of any ruling house in Europe.

As early as 1779, Jefferson introduced a bill into the Virginia Assembly which elaborated a plan for sifting out the ablest youngsters, from among those whose parents were unable to give them further education, and sending them on through the University. Thus he became perhaps the first public figure in this young nation to espouse the cause of state aid for higher educatoin. Mass education, to make mass rule workable, and tolerable, was Jefferson's plan.

The pity of it is, of course, that we have never really tried it. Jefferson made a beginning, but colleges and universities have never been able to provide for more than a scant fraction of the boys and girls whose education would enrich the nation. We are suffering in today's emergency for that neglect, and trying desperately to remedy it with hastily organized courses of intensive training under both public and private auspices. When peace breaks out in this world again, as sometime it will, the character of this training will change, but the need for it will not diminish. It may increase. The problems of peace are hard, and whatever the terms of that peace, our freedom will not be secure. Freedom is too precious a commodity ever to be secure.

At the moment, freedom is experiencing a rebirth. It is being reborn, in blood and anguish. By happy coincidence that event is being attended by this bicentennial celebration, honoring the man who has become the symbol of our freedom. Thus we receive a double measure of inspiration, and we shall have need of it. In the years ahead, we are so likely to forget the meaning of our heritage. It will be easy to grow content within ourselves, and neglect the principles within which we have our being.

Jefferson never did. That's why we are here. He had had a unique experience. The impact of events gave to him a new understanding of human rights and values. He wrote those principles down in Philadelphia, to become the charter of a struggling people. He repeated them in the Continental Congress, and in Virginia's House of Burgesses. He uttered them in public debate, penned them in letters to other men in public life, and wrote them into state papers that fill fat volumes in the national archives. And in his death, he named them again as the inscription for his tomb. For fifty years, he was freedom's watchman.

Were he alive today, I don't know whether he would call himself a Republican or a Democrat, a liberal or conservative, a member of the farm bloc, or the labor bloc, but I do know he would still be keeping vigil for freedom. He would enjoy being in this legislative chamber with us today. For this represents local self-government at work—the truest form of democracy. He loved it. Again I say, then, when we return to our wards and precincts and legislative districts, let us take him back with us in spirit. Let us take him back to our neighbors and constituents, that he may enroll them again in freedom's eternal crusade.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair presents Francis E. Zabkar, Senior at Penn State, and James M. Gammon, a Junior at West View High School in a suburb of Pittsburgh, who won the oratorical contest conducted by the "Sun Telegraph" of Pittsburgh in connection with the Jefferson Bi-Centennial. These boys will deliver the orations which won them a prize.

It is a pleasure now to introduce to you Francis E. Zabkar of Penn State.

Mr. ZABKAR. Mr. President, Governor, Members of the General Assembly, distinguished guests:

This afternoon we pay tribute to a great and inspiring American; a man whose unwearying mind defended those ideals which have become the American principle of government, based on the idea that all men are created and endowed by God with the inherent and inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. One of the most versatile and profound thinkers of all time, Thomas Jefferson was, during his lifetime, a philosopher, a political genius, an inventor, a naturalist, a scientist, and a scholar. His genius was recognized in each of these various fields, yet his greatest achievements were unquestionably in his struggle for the principles of Democracy and the fruits of his unshakeable, faith in the morality, latent integrity, and political honesty of the common man.

At a time when the powers of government were vested in the hands of a privileged aristocracy, Thomas Jefferson took upon himself the organization of the forces of Democracy, and fought, no less earnestly than we fight today, against the enemies who sought the destruction of his ideals.

Jefferson's contributions, throughout his lifetime are far too numerous to enable us to have a complete understanding and appreciation of their worth; to realize fully the significance of his principles and political ideals is to understand the soundness of that government for which the free world is today fighting.

Thomas Jefferson firmly believed that that government would maintain itself in strength which drew its power from the natural aristocracy of the common man. He visualized a government which would restrain men from injuring one another, which would allow them to regulate their own pursuits with a minimum of interference, and would protect their rights with a constitution, whose precepts would stand as the rock on which that nation would rest. He fully realized the necessity of a division of authority in three branches of government, and a system of general education, which would enable men to judge for themselves what would secure and what would endanger freedom, and the preservation of local governments which he prophesied would be the main strength of the great government. He believed in the rule by the majority, with recognition of the rights of the minority, the civil over the military rule, and an honest friendship with all nations. Above all however, Thomas Jefferson was convinced that this government must exercise a jealous care of the right of election by the people, an equal and exact justice to all men, and the long cherished freedoms of speech, press, and religion. These principles he religiously defended and unselfishly endowed with the people of his time in the expression of that government to which he gave so much.

And today, that government stands in greatness. Through the difficult years that have passed since the death of Thomas Jefferson, America has held increasingly close his cherished ideals; her system of free education, her right of election by the people, the division of authority in three branches of government, equality among men, the people as a source of final power, and those freedoms guaranteed in the bill of rights. America will live on, under God, in ever increasing greatness; she will triumph over those enemies who preach the anti-thesis to Jefferson's ideals—who destroy the freedom of the individual, who kill the resistance of the minority, who eliminate local governments, who have respect for nothing, other than the will of their perverted minds. This nation will live to preserve and restore the light and liberties, where now they are clouded under barbarism and tyranny. As Thomas Jefferson based his claim to remembrance on his Declaration of Independence, which is the covenant of Democracy, on his ordinance of Religious Freedom, which banished intolerance and freed the conscience of man, on his founding of a university, designed to munition the mind for the preservation of the liberties of man, so America today finds here greatness and strength in those Democratic ideals which were his primary concern. The triumph of Jefferson is the triumph of America.

The PRESIDENT. James M. Gammon, a Junior at West View High School will now deliver his oration.

Mr. GAMMON. Honorable Members of the General Assembly, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It was July 4 1826. Within the first mansion of Virginia Thomas Jefferson was dying. Warm rays of golden sunlight cast brilliance over the lawn and gardens of Monticello. The very atmosphere was seemingly permeated by the serenity which had characterized the life of the philosopher-president. Slowly—with the labor born of mortal exhaustion, Jefferson called for his portfolio of private papers and carefully extracted one. He offered it to his daughter Martha. It was his epitaph:

"Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, and Father of the University of Virginia."

Before Martha finished reading, the great American had passed quietly away—noon—the 50th anniversary of Independence Day.

Why do we say "The Great American"? Not because he was the outstanding orator of his time. Patrick Henry was infinitely more eloquent. Not because he was the most successful diplomat. No, Franklin accomplished much more. Not because he was the strongest writer. Madison was far more powerful.

Then, why—"The Great American"? We can find our answer in the words of his epitaph. Jefferson claims greatness because he is the American's ideal American. His very name symbolizes the three basic American principles —Political independence—Religious Freedom—and popular education.

Today, as in 1775, life for an merican becomes meaningless without liberty.

Had Thomas Jefferson been a man of weaker character he might have foresworn the idealistic struggle for political independence. He had so much to lose. He was a member of the landed aristocracy, a sole master of 42,000 acres. He derived a handsome income from his law practice and sat with honor in the Virginia House of Burgesses.

He was an idealist in a materialistic world. In the heat of indignation at English tyranny Jefferson penned those words which have echoed and re-echoed for a century and a half as the political creed of America.

"All men are created equal," because of these words, Jefferson was branded by the Tories as a traitor, a disseminator of sedition, a candidate for any English gallows.

Jefferson was willing to sacrifice for political independence.

Millions of American boys feel the same today. You and you and I are ready to give up life itself—some of us are doing so at this very moment.

In championing religious freedom, Jefferson chose a course dear to the heart of every American. It was for this that the dauntless Pilgrims made a virgin wilderness to blossom as the rose; for this, Quakers gave up comfortable existences to brave the unknown perils of a new world.

It is no small wonder, then, that we, Jefferson's heirs, get fighting mad when the Nazi monsters padlock the Word of God, turn churches into barracks and force helpless men and women to worship a Hitlerian anti-Christ. We vow, with burning fervor that we shall prosecute this war until free men everywhere may worship a God of their own choosing. And by divine providence, it will be so.

When Jefferson stood by the window at Monticello and gazed far off at the pillared buildings of the University of Virginia, he saw no an isolated college—but the beginning of a great education system which would banish the slavery of ignorance from the United States.

Tradition tells that John Adam's last words were: "Jefferson still lives." Over the years that statement has assumed reality. Jefferson does live—he lives in the affectionate memory of his posterity—lives because he stood for principles which are eternally American: political independence, religious freedom, and popular education.

Can we today appreciate this heritage? Are we willing to make sacrifices for it? Dare we even exchange life itself for the perpetuation of this democratic freedom?

The works of Jefferson have charted the course. You must decide if you are brave enough to follow it. The challenge is yours.

The PRESIDENT. We are honored by having with us many distinguished guests. The Chair particularly wishes to call the members' attention to the following members of the Statewide Bi-centennial Commission of Educators:

We are also very fortunate in having with us the son of President Judge F. P. McCluskey of Northampton County, Sergeant Frank P. McCluskey of the United States Marines, who has just returned from Guadalcanal. Frank, will you stand up?

Now, Members of the General Assembly, the Chair has the honor and the privilege of presenting his Excellency the distinguished Governor of Pennsylvania, Edward Martin.

GOVERNOR MARTIN. Fellow Americans:

Thomas Jefferson, Third President of the United States and one of the great liberals of America, was born in Virginia, in the frontier County of Albemarle, April 13, 1743. He was a liberal because he believed in freedom of action in all the fields of human endeavor.

His family was wealthy and influential, but what was then the wilderness country of that Blue Ridge county left its mark upon him. He was brilliantly educated in the tidewater town of Williamsburg. He made his mark in Latin, Greek, French, and higher mathematics. From his college days he was the friend and associate of the elite and wealthy group of Virginians, lovers of gambling, horse racing, and all the elaborate social gaiety of the Tidewater Country.

The strong-minded Jefferson indulged in such matters most modestly. He never played cards and never gambled. While Virginia grew tobacco, the tall young man from Albemarle never used it.

Jefferson was a rich man in the America of the 18th Century. He was a good lawyer, a large land holder, and enjoyer an independent income.

Like Washington, he could have gone through life in the easy way. Like Washington, he did not choose to do so.

Jefferson was a politician. Early in his life he held public office. He took part in public life as any good citizen should do—particularly any American citizen. He gave his talents to local, colonial and Federal government. He is one of the few Presidents who have had a complete knowledge of government by actually holding office in every stratum of government.

His first office was Justice of the Peace. He was a long time member of the Virginia Legislature. He served in the Congress of the United States; as Governor of Virginia, and as President of the United States. Before he became President he was a Cabinet officer, Vice-president and Minister to France.

Jefferson was politically minded. He believed in and practiced our two-party system of government. He was the founder of one of the two great schools of political thought in America. He would fight for his party. He did not forget his political friends. He opposed those who always demanded a new political party for each issue. He followed the policy that differences must be ironed out within the party. He would join with his political enemies in issues where the Nation was opposing an alien enemy.

Jefferson disagreed with Washington over many of Washington's political philosophies, yet he fully agreed that America should avoid foreign political alliances. He was for America, at all times, whether America was right or wrong.

The tall Virginian believed that the best government is the government that governs least. He wanted the utmost simplicity in government. He firmly believed in the people and in the individual American. He was opposed to class rule and to any one creating class hatreds. His religious attitude was deeply reverent. He held that any man's right to his own convictions was inalienable.

Jefferson was a great political leader and political manager. He could pick loyal and true men. He surrounded himself with those upon whom he could depend. Like any other American who really believes in the ideals of this Republic, he had implicit faith in the people, feeling that when the people understood a problem their common sense would prevail.

Americans, in order to have a more profound understanding of their own government, should study the lives of the men who created the plan of government for the United States. Anniversaries are a splendid time to consider the achievements of great Americans.

It is most fitting that the Legislature should observe the 200th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson. He had many accomplishments. He did many things for America, but the Declaration of Independence was his greatest achievement. He wrote that immortal document on Pennsylvania soil. It was adopted in Pennsylvania.

Therefore, next to Virginia, his mother State, Pennsylvania has the greatest claim upon him.

Jefferson was a statesman-politican. He was continually offering new ideas, but he knew that these ideas were useless in a republic unless they were approved by the people. Too many of what we might term our "statesman class" fail to recognize that in our form of government the people rule. Any statesman who feels his ideas should be immediately approved, without full public consideration, is to that extent a dictator.

Jefferson believed that the least governed are the best governed. He encouraged incentive and competition, for in that way you make a better and stronger citizen. He described a wise and frugal government as one "which will restrain men from injuring one another, which shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and government and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned."

He belonged to that magnificent group who, at the end of the Revolution, held that freedom and security could not live in the same government, that it required high courage to give up security for freedom.

The King of Great Britain was willing to give a little security but he would not permit freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion, and freedom of assembly. Jefferson warned the people that "We must make our selection between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude."

If Jefferson lived today he would undoubtedly demand freedom of action. And, if he could rise from the grave on the hilltop at Monticello, what could he think with the world on fire and with dictators holding more power than in any dynasty in the history of the world?

Jefferson demanded and fought for a simple form of government. He felt that each branch of government and each level of government should depend upon its own resources. Unquestionably he would be surprised and undoubtedly he would oppose the sweeping tendency toward centralization in our State governments and our Federal Government. He would deplore the presence on local, State and Federal payrolls of five million men and women. Even in that long ago day he said: "I think, myself, that we have more machinery of government than is necessary, too many parasites living on the labor of industries. I think it might be much simplified to the relief of those who maintain it."

Jefferson dreamed of and fought for a system of free education but he never dreamed that education, welfare and the building of roads would become so highly centralized as they are on this the 200th anniversary of his birth. If we want anything now, we go to a central government. This tendency includes local government, State government, and all our civic bodies. They all seem to think that State and Federal governments have an inexhaustible supply of funds. This tendency is directly contrary to the political philosophy of Thomas Jefferson.

On this the bicentennial of his birth, we can all study the simplicity and directness of that great Virginian with profit to ourselves and our country.

He always contended that each function of government had its proper place and one must not encroach upon the other. He believed that extravagance was a more painful evil than Toryism.

Keeping in mind the stark simplicity of the Jefferson political philosophy let us consider some of the proposals now being offered for the post-war period. They should cause us to Stop, Look and Listen. In its massive report to Congress, the National Resources Planning Board pictures a plan for security. Its staggering cost cannot be comprehended by any statesman or any business man.

Woven into this gigantic scheme is a partnership between Government and industry. When any government puts the people's money into any enterprise, then government immediately becomes a partner. And when government becomes a partner, it becomes the senior and controlling partner. Nowhere in Jefferson's political philosophy is there any approval of such a policy.

America became great because our people, under fine leadership, had the courage to seek and win freedom.

Today, I confidently believe the salvation of America depends upon maintaining free enterprise at home. This system in cooperation with the government as a strong arbiter and umpire, can find the way to absorb into free industry all the labor in this country. In that way we can continue to build for American greatness and individual freedom when the war is ended.

I believe that every American should carefully read the biography and political philosophy of Thomas Jefferson. He was a great American. He was a great liberal who understood the true meaning of liberalism. His ideas and ideals should help us to solve some of the tangled problems that confront us now.

I congratulate the Committee having in charge these exercises. We have exemplified here today the American form of government in its finest form. The Members of the Legislature, representing the different schools of thought, leave their deliberations to come here and consider things which will improve the greatness of our country. It is fine to have on this program the head of one of the leading Universities of this Commonwealth, and I welcome him.

It is a pleasure to welcome these two young men, the one from State College and the other from one of the western Pennsylvania High Schools who have given these magnificent orations. I hope that all the school children of this Commonwealth will study as these two young men have studied, and have greater knowledge of the greatness of their government.

I want to say to you that the young man from State College is attending State College through the courtesy of one of your colleagues, Senator Dent. His father was one of my fine soldiers in France in World War 1. The great form of government; it was worth while for Jefferson to fight for it; it is worth while for Americans to fight for it today. Thank you very much.

The PRESIDENT. Governor Martin, Senator Chapman, Doctor Johnson, on behalf of the members of the General Assembly I want to congratulate each of you for your splendid addresses; Francis Zabkar and James Gammon, I want to congratulate each of you on your eloquent orations. I am sure I speak for the Assembly when I say we are proud of you.

The committee on the part of the Senate and of the House of Representatives will now escort Governor Martin and his official party to his chambers.

The purpose for which the Joint Session was convened having been consummated, the Joint Session is now adjourned. The Senators will return to and reassemble in the Senate Chamber.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 53

Mr. SARGE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Resolution No. 53, Printer's No. 426.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 1, 1943.

Each Easter Season in this enlightened country thousands of live chicks and ducklings and young rabbits are sold for temporary Easter pets for children who know nothing about, and care less for, their proper feeding and care.

Most of these unfortunate chicks and ducklings and rabbits die within a few weeks of starvation or misuse or plain cruelty.

Each one of these chicks or ducklings or rabbits, if properly cared for would have grown to maturity and in time would have assisted in reducing the food scarcity existing in the nation.

The sale of these live fowl and animals has become more than a matter of cruelty and now takes its place as a means of hindering and interfering with the prosecution of the war effort by wasting needed food and increasing the scarcity of meat.

It is now a matter more for the attention and action of the State Council of Defense than one for local societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the attention of the State Council of Defense is hereby called to the situation created by the sale of chicks, ducklings and young rabbits during the Easter Season and the Council is hereby respectfully requested to request all merchants, farmers, and dealers in poultry and other live stock to immediately discontinue the practice of selling such chicks, ducklings and rabbits and to publicize its actions in order that the public might be informed of its contribution to the scarcity of food in the purchase of such live stock; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House shall transmit a copy of this resolution to the Chairman of the State Council of Defense.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. BARTON offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 14, 1943.

John Wills is not a member of this House nor of the Senate, but he is known to all of us, and occupies a high and exalted position in the General Assembly.

He stands at the right hand of the Speaker of this House, and handles much of the important business of the House. The Speaker would often be helpless without him, and the work of the Session would lag if we could not depend upon John's speed and intelligence and sureness of foot. But that he has the agility of a Rocky Mountain goat or a South American Llama, he would long ere this have been crippled as he rushes down the steps leading from the rostrum.

Today is John's birthday. Eighteen years ago he appeared in Duncannon, Perry County (which is in Pennsylvania), and for eighteen years he has been the joy and the pride of his parents.

Many of Pennsylvania's greatest men started public life as an ordinary page boy on the floor of this House, but with the advantage he has in getting his start as the Speaker's page, we confidently expect him to reach much more exalted heights in the affairs of the Nation.

Oh Johnny is a pretty lad,
He runs the Speaker's errands,
He always smiles, he's never sad,
He's quite the kitten's whiskers.

therefore be it

Resolved, That this House extends to Johnny its most sincere congratulations and felicitations, and wishes for him, who has not yet finished his first score of years, many happy returns of the same occasion, together with the hope that each re-occurring anniversary of his natal day will find him occupying a higher and more important niche in the affairs of the Commonwealth, and, Johnny, not yet being of legal age to have acquired the right to be on his own, we request the Speaker of this House to transmit a copy of this resolution to his father and legal custodian, Mr. John Y. Wills, at Duncannon, Perry County, Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes Johnny.

Mr. JOHN WILLS. Thank you very much for the resolution.

Mr. FREED. Mr. Speaker, may I ask Johnnie a question?

The SPEAKER. Will Johnnie answer the question? He is somewhat nervous and afraid.

Mr. FREED. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask Johnnie if he will not bake a birthday cake for the members of the lower branch of the Assembly like he baked for the Speaker's office force.

Mr. JOHN WILLS. When is your birthday?

Mr. FREED. I am not speaking for myself. I am past the fourth of July and I hope not to be here until that time. I had in mind some time pretty soon.

Mr. JOHN WILLS. I will bake one for you anytime you want me to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, together with colleagues of mine from this side of the House, the gentleman from York, Mr. Bentzel, and for and with the consent of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Bentley, who is ill and unable to attend, together with three members of the Senate of my political party, we have just returned from a visit to the Governor of the Commonwealth, a visit arranged at our request for an audience, in response to which the Governor very cordially issued an invitation to meet with him.

We were with the Governor about one hour. We had a very cordial reception, as I said before. We had a very, very pleasant discussion, and as a result of that discussion we left with the Governor a statement which I propose to read into the record. After discussing many items of the statement the Governor told us that he would be very happy to study the statement. The Governor stated that l would read the statement that we gave him and consider it, together with the other informal discussion that we had, and he would give us his reply, which we trust will be very soon.

Mr. Speaker, with your leave I want to read the statement into the record. It is dated April 13, 1943, addressed to His Excellency the Honorable Governor, Edward Martin.

> The Democratic party assumes full responsibility for invoking the provision of the Constitution that all bills shall be read at length. For fourteen weeks we have been waiting patiently for the verbal promise of cooperation between the two parties to be put into action and for evidences of a real effort on the part of the administration to pass legislation in aid of the war and in anticipation of post war necessities.
>
> For fourteen weeks nothing has been done in either of these directions. For fourteen weeks we have listened to the introduction or passage of bills ripping out the Parole system, the Civil Service System, Public Utility Commissioners, Democratic Congressmen, mercantile appraisers and transferring the appointing powers from Democratic elected officials to Republican officials.
>
> Whatever legislation has been passed, was generally either personal or political. In all, eighteen bills were finally enacted into law. The best information available indicates that the cost of this Legislature, including tomorrow's payroll, will have reached the amount of $1,101,207.70, a cost in excess of $60,000.00 per act.
>
> This extravagance in time and money is complete justification for our action in invoking the Constitutional provision, requiring bills to be read at length, for it has already succeeded in its sole purpose to focus the attention of the public on the actions of the Republican majority party in this Legislature; to serve as a protest against the use of the power of votes for political aggrandisement in the period of this tragic war.
>
> The eyes of the people of the Commonwealth are on this Legislature. The objective having been attained, the time has arrived for constructive suggestion. It is timely that we should bring the matter officially to your attention, for you are the Governor of this Commonwealth; you are the titular head of the Republican party. We Democrats remember your promises of cooperation and your pleas for passage of legislation that would help to win the war. You said, and we agree with you, that "nothing else matters." Nothing else matters except the winning of the war and the preservation of the peace.
>
> The method we adopted was the only way which we could make our protest heard and we hope that now these matters have been brought to the light of day, there may be an end to the use of this Session as a political vehicle and a return to the patriotic duty that this Legislature can, with unity and cooperation, carry out to the fullest extent.
>
> With that end in view and in the hope that the promised cooperation can become a fact, we make the following suggestions:
>
> (1) That a Committee be appointed consisting of members of the Senate and House from both parties to confer with you for the purpose of bringing about the passage of the following legislation.
>
> (2) That a Planning Commission be appointed and that there be transferred to that commission sufficient funds to enable it to become an effective agency for post war readjustments. (There can be transferred to that commission a surplus of $30,000,000.00 available in the Motor License Fund at the end of this biennium.) There should be transferred to this commission any surplus over and above current revenues remaining at the end of this biennium.
>
> (3) That legislation be passed to aid the Federal Government in enforcing price ceilings and in policing "black markets."
>
> (4) That a Legislative Committee be appointed to confer with Federal and State Health authorities for the purpose of recommending and enacting into law at this session such protective measures as are necessary to guard the health and welfare of persons employed in war industries and specifically to prepare and pass legislation at this session necessary to furnish treatment for the care and prevention of the spread of tuberculosis and social diseases in congested areas.
>
> (5) The speedy enactment into law of bills now on the calendar and such other bills as may be necessary to give authority to Federal agencies to enlarge their activities so as to aid in slum clearance and to supply necessary housing for defense workers.
>
> (6) The passage of legislation amending the existing Civil Service laws so as to provide an opportunity to the returning men and women in the armed forces to compete on an equal basis with all appointees after a given date without destroying the principles of Civil Service.
>
> (7) Reduction in taxes not only for corporations, but in those emergency taxes now in existence which burden the individual citizen directly, namely, the Emergency Cigarette Tax and the Emergency Gasoline Tax.
>
> (8) That this Legislature pass appropriate legislation to make financial provision for returning men and women of the armed forces following the cessation of hostilities.
>
> (9) That legislation be passed granting to school teachers and other school employees an increase in pay sufficient to enable them to meet the increased cost of living.

(10) That passage of legislation which will disrupt the friendly relations between employer and employee be discouraged.

(11) That effective legislation be passed which will enable the Commonwealth to cooperate with the Federal Government and procure Federal funds for the purpose of establishing proper child care centers for the children of defense workers.

This is a frank, plain and sincere statement made with the same purpose which motivated our protest in the Senate and the House. We give you our assurance with equal sincerity that we are willing and anxious to cooperate to the fullest extent with every move that has for its objective—the winning of the war, the maintenance of the morale of the industrial and agricultural workers of Pennsylvania and the preservation of the peace. With equal frankness we say that we will continue to protest and give pitiless publicity to every effort that may be made to use this Legislature for political purposes and to the failure of the majority party to use the Legislature to carry out not only its promises, but its duty to all the citizens of this Commonwealth.

Respectfully submitted and signed by the following gentlemen:

For the Senate: John Dent, Harry Shapiro, Edward Coleman.

For the House: Myself, John Bentley and Felix Bentzel.

INTERROGATION

Mr. BROWN asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Minority Floor Leader how he arrived at the conclusion that by pressing for Article 3, Section 4 of the Constitution he can accomplish the laudable purposes enunciated in his statement just sent to the desk.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would answer that by saying that the effect, I think is already being felt. I believe that the people of Pennsylvania and the press of Pennsylvania, who are doing a great service for the Commonwealth in bringing this situation to the attention of the people, are going to make all of us know, and I am talking about the members of this House, on both sides of the House, and am talking about the Executive, it is going to give them their opportunity to tell all of us and the Executive whether or not they approve or disapprove of what has gone on here for the past fourteen weeks.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, do any of the bills that we have read at length contain any of the laudable purposes enunciated in the gentleman's statement?

Mr. COHEN. As to the bills read, I would say that practically nothing has been passed which would attain the necessary results. As to those bills already enacted into law and signed by the Governor, I would say that nothing has been accomplished.

Mr. BROWN. I thank the gentleman.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BROWN asked for and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I am in hearty accord with the request of the Minority Floor Leader and his committee to the Governor. Let that be distinctly understood. However, to me, and I am speaking for myself and myself alone, if we come to the point in the operation of our democratic form of government that we can utilize, invoke and operate under a section of the Constitution wholly unrelated to the purposes we desire to attain, then any person for any reason may hide behind the Constitution for purposes unrelated to the result which they wish to attain. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, and I say to the people of this Commonwealth that this filibuster has accomplished nothing and can accomplish nothing but waste and delay.

I don't have all the figures; they are not available, but today I secured some of the figures and I understand that it costs us in the pay of the per diem employes alone $32.70 an hour for the employes of the House. I sat here when the Speaker took up the first reading bills at ten minutes after three, some of the first reading bills were passed over, and at five o'clock the clerk was still reading first reading bills. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, to every Member of this House and to the people of the Commonwealth, as I said a night or two ago, this is ridiculous, it is capricious, it is unwarranted. I know the people of Pennsylvania are going to pass the unanimous verdict of guilty upon us for hiding behind and for trying to invoke a Constitutional provision wholly unrelated to the purposes that are to be achieved, and I don't want that verdict of guilty on my head.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I understand we are about to take a recess to get some much needed nourishment for the work that we have to do tonight. I should not want to belabor the House nor to go into a discussion with the gentleman from the Allegheny whose opinion I so much respect. But, Mr. Speaker, I have got to say this, that I believe the gentleman from Allegheny still does not comprehend the problem, the outlook and the perspective of the situation which the minority party has taken. I tell you, Mr. Speaker, if we can arouse the people of the Commonwealth to give a verdict, we are taking the full responsibility for taking this means of arousing the people.

Mr. Speaker, I heard the gentleman very often say that it is the people who are our masters, and I am perfectly willing to stand before the bar of the people and have the people pass their judgment. If it is a political mistake, it does not bother me too much, but I could not sincerely and honestly feel that I am doing my duty, as I see it, to the people of Pennsylvania, if I could not go back to a sacred instrument which is the guarantee of all our liberties, all of our privileges and our last place of hope, to invoke that constitution which the gentleman so frequently praises, to bring to the people a situation which we honestly think is serious.

I know, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman has no ill or malicious feeling towards myself or the Members of the minority party, but I trust that the gentleman may see a little bit beyond the point he has thus far gone. I trust he will be able to agree with us that if some good can come of this so-called filibuster he will applaud with all of us the desired result. I can assure the gentleman that when the plaudits are being handed out, if some good should come, the gentleman will receive, together with everyone in this House, an equal share of the public's commendation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HARE asked and obtained permission to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I want it thoroughly understood that the statements I make are my own and unlike the statements read by the Minority Leader are not controlled by any political boss and are answerable only to the people whom I represent back home.

I agree heartily with the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown. For a week now I have sat here as a Member of the House, as a member of the Republican party, but primarily I have sat here as an American, and I have been shocked and amazed that Americans, calling themselves by such a name, would move to cheap political trickery. If my party would ever initiate this form of approach, place a loaded gun at the head of the Governor and attempt to get him to accede to their wishes by wielding a threat over his head as a member of his party here in the Legislature, then I would apologize for my party.

For three hours yesterday I went back over the records of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, and in no place in the records can I find a place where my party ever stooped to the measure whereby it hid behind one of the most sacred things, and Constitution of the Commonwealth.

You say the newspapers have risen in your defense. Looking over today's papers at my own desk I find "Exhibition of Petty Spite" heading one editorial; "Filibuster Foolishness" heading an editorial in a different paper; "School Boy Politicians" in still a third paper and "Toying with Public Time and Patience" in still a fourth paper.

This is serious business. I want to go home, you want to go home. Two years ago—I can appreciate your position—I sat in the minority. I had bills passed through me, steam-rollered over my head that I didn't agree with and some of them are law today, but, as a good American citizen, I believed that the majority having won the battle, their will must be accepted.

I walked over to the then Majority Floor Leader just two years ago and asked Leo Achterman for a simple favor, and I break no confidence, he turned to me and said, "I'm sorry, kid, you're under the Democratic Juggernaut."

I didn't go back to my desk and move to read all bills at length and use the Constitution of Pennsylvania as a capricious and facetious document.

Gentlemen of the House, I speak to your as an American. I have three brothers accross the "pond." They are fighting to preserve the things you have destroyed. You charge us with Hitlerian tactics. We have sat patiently here, and I do not attempt to speak for this side, but I know there are men on the other side of the House that are hanging their heads in shame, for I know in the bottom of your hearts you are Americans, and I know we love this country beyond any political aspirations any one of us might have.

Gentlemen, I know if you will search this thing through you can see that two hundred and eight Members of this House should be willing to lay down their commissions as Representatives if this war could be ended tomorrow.

I do not desire to wave the American flag and plead with you. We celebrated right here a beautiful program today relative to some of those men who have made the history of America, and the history of America is only the lengthened shadow of the men who have lived in it. I say to you the actions of this Legislature in the past week, the shadow cast by this Legislature will be a blot on the history of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. This is doing much to destroy the morale of our people. I say to you that this is aiding and abetting the enemy just as much as if I would take issue on the floor of this House with the President of the United States. I took a solemn oath that, much as I disagree with him in many instances, my lips would be sealed while he was Commander-in-Chief of this country.

I will ask no more from you than you would ask from me. I will give as much to you as you will give to me. We should be a united people. This is no time for cheap political tricks. We are going to answer at the bar of public opinion on the majority side for the bills we pass. If you want to stand and debate those bills, I will stand by you every inch, even though you want to talk about them for three weeks, because as a Member of the minority you have the right to speak, and men are dying that you might keep that right, but I am pleading with you from the bottom of my heart, for the kids you and I have over there, to stop this stuff. Go back home and help sell your bonds for America. You have heard all this debate on the floor. Be honest with yourselves, as on the picture in the front of the hall of this House, and the bloody foot prints in the snow of Valley Forge, are a constant reminder to me that I am living in a week of very unAmerican and unsportsmanlike activities.

RESOLUTION REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. YEAKEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to report from the Committee on Rules a House Concurrent Resolution Serial No. 70 (not printed) and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 5th, 1943.

Carbon County was created by an act of Assembly of March 13, 1843 more than one hundred years after the arrival of a group of Moravians in search of a haven of safety.

From the time of the arrival of that intrepid band of white men and women who later survived the great Gnaden Massacre in 1755 the territory they settled has prospered.

In this territory Benjamin Franklin, recognizing it as an outer defense of Philadelphia, personally supervised the building of Fort Franklin in what is now Weissport as a protection and a barrier against the Indians of the North.

In 1791 Philip Ginter discovered anthracite coal and started one of the great industries of the Commonwealth and which led to the building of the Lehigh Valley Railroad in 1855 by Asa Packer who later built and heavily endowed Lehigh University.

From this county came men who have contributed greatly to the development of the Commonwealth. They marched and endured with Washington, their sons answered the call of Abraham Lincoln, and fought in France and their grandsons and great grandsons are now scattered over the battlefields of Europe and Asia and are demonstrating the same bravery and fortitude that marked those heroic founders of this county.

On Monday, March 8th, 1943, the Carbon County Historical Society petitioned the Court of Common Pleas of Carbon County to hold a special session of the court on Saturday, March 13th, 1943, in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of Carbon County.

The court granted the prayer of the petition and on March 13th, 1943, a special session of the court was held in the Court House with Judge James C. McCready presiding.

Fred Brenckman, formerly of Hudsondale, representative of the National Grange and author of the History of Carbon County was the principal speaker. Congressman Francis E. Walter, Judge Samuel Shull, Monroe County, Judge Frank McClusky, Northampton County, State Senator M. F. Crowe, Hon. Elmer Holmes of the House of Representatives and others also spoke.

It was an impressive, instructive and successful celebration of an important happening and those responsible for the preparation of the program and the carrying out of the plans are deserving of great credit. It was an occasion of which some permanent record should be made; therefore be it

Resolved, (If the Senate concur), That the General Assembly extends to the people of Carbon County its congratulations upon the successful celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of their county, it congratulates also those who planned and carried out the celebration and those who took part in it; and be it further

Resolved, That in order to make a permanent record of the occasion it is ordered that this resolution be printed in the Legislative Journal and that a copy thereof be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Honorable James C. McCready, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Carbon County.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask that this bill and the following three bills be debated at the same time inasmuch as they all comprise one subject.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection these four bills will be debated at one time. The Chair hears none.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the passage or non-passage of these four bills will not help to win the war. However, Mr. Speaker, the passage of these four bills, as I view them, represents a frame of mind on the part of those who are pledged to legislate to win the war, to lay aside that duty and to indulge in the oft discussed policy of ripping. The politics involved in the bill I should not complain about, because the charge has been made and can be made, I suppose, that as a Member of the majority in 1937, I voted for ripper legislation. In 1937 we were not at war; in 1937 there were no campaign pledges, there were no promises, no statements by the Chief Executive, that we should devote ourselves to the war effort and to exclude from consideration politics. So it is on that basis, Mr. Speaker, that I speak on these bills.

The four bills amend various acts which in their essence take away from the Auditor General of the Commonwealth certain functions and duties which he has performed for many, many years, both under Republican Auditors General and under Democratic Auditors General. It seems as if for many, many years in this Commonwealth we felt as if this was the proper office for the performance of these functions, because the Auditor General's Office, as you probably well know, is a Constitutional office, with a head elected by the people of the Commonwealth, whereas the office to which they are being sent is an office that is run by a man who is merely appointed by the Governor of the Commonwealth. Let me say but one thing to the Members on the other side, at least to many of the Members on the other side and you can take it from me I speak from experience, we in Philadelphia have a type of politics that does not exist anywhere else in Pennsylvania, and the passage of these bills is going to give to a Philadelphia politician, not only greater political power in Philadelphia, but he is going to have the power to stick his fingers into sixty-six other counties in Pennsylvania and I can assure you, gentlemen, with telling political effect.

Nothing that I say will change your minds and I don't think it is going to change your vote, but I will tell you today, and I make this prophecy, that you are building up a Frankenstein which one day will do you harm. One of the bills we have before us is an amendment to the Act of 1929, the Fiscal Code. At that time we had legislative expression on this subject in the hall of this House, and at that time the then Auditor General, now the Governor of the Commonwealth, thought that it was the real place to have such an important function, the collection of inheritance taxes, remain in the Auditor General's office, and there it has reposed ever since.

Let me tell you one or two facts, that you should remember when you vote "aye" on these bills. Under the Act of 1929, to further enlarge the political booty that goes with the appointment of the appraisers, provision was made for the appointment of special appraisers in special cases. Probably at that time it was a high sounding sort of an idea that if you had special difficulties in appraising estates for the purpose of levying inheritance taxes, that there should be experts engaged. Now, maybe it is a high sounding thing; maybe in theory it is ok, but in 1929 there started a pernicous system that remained in effect, I believe, until the present Auditor General took office. Under that system of special appraisers it was possible to repay, especially to favored sons of the administration, or possibly of the Auditor General, special fat fees to men who did not serve the Commonwealth in any other way but to especially appraise in but one instance, and this was usually set up in large estates.

I am referring for one to the Wanamaker estate. I believe it is a good example, because under the Wanamaker estate and the appraisements made therein, one gentleman from Montgomery County, I believe, and one gentleman from Philadelphia County were appointed special appraisers. The result of that appointment meant and means that today these two men have before the Board of Claims of the Commonwealth claims for fifty thousand dollars and fifteen thousand dollars respectively for being special appraisers in that estate. I don't know how much work they did, I don't know how expert they were at their jobs, but it seems to me that it was a poor practice suddenly to pickup a so-called expert where the government could have set up to have experts and to have persons regularly employed who are qualified to appraise estates. The present Auditor General decided against that practice, and instead appointed regularly employed persons who did all the special appraising, and incidently one of the two gentlemen who is still seeking the fat fees for his special job, is also on the payroll of the Register of Wills of Philadelphia County, and has been under successive Republican and Democratic Registers, at a salary of seventy-five hundred dollars a year.

Mr. Speaker, if the present record of the Auditor General is able to show that he was able to make such changes, and since the responsibility placed in him as a constitutional office holder and elected by the people of the Commonwealth, as a governmental proposition I can see no change justified at this time. Of course I am talking now of good governmental practices and good administrative practices. If we go to the lower level of ripping, I won't say a word, and I do not propose to say a word about ripping.

One other thing we have got to remember, and I am telling this to everyone here because it is a matter of money, that the transfer of these functions to the Department of Revenue will undoubtedly mean the employment of a great number of persons such as are presently employed by the Auditor General. But don't forget that you will have to take care of and make provision for the auditing, expert auditing, that must be done on these accounts. The job in itself is monumental. The appraising of estates and the collection of taxes is a tremendous job; likewise the auditing must also entail considerable expense to the Commonwealth.

I have asked for, Mr. Speaker, and I propose to submit now, that a proper departmental auditing of inheritance tax collections will probably cost the Commonwealth $292,700 at a minimum in the next biennium for the purpose of making these appraisals. Therefore, we are not economizing in any way, shape or form; we are just going on an extra spending spree to satisfy the whims of a Philadelphia politician who one day will make the people, the politicians or the governmental officials of sixty-six other counties sorry that they made such a transfer, because, as I said before, politics are pretty ruthless in Philadelphia County and they are played pretty tough. I do not believe that it is going to be very long before the politics of Philadelphia, through a system of control, controlled by Philadelphia politicians, is going to reach out into every county and cause you the same kind of headaches that the people of Philadelphia have had under the same ruthless kind of political manipulation that the head of the Department of Revenue can hand out. I only want to make these remarks for the record because, making a very fast and expert appraisal of the gentlemen on the other side, I find that I have not caused a tear to flow nor a vote to change.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I can quite see why the gentleman from Philadelphia prefers not to go into the subject of ripping legislation. I can see why the very subject is painful and haunting to him, but by the same token I do not like to have him in a backhanded sort of way claim that we have no other purpose but ripping, or even that we have the intention of ripping on this bill.

For the purpose of the record, passing over that phase a moment, and in order to show why this is a good and necessary piece of legislation, to explain why it has not been done long, long before, let us read a little history.

In the preface to this history, we will find an explanation of the fiscal policies of the state prior to 1929. At that time there were more than one hundred special funds. Every department was a kind of bank unto itself. Even State-aided institutions had their own bank accounts. As a result of a study which cost over half a million dollars certain changes, basic changes in the fiscal management of the state were made. In 1929 the administrative code was passed, setting up a Department of Revenue, and through the fiscal code of the same year the collection of all taxes of the Commonwealth was placed in the hands of this Department of Revenue. At that time the appointment of appraisers for inheritance taxes was not placed in the hands of the newly created Department of Revenue, for I will admit, interparty politics. It was not expedient at that time, because of a division in the party, to put them all into the Department of Revenue, although let me remark that the actual power of collection was placed in the Department of Revenue.

Now, passing over that phase and going into Chapter 1 we find that Governor Pinchot at that time twice tried to have the inheritance tax powers transferred from the Auditor General to the Department of Revenue. Let us be frank on the subject. We are trying to hide nothing here. We admit that the chief and only reason it was not done then was because of disagreement within the party in control at that time; but the request was made or an attempt was made, and it failed.

In 1933, going into Chapter 2, we find that the Sterling Report was made. They made a sound investigation into the affairs of the Commonwealth, and they advised and recommended that this change be made from the Auditor General's department to the Department of Revenue. Here again, for the same reason, that change was not made.

Then, Mr. Speaker, we come to Chapter 3 of this history. We find that Governor Earle has been elected to office. Governor Earle in his budget message recommended legislation transferring the appointment of the appraisers of inheritance taxes from the Auditor General over to the Department of Revenue, and he proclaimed, contrary to the statements of the gentleman from Philadelphia, that we would save up into the millions of dollars by this change. Accordingly under Governor Earle a bill was introduced into the 1935 Legislature by Mr. Achterman. I have the bill here. Mr. Achterman at that time, I believe, was the Whip or if he was not, he was an important leader in the party.

Mr. Achterman introduced this bill to transfer the appraisals from the Auditor General to the Department of Revenue and it passed the House, and incidentally I might say that the roll-call on that bill in the House convinces me that we cannot expect a vote on party lines, because we find that no fewer than fourteen Members of the present minority voted in favor of the bill to accomplish this purpose which their leader now claims is wrong. However, we had a Republican Senate at that time and they failed to go along because they felt they should not sacrifice their political power.

Going into the next chapter, in 1937 the Democratic party had control of both branches of the Legislature, and again this same change was recommended and again a bill was introduced, this time by Mr. Ominsky who was then the whip of the Democratic party. This bill again provided for the transfer from the Auditor General's Department to the Department of Revenue these appraisers in question today. This bill was introduced early in the session, because it is only No. 92 of that session, but it lay in committee for quite a little while. It became apparent to the party that there was no use to transfer these appraisers so far as they were concerned, because in June their newly elected Democratic Auditor General would be coming into power, and they sidestepped the question of ripper and maintained the appointments in the Auditor General's Department.

There again we had a case of division of party leadership, the same as had blocked this necessary reform for two previous sessions of Legislature.

Now, we come down to 1939. We had no chance in 1939, if you will recall the set-up, and besides that I will admit the then Auditor General was doing a good job, and it was decided in view of the slimness of the majority which we had in the Senate and the problems that were created, to side-step this question.

In 1941, going into the next chapter, the Joint State Government Commission made its report to the Legislature and requested and recommended that this change be made for efficiency in government and for economy in the collection of taxes.

Now, in 1943, the present chapter that we are now writing, we find at last that we are going to go ahead and make this transfer which has been recommended since 1929, and which has come up in one form or another in every session of the Legislature. We find that we are going to take the step necessary to make this reform which I pointed out is necessary.

Looking back and reviewing that little bit of history, you will find that this move has been blocked year after year, not because anybody could show that it was wrong, but because either of political strife between the parties or because of political division on the part of the party in power, this misunderstanding has in every instance worked to the detriment of the taxpayers and the people of the Commonwealth. This misunderstanding has put off and delayed this reform which we now propose to put through.

The gentleman of the minority think perhaps that we can be frightened by the word "ripper." I say that we are not going to be and need not be, because this is not a ripper bill. If I could take the time I would like to refer all the Members to the speech made by the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, in the 1935 session. He claimed at that time that as a result of a study the sum of $4,300,000 per biennium would be saved. He showed how he arrived at these figures by referring to an investigation by the Department of Revenue into the efficiency of the system. He suggested, for example, that in addition to the amounts in which collections were in default, that many counties were each being served by one appraiser, when one appraiser could efficiently serve many counties in an area. He felt that the discharge of these employes would save a lot of travelling expense. He pointed out, as I want to point out, that the power of collection is not in the Auditor General's Department at present. The power of collection, the supervision of collections and assessments, the checking of reports, the making of the forms and prescribing of the methods of collection are all now in the Department of Revenue. The only thing that the Auditor General has is the naked power of appointment, and the system is bad because the men appointed by him are not responsible to the people in the Department of Revenue who really prescribe the work. They need respond only to the Auditor General. Regardless of what party is in control of either office or both offices, that system is faulty, where a man working for one person is responsible to another person.

I did not care particularly, Mr. Speaker, to go into the things brought up by the gentleman from Philadelphia regarding the present Auditor General. He has claimed, however, I think, that it would cost $292,000 to audit these accounts. Let me point out here that the Auditor General would not be auditing these accounts. He would be auditing the Department of Revenue, and any work that is carried out in the auditing of the inheritance taxes is something that should be and is being done right now, so that there should be no additional expense. So far as the improvements provided by the present Auditor General are concerned, let me point out only by reference to the figures in the cost of collection of this thing. I have a short resume here of the gross collections and the expense of collections for various years. Up until 1940 we find that the cost of collection ran approximately four and a half or four and three quarters to five per cent for four previous years.

That includes, gentlemen, years in which each party had its hand in the control of the Auditor General's office. Then we find that in 1941 and in 1942 the taxes collected, the gross collections were not only much lower than they had been in any of these previous years, but the actual expense of collections was greatly increased, with the result that the percentage of the cost of collections rose from four and a half or five to seven and a half percent, and in 1942, eight percent.

I say therefore that certainly no claim can be made because of the efficiency of the present Auditor General, that the change desired for more than ten years should now be delayed. I say that we intend to, hope to, and we feel confident that we are doing the right thing when we do transfer the power of appointment over to the Department which at present controls the collection of these taxes.

There is no reason to call this a ripper; it is a long needed reform. This bill, gentlemen, represents good legislation, and if some partisan people want to cry out that we have some ulterior motives in this bill, we stand ready to meet that challenge, and if we are wrong the people will make us answer for it. We are going to maintain our position and vote for this bill and the following three bills to accomplish something which has already been too long delayed.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will accept the plane upon which the debate thus far has gone and will continue it so. The gentleman from Cambria very frankly told us about the lurid past of this particular function, and makes reference to interparty strife and strife between parties as having been associated with the history of this agency ever since its inception. So, Mr. Speaker, we will let it go until 1940, but I have to say this, I think that the record will show and the figures will prove, that the collection power of this tax is in the Department of Revenue, it was a good thing in 1941 when the present Auditor General took office that he did a little bit more than merely appoint appraisers to merely appraise the estates, because when he took office, by reason of this dereliction on the part of previous Secretaries of Revenue, if we may term it such, the collections had fallen off so badly, and this orphan of state government had been so sadly neglected, that when the present Auditor General took office, an inspection and survey of that particular tax showed that there were three thousand one hundred and eighty-nine delinquent accounts, delinquent estates; there were three thousand one hundred and eighty-nine estates on which the taxes had not been collected and were in a delinquent status. The Department of Revenue had not been on its toes. The present Auditor General instituted a system to hurry up and to bring in this cash to the Commonwealth, at an extra cost, admittedly so, but he was able to do a good job in bringing in a lot of extra money which otherwise might still be lying on the books and in the banks and in the accounts of the administrators of the various estates, at a great loss to the Commonwealth, but in that one year by getting after the collecting agency of the Department of Revenue, the Auditor General, at an additional expense of just six tenths of one percent of the total, was able to collect over one million dollars in delinquent accounts, one million dollars more than had previously come in on delinquent accounts. That amounted to just about six percent, or a little more than six percent of the entire collections for that year. It seems as if the Secretaries of Revenue have needed prodding and should have had prodding, because their collection of these taxes was in bad shape. The Auditor General did that job. The Auditor General went further, instead of having these appraisers travel all over the State, he set the state up into ten separate districts and had appraisers in those districts take care of the business in those districts, so that traveling expenses were cut down. By so doing, I believe, proved to the people and proved to the Commonwealth, that merely allowing the Secretary of Revenue the right to collect the taxes never meant that the tax was collected. You have to have somebody prod the collector to get this money in because at best the estimates of revenue from inheritance taxes are guess work; you can never tell for a certainty how many people are going to die or how large their estates are going to be. It seems to me that the Secretaries of Revenue when they got in the amount of money that looked like the amount set up in the budget estimate, they sort of held off and stopped collecting, or at least were not very efficient in their collecting. The Auditor General made a real effort and really collected this money and that should be on the record.

As to the additional expense that must come to the present Auditor General should this function be removed from him, the auditing will not be merely auditing the figures submitted, but it seems to me that good auditing, good bookkeeping would indicate that persons in this department would have to duplicate in a great measure the work of the appraiser under the Secretary of Revenue, because, as has been demonstrated, so many of these accounts have been delinquent that someone will have to do something about making certain that they are taken out of the delinquent class and the tax actually brought into the treasury. The Auditor General will have to do that job because when his appraisers did the job those records under the Auditor General's control obviated the necessity for duplicating the audit of the Revenue Department's books to cover the same material that his own Department covered in prodding those collections. I think that the move being made is only being made because jobs are wanted, because if the method of collecting taxes was bad in 1929, 1931, 1933, 1935 and 1937, certainly it must have been just as bad in 1939, and in 1939 when the Republican party had good majorities in the House and Senate, and I refer to a good Senate majority, because when there were bills that were wanted by Arthur James they were passed and the votes were counted. Arthur James got all the legislation he wanted and he got it because he had enough votes to do it. All he needed was 26 votes, and by the time the session had gone but two or three weeks he had 26 or 27 true, tried and trusted voters.

I think what happened in 1939 was that it was demonstrated rather emphatically at least on the other side of this building that the method of collection and auditing that now prevails should remain, and I insist that it should remain today.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I want to take just a moment to reply to the gentleman's last statement. Taking his figures at face as to what happened in 1941, without exactly knowing the figures myself, I will agree with him and say just so; I don't doubt that a bit, because that situation arose. This is the very fault of this system that we are now trying to correct. He said that the Auditor General prodded these collectors in the collection. That was my point before and I make it again now, the Auditor General had become delinquent in his collections, or his employes had become delinquent, and who by the way were Democratic employes and not Republican, if the Department of Revenue was unable to prod those men into quick action even when the present Auditor General took over, again it is the fault of the system. The Auditor General did not have control, he could not tell these men, "You go out and get those taxes or you are dismissed." The Auditor General had only the power to say, "You go out and collect these taxes." It is no surprise to me that they were able to get more, because if they were faced with orders from their employer, instead of being faced with a request, it is quite natural that they would do more collecting.

But that does not explain the fact that the cost of collection rose still higher, up to eight percent when actually the receipts were decreasing, and all of this at a time when general taxes all over the state were up some $80,000,000. So again I say that this is a necessary move to keep the collection of the inheritance tax on the same basis of efficiency as we have established in the other forms of taxes, and again I urge the support of these bills by all the Members of the House, regardless of their political affiliation.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Mr. THRASHER. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate this recognition a whole lot. When I started into this world I started out in the milk business—

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest that he thinks all of us did.

Mr. THRASHER. Mr. Speaker, I received all my meals from "Child's Restaurant," and if this rationing keeps up I am afraid I've got to go back to it again.

Mr. COHEN. What a man, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ELY. Mr. Speaker, you have just heard why we are so proud to have Mr. Thrasher on the Dairy Industry Committee.

The SPEAKER. There is another milk man heard from.

on page 38 of today's calendar, bill on third reading postponed, be extended five days.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Till No. 575, as follows:

An Act to further amend the act approved the fourth day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-seven (P. L. 519) entitled "An act concerning boroughs and revising amending and consolidating the law relating to boroughs" by adding an additional clause to Section 1202 LIII relating to exemptions from advertising

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 That Section 1202 LIII of the act approved the fourth day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-seven (P. L. 519) entitled "An act concerning boroughs and revising amending and consolidating the law relating to boroughs" is hereby amended by adding at the end of said clause LIII the following additional exception to advertising and bidding

(f) Those made during the war in which the United States is now engaged and for six months thereafter for new additions extensions and enlargements of existing facilities and equipment for water works electric light gas sewer and sewage disposal works whether governmental or proprietary in character including those made heretofore during said period

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COHEN. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Brunner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman give us a short explanation of the purposes of the bill?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. Mr. Speaker, this bill is what might be termed a duration bill. It will excuse boroughs from the present laws requiring them to advertise for bids for certain types of work. The need for advertising at the present time, according to the information which I have received from the Association of State Boroughs, which incidentally approved this bill and asked me to sponsor it for them, is the fact that in a great many instances there is but one bid received. Frankly the bid wouldn't even come from a Pennsylvania concern but from a concern outside the state, there being no one in the state at times who can even bid on this kind of work.

In addition to that it is my understanding that the bids when they do come in have so many conditions attached to them, so many "ifs" that it almost becames an act of God if it eventually goes through. Furthermore, with the priority system the way it is and the War Production Board approval of bids on work and construction in excess of one thousand dollars, the Associations of Boroughs felt that this requisite should be waived for the duration of the war, and I believe, for six months thereafter. Accordingly I introduced the bill, and that is what it is designed to accomplish.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, is there any other provision in the general borough law which puts any limitation on the amount of construction or value of construction on which bids are required?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. Will the gentleman kindly repeat his question.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman state whether there is any other provision in the borough law which requires bidding for general construction work over any particular amount?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I believe so, yes, there is a five hundred dollar provision.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, would the general borough law requiring advertising for bids over five hundred dollars cover the items which are cut out of this bill on lines four and five on page two, and other public works and activity of the borough?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. Mr. Speaker, many of those would be exceptions to the present act requiring advertising.

Mr. COHEN. In other words, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman feels that other public works which were not specified, water, electric light and gas sewage disposal works and all other public works and activities would be subject to advertising for bids.

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. Exactly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. I thank the gentleman from Montgomery.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 591, Printer's No. 342 was called up by the Chair and the Clerk was instructed to read the bill. During the reading of the bill the Chair entertained a motion from the floor. The question is whether or not the entertaining of that motion was in order.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of the record I might state that the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bretherick, asked for the floor and was recognized under a point of order during the reading of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. There was no motion made. The gentleman from Delaware asked that the bill be read louder. The Clerk will read it a little louder.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Ewing.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EWING. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Ewing, Mr. Speaker, if this is only for the duration of the war?

Mr. EWING. No, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman what the increase in the term of the superintendents of schools is?

Mr. EWING. A two year period, Mr. Speaker. It makes it six years instead of four years.

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask the gentleman why he asked for such an increase in length of time?

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, the increase in time will give the superintendents and the assistant superintendents a longer tenure in office to carry on their work.

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask the gentleman why he does not increase it to four years instead of two years?

Mr. EWING. It is a compromise, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. I did not understand the gentleman.

Mr. EWING. A compromise, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. A compromise on what?

Mr. EWING. Making it six years instead of eight years.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I did not get the eight in the first place. I wonder where he found the eight.

Mr. EWING. The gentleman wanted an increase of four years and my compromise makes it six instead of eight.

Mr. LOVETT. I didn't get where the gentleman got the eight.

I said why didn't he increase it four years instead of two.

Mr. EWING. It is my bill, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Is there any good reason why the gentleman should not?

Mr. EWING. No, Mr. Speaker. If the gentleman wants his name on the bill, probably we can get a compromise on a couple more years.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if he would have any objection to amending this bill to make it twenty years.

Mr. EWING. Will the gentleman please state his amendment.

Mr. LOVETT. The amendment would increase the four year term to sixteen and twenty.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is talking about school directors, now is he not?

Mr. LOVETT. No, I am talking about superintendents.

Mr. EWING. Will the gentleman kindly repeat the question.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman have any real reason for the increase of two years?

Mr. EWING. As I said in the first place, Mr. Speaker, I made it very clear, the increase was to give the superintendents and assistant superintendents a longer tenure in office so that they can carry on their office for a longer period. The School directors are elected for a six year period.

Mr. LOVETT. What have the school directors to do with the superintendents?

Mr. EWING. They appoint them.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if the school directors for his particular district are elected all at the same time?

Mr. EWING. No, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Then I still do not know why the gentleman stopped at an increase of two years. If he thinks a longer period of time is a good thing why doesn't he make it eight years?

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I answered that a while ago. We will wait until the 1945 session for that.

Mr. LOVETT. That is all.

Mr. Speaker we are now moving along to increase the period of time of the superintendents of the schools. The gentleman upon interrogation says that possibly in 1944 or 1945 they may increase it two more years. The gentleman told me on the interrogation that it was for the purpose of allowing them to serve longer. You might just as well have an increase of eight years or an increase of four years as an increase of two years. There isn't any logic that I can find in the increase. The men who serve in the Legislature and only have a two year term, why they are interested in increasing the term of the superintendents of schools is beyond me. Therefore, I think this a very bad precedent that we are setting on this increase, and the time will come that these fellows will receive a tenure of office for life. I, therefore, ask the membership of this House to vote down this type of legislation.

Mr. STONIER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Ewing.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EWING. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STONIER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny please tell me just what the intent of this bill is?

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I explained that to the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, a few minutes ago.

Mr. STONIER. Mr. Speaker, I did not understand the gentleman very well so I thought I would ask the question again.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman from Lackawanna knows all about this bill. It increases their terms two years.

Mr. STONIER. I ask this side of the House to vote this bill down.

Mr. EWING. I ask every member of this House to vote for this bill.

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a few remarks to straighten out these seemingly muddled minds.

There are two or three good reasons for this bill. In answer to the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, relative to the time, I do not believe it is necessary to lengthen the term one hundred percent to do good work, but the six years I think gives the superintendent or the assistant superintendent a real chance to carry through a program which is not necessarily true in a four year term. With our growing work in the school system, with both the curricular work and the extra-curricular work, they need more than four years to prove their worth in carrying out their program.

Secondly, there seems to be some reason for a longer term. The teachers have tenure,—got it in 1937. In 1939 we enlarged it by giving them rating cards. The superintendent of the county or the district superintendent must rate those beginner teachers for two years, and those teachers have influence, they also have relatives and they have possibly enough power to keep a superintendent from rating the teachers properly because of influence. If the superintendent has a six year term he can show to his constituents in the school system that he has been doing good work. In four years' time he cannot necessarily prove that he was right when it comes to rating the teachers.

I believe that for those two reasons a six year term for the county and district superintendent and their assistants is a wise move. It means efficiency, both in administration and supervision. I do hope that we pass this bill and I would like both sides to vote for it.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Sollenberger.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman why he thinks a superintendent cannot fulfill his duties in four years.

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I did not say that, neither did I infer that he could not fulfill his duties. I said he could not do as efficient work in four years in carrying out his program as he will be able to do in six years.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, along that same line then may I ask the gentleman if he is doing a good job in the Legislature when his term is only two years?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, that is up to my constituents to show me whether I am when election time comes around.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if public opinion should also have a voice in deciding how long a superintendent should be in office?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman I might say that there is much truth in his statement, but that is also true of the teachers, and I am a teacher, and they have tenure. I have tenure, life time tenure, if I do not violate the rules laid down by the rating card that I spoke of, made up in 1939.

Mr. MAXWELL. That is all.

Mr. Speaker, I see no reason whatever for the passage of a bill of this type. The school directors are elected for a six year term, I grant you that, but the school directors' election and the terms are staggered; they are not all elected at the same time. Therefore if you elect a superintendent for six years that will practically mean indefinite tenure for that superintendent, for the simple reason that the school directors are going into office in different years and will not be sufficiently acquainted with their superintendents to know whether he is doing a good job or not. Therefore I would say it would be impossible for them conscientiously to decide whether they would continue this term for another six years or not. Also I think that as school directors are the representatives of the people in their particular districts, I think public opinion should through their representatives, the school directors have something to say on how long a superintendent should continue in office.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I would ask the gentleman to yield for the purpose of allowing me to make a motion to place this bill on the final passage postponed calendar.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would not like to yield the floor.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman declines to yield.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I think the bill should be voted on this evening. That is why I do not like to yield. But continuing, Mr. Speaker, the people in the various districts elect school directors to represent them. Why should we as legislators tie the hands of the school directors, tie public opinion in the various districts by increasing the term of office of superintendents? I have heard a lot about home rule from the other side of this House; I heard about home rule from this side of the House, so therefore this is something that should be left up to the men that are elected back home, to handle this situation.

I have heard time and time again on this floor, both sides of this House seem to be in favor of home rule, and I would, therefore, ask the Members on both sides of the House to vote this bill down.

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER pro tempore declared the ayes appear to have it,

Whereupon, a division was called for, eighty-six Members having voted in the affirmative and twenty-three in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 720, Printer's No. 347 was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 1082 was introduced by the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter and the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown.

I should like to give a short history of the bill to emphasize and to point out that this is the first bill that this House has acted upon that resulted from an invitation by the Governor to the minority to come in and sit down and discuss and agree upon a war measure. We all know that in the special session of 1942 the Governor of the state at that time, Arthur James, made a demand for extraordinary powers to be given to him in war time. He requested, in fact he insisted upon a bill to give him the right to suspend, alter, modify, in fact to create new laws as he saw fit for war time purposes. We all know very well and the public knows that such powers should not be given to their Chief Executive, and as a result of the protest against such powers to be given to Arthur James, the bill embodying the powers which he desired never passed either the House or the Senate. This year, however, Governor Martin, agreeable to his original request that there be cooperation in war time measures, invited us in to discuss this bill and another bill, and as a result of the conference held with him by both the minority and the majority, and as a result of the conference with the Attorney General, one bill that was suggested was done away with. This bill represents, then, the desires of both the majority and the minority to assist in the war effort. It was brought about by a cordial invitation of the Governor to sit down and discuss a war program, and by the speedy acquiescence after discussion by the minority, to give the Governor this war time power which we were so fearful of in the 1942 special session. We think this bill will give the Governor the needed powers and we think these powers are proper at this time.

Mr. Speaker, I want to emphasize again that if and when, as has been shown by this bill, the Governor of the Commonwealth wants cooperation in putting across a war time program, we are here ready to go along.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the sponsor explain this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Winner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WINNER. I shall, Mr. Speaker. In answer to the gentleman, this bill has to do with the fiscal code. I studied it quite a bit and so has Mr. Reese, from Dauphin County, and he will answer the gentleman's question.

Mr. BAKER. I will withdraw my request, Mr. Speaker. I realize that Mr. Reese is very tired and hungry, so we will go on with the rest of the calendar then.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, this bill is not on my file.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, is it not necessary that each Member have the bill on file?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Constitution provides that it shall be printed for the use of the Members. It is not necessary to be on file.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Moran, stated that this bill is not on his desk. Am I to understand the ruling of the Chair to be that the bill may be acted upon and the vote taken when the bill is not on file on the desk of each member? If the gentleman tells me that he has the bill on file, that is another story, but I want an answer, Mr. Speaker, to the other question, if the bill is not on a Member's desk whether or not we can proceed with a vote on the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair wants to make it clear that we will not vote on the bill unless each Member has it on his desk.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I now have the bill on my desk.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

SENATE MESSAGF

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 13, 1943.

Whereas, The Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association was organized in 1895 and has been in continuous and uninterrupted existence since that date; and

Whereas, The Association has been recognized by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in its rules; and

Whereas, It has been the custom of the Association to hold a biennial dinner during regular sessions of the General Assembly in which members of the General Assembly have participated; and

Whereas, This year is the 48th anniversary of the organization of the Association which is the oldest association of its kind in the Nation; and

Whereas, The members of the Association have voted to dispense with their biennial dinners for the duration of the war; and

Whereas, The Association has used its funds, ordinarily expended toward the cost of these biennial dinners, to purchase War Bonds; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania felicitates the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association on its forty-eighth anniversary; and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly expresses its hope that conditions will be such in 1945 that the Senators and Representatives can unite with the Correspondents in celebrating in a fitting and appropriate manner the Golden Anniversary of this Association; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association at its offices in the News Room in the Capitol.

Mr. SKALE. Mr. Speaker, I heard a few moments ago a threat by the gentleman from Venango, Mr. McKinney, that he might poll the House tomorrow. I would like to remind the gentleman and the other gentlemen of the House that to do that might impose a very severe hardship on one of the Members from Philadelphia, namely the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, who tomorrow night is being married. I am sure that if we would do that it certainly would be very unfair to him.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, if that would happen, I would suggest that you tell the Sergeant-at-Arms to bring the Rabbi too.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thinks that that is a good suggestion.

SENATE

THURSDAY, April 15, 1943.

The Senate met at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John C. Bell, Jr.) in the Chair.

PRAYER

In the absence of the Chaplain, prayer was offered by the Senator from Berks, Dr. RUTH.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for this new day. We ask Thy spirit to guide us this day that we may do Thy will in whatever comes before us. We pray that Thou wilt use us in this coming weekend in our homes and communities so that we may show forth the love with which Thou didst enter into Thy great sacrifice on the Cross, that man may believe in Thee, that the world may follow Thee, and that love and peace may rule throughout the world.

We ask it in Thy Holy name. Amen.

JOURNAL

The PRESIDENT. The Clerk will proceed to read the Journal of the preceding Session.

(During the reading of the Journal the following occurred.)

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I suggest the lack of a quorum, and ask for a roll call.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny postpone the roll call until we come to the order of Leave of Absence, or does the Senator from Allegheny wish a roll call at this time?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I request a roll call at this time.

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I join in the request of the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I join in the request of the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask that the Sergeant-at-Arms be instructed to close the doors, and that all Senators take their seats and answer to the roll call.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I have no objection to the request—

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, there is nothing before the Senate but the calling of the roll.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his point of order.

Mr. COLEMAN. My point of order, Mr. President, is that I have not heard any member of the Senate suggest a roll call.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the gentleman from Lackawanna, the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, has asked for a roll call.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I join in the request of the Senator from Allegheny, that the roll be called.

Mr. President, if I am not mistaken, it requires four Senators to join in a request for a roll call.

Mr. PRESIDENT. The gentleman from McKean is correct. Under the rules, it does require four Senators to request a roll call for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not a quorum is present.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Then, Mr. President, I join in the request of the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker.

The PRESIDENT. The Clerk will call the roll.

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred.)

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I am not trying to stop the roll call, but I just ask the same treatment from the Chair that was accorded us yesterday, and that we be permitted to ask for leaves of absence, the same as we did yesterday.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, yesterday the request for a roll call was not made until after we had passed the order of Leaves of Absence.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I will have to insist that the Journal be read.

The PRESIDENT. May I suggest to the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, I think that it would be much better if leaves of absence were granted first, and then the roll be called. However, that is a matter for the Senate to decide and not for the Chair. If Senator Walker and the other members of the Senate who joined in the request for a roll call insist that the roll be called before Leaves of Absence are requested, the Chair will have to accede to their request. I personally think, however, that it would be much better to wait until Leaves of Absence are requested.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, upon the conclusion of the calling of the roll, I think it is perfectly proper then to consider leaves of absence, so that the gentlemen who are absent with cause will have that placed on the record.

I submit, under the rules of the Senate, Mr. President, that there is nothing before the Senate at this time but the calling of the roll.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair sustains the position of the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

The Clerk will call the roll.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I wish to announce that Senator Becker is attending a hearing in the Senate caucus room.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair feels that any explanation should come after the calling of the roll.

QUORUM PRESENT

Whereupon,

The Clerk called the roll and the following Senators signified their presence in the Senate by saying "present".

The PRESIDENT. The roll having been called and 29 Senators being present, the Chair declares that there is a quorum.

What is the pleasure of the Senate?

REQUESTS FOR LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I ask temporary leaves of absence for Senators Watkins, Dent, Becker, Cox and Snowden, who are now engaged in business under the direction of the Senate. I ask temporary leaves of absence for the Senators I just mentioned, until they have finished the work they are engaged in.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to leaves of absence for the Senators named by the gentleman from McKean, Senator Wilson, who are attending to the business of the Senate.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I object to that permission, until I rise on a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his point of information.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to learn from the Chair how many members of this body have obtained leaves of absence prior to the roll call.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will please wait a moment.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I asked for leaves of absence, temporarily, for members of the Senate who are engaged at the moment in the business of the Senate, and there is nothing else before the Senate at this time.

RULING BY THE CHAIR

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules that it having been determined that a quorum is present, the Senate will proceed to the regular order of business, which first is approval of the Journal of the preceding session, followed by leaves of absence, at which time leaves of absence can properly be requested for those for whom leaves of absence are justly due.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, am I in order to ask the Chair how many members of the Senate have obtained leaves of absence before the calling of the roll.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria is out of order at the present time. Just as soon as that order of business is reached the Chair will be glad to entertain the inquiry of the gentleman from Cambria.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The Clerk proceeded to further read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HEYBURN and Mr. SCARLETT, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Wade asked and obtaned leave of absence for Mr. TAYLOR, on account of illness.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. ZIESENHEIM, who is serving in the armed forces of the United States.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. EDMONDS, on account of illness.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. CRIDER, on account of an emergency business matter.

He also asked and obtained temporary leave of absence for Mr. DEITRICK, on account of an emergency case that he felt he should attend to this morning. Senator Deitrick will return to the Senate shortly.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from McKean will proceed.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, on account of the parliamentary inquiry raised by the gentleman from Cambria, Senator Haluska, do I understand that the Chair ruled that I could not request leaves of absence for the Senators I mentioned before and that that request has not been granted.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Thomas B. Wilson asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. WATKINS, who is engaged in legislative business in pursuance to a resolution adopted by this Senate, and who is in the Capitol.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. DENT, who is engaged in legislative business in pursuance to a resolution adopted by this Senate, and who is in the Capitol.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. BECKER, who is engaged in legislative business in pursuance to a resolution adopted by this Senate, and who is in the Capitol.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. COX, who is engaged in legislative business in pursuance to a resolution adopted by this Senate, and who is in the Capitol.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. SNOWDEN, who is engaged in legislative business in pursuance to a resolution adopted by this Senate, and who is in the Capitol.

Mr. McGinnis asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. JASPAN, who is engaged in the trial of a case in Philadelphia.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. HOLLAND, who is attending a meeting in the Capitol this morning.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise on a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his point of information.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, as I understand it, when the roll was called earlier this morning, I think twenty-nine Senators answered to the roll call, and leaves of absence have been granted to ten other Senators, which makes thirty-nine. There are eleven members missing. I would like to determine from the Chair what members have obtained leaves of absence prior to today.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair will be glad to answer that.

The Senate will be at ease until the information is obtained.

REQUEST WITHDRAWN

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I understand that the information which I requested previously is not at hand, and in order not to delay the business of the Senate further, I now withdraw my previous request.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WOODWARD asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, are we still under the order of business of leaves of absence.

The PRESIDENT. We are.

Mr. WOODWARD. I simply wish to say, as to my colleague, Senator Edmonds, that I am his substitute physician and stand ready at a moment's notice to give him a certificate for his absence, which enables me to make an observation.

This is the first time I have seen some of the Sergeants-at-Arms and I am perfectly delighted. I also call the attention of the Chair to the fact that we have nine Sergeants-at-Arms. I have now seen three of them, and I would like to have all the Sergeants-at-Arms come here, as I would like to make their acquaintance.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. LETZLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President, I have been over to the Department of Revenue relative to important legislation I wanted to get cleared up, and that is the reason I was not present in the Senate earlier.

The PRESIDENT. The statement of the gentleman from Clearfield, Senator Letzler, will be noted in the record.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. CROWE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I wish to report present. The reason I was absent when the roll was called was that I was in the barber's chair, and now have only half a haircut.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WALKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have absolutely no objection, and I have not voiced any objection on this floor at any time to leaves of absence being granted to any of my colleagues in the Senate, for legitimate reasons but, Mr. President, I would like to respectfully suggest that there are a number of us here this morning, who are, in their private lives, engaged in the practice of law and our practices have suffered because we are here, because of cases being postponed or being farmed out to lawyers who are smart enough not to run for the Senate.

Mr. President, I now serve notice that from now on until this Senate adjourns sine die, I will object to members of this Senate asking for leaves of absence so they can go home and try cases, because if some of us have to stay here and suffer through this filibuster, I am going to insist that all who are physically able come here and suffer with us the miseries that have been inflicted upon us during the past several days, and I say now that we should all suffer that misery together.

The gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, who is the author of this filibuster, has to sit here and suffer as do many of his colleagues, and I feel that we all should suffer together.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, the first filibuster I have seen has been going on here now for over half an hour. Why do we not get to the business of the day instead of all these inquiries?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. FARRELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I do not very often rise to speak, but I wish to say that I agree one hundred per cent with the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker. Since I have been a member of this Senate, I have not been absent one minute.

However, Mr. President, I wish to say that this morning I went out to the washroom, and I was absent when the roll was called, and I wish to say further that if I am going to spend my time here and do nothing, then, let us all go home. I think unless a person has a reasonable excuse that he should be in this Senate, and I think it is outrageous if they are not here. You are elected as Senators to serve the Commonwealth and not to go away and try cases. Of course, if you are ill, that is a satisfactory excuse and you are not expected to be here. We do not expect Senator Edmonds to be here, but I for one back up what Senator Walker says.

I do not say much on this floor, but I do not like to come here and be unable to transact state business, because there are not enough members present to do so.

The PRESIDENT. The point of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, is very well taken.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I am sorry I can not agree with everything that the gentleman from Philadelphia has said. I do agree that the members of the Senate should be urged to arrange their business so that they could come here at least for a portion of the legislative week, but to state that public business has been held back because of the absence of members, I do not think that is true. I think there have always been twenty-six Senators ready to vote in the Senate of Pennsylvania. I am quite proud of the members of the Senate who have come here and attended to their duties, but I repeat, I do not think that any legislation has been held up or has not had due and proper consideration, because anybody was absent.

I want to say this to the members of the Senate, that it is just about as difficult for me to come here as it is for anybody. I have to make a living, and I am not only physically worn out, but I am strapped financially, and I ought to go home and get a notarial fee, if I can get it, because the sheriff is on the front porch. If I can do it at any time, I am going to do it.

I want to say another thing, Mr. President, I am a believer in the traditions of the Senate and the way it has been functioning throughout the years, when people have been allowed to go home and attend to their business. When a minority leader has been able to say to the majority, we have so and so who is interested in such and such legislation, we have always waited for him, whether the Republicans or the Democrats were in power, and I believe that today we can get along that way without any trouble.

We are now in a position where strong feeling has developed and where technicalities are being raised and it is hard for us to do business, but for a couple of days we have given a demonstration in the Senate of Pennsylvania that we can do business whether technicalities are raised or not, in spite of the technicalities.

I say, Mr. President, let us go ahead, and let us not worry about some fellow who is trying a law suit or has to bring a baby into the world. We will be all right.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COLEMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, getting back to the plight of the gentleman from Monroe, Senator Crowe, who appeared on the Senate floor with half a haircut, one of the punsters on our side of the House made the suggestion that we are used to getting "clipped" over here and we are delighted that the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Crowe, is enjoying the same treatment.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John C. Bell, Jr.) in the presence of the State signed the same.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Charles H. Ealy) in the Chair.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. HOLLAND asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. President, this morning I was requested by a delegation of citizens from my district to read to the Senate two demands by people in convention now being held in Harrisburg by the C.I.O., and I now request permission to do so.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny may proceed.

Mr. HOLLAND. The statements are as follows:

RESOLUTION EMERGENCY LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

"Whereas, This session of the Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania must not end without passing legislation truly in the interest of the war effort and the people of this Commonwealth,

"Therefore Be It Resolved, That the Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council, CIO, in Convention assembled, propose the following minimum emergency legislative program for Victory to every member of the Assembly for immediate action—

A. A Constitutional Amendment in Pennsylvania providing that all men and women over the age of eighteen shall have the right to vote;

B. Legislation outlawing discrimination in employment in industry, civil service, and public utilities due to race, color, national origin or creed, and outlawing discriminatory references in advertising for employment;

C. Adequate appropriation by the Commonwealth to set up child care nuresries in industrial areas to enable mothers of young children to fill vital war jobs;

D. Legislation for "partial unemployment compensation," who are employed for only a part of the week, due to material shortages and other problems involved in war production;

E. Legislation for full unemployment compensation under the act for men returning from the armed services, pending their finding employment;

F. Provisions for a real post-war planning commission, with adequate appropriation in the budget to propose means to solve the problems which will develop at the end of the war, concerning public works, slum clearance, housing, rural electrification, extended social security, conservation, and conversion of industry.

"And Be It Further Resolved, That this is a program designed to win the war, and that we call upon members of the Assembly to introduce discharge resolutions to secure immediate consideration and record vote on these matters on the floor.

"Adopted April 13, 1943, Harrisburg, Pa."

"RESOLUTION ON PENNSYLVANIA ASSEMBLY

"Whereas, The critical job facing the Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania when it convened this year, was the job of mobilizing the people and resources of this Commonwealth 100% in our Victory effort, and

"Whereas, Instead of addressing itself to a program to carry out this job, the Assembly has so far been given over to disruptive attacks on labor and the working people, attempts to smash the social gains scored in the State, ripper bills of every kind, handouts to the financial interests and corporations, attempts to gerrymander progressive representatives out of office by unjust re-apportionment, and to sheer petty partisan politics, and

"Whereas, The present trend in the Assembly is making a mockery of the pledge of the Governor of the Commonwealth, who is the responsible leader of the party in power, that his Administration and his party would be dedicated to a win-the-war program, and

"Whereas, The present developments in the Assembly threaten unity of our people and popular morale for Victory, and threaten the welfare of the common people of this arsenal of democracy.

"Therefore Be It Resolved, That the Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council, CIO, in Convention assembled, representing many thousand of war production soldiers in the great steel, ship building, electrical, machine, textile, clothing, aluminum, glass, leather goods, and other industries, demands that the Assembly of this Commonwealth get down to business on a program to help win the war,

"Be It Further Resolved, That to insure that the present trend in the Assembly is reversed, destructive legislation defeated, and constructive legislation passed, we call upon all sections of the people, labor in the CIO, the AFL, and other Unions, the working farmers, and the plain people in all walks of life, to unite and make their voices heard for a program for Victory and the people in this Commonwealth, and

"Be It Finally Resolved, That the officers and a commitee of this Council be directed immediately to contact other branches of the labor movement who will co-operate on all-out win-the-war and people's program, for the purpose of joint representations to responsible political leaders and to members of the Assembly.

"Adopted on April 13, 1943, Convention in Harrisburg Pa."

REQUEST FOR TEMPORARY LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, yesterday the distinguished Senator from Allegheny, Senator Holland and I were invited to attend a conference at eleven o'clock this morning in the House caucus room with a delegation from the C.I.O., who are now in convention assembled in the Capitol City, and at this time I would like to respectfully request temporary leave of absence for Senator Holland and myself, so that I may go down and be refreshed with some of those resolutions that we heard read on the floor this morning, and upon my return, I will take the opportunity to make a few comments to my colleagues with regard to the legislative program.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Is there objection to temporary leave of absence for the Senator from Allegheny, Senator Walker, and the Senator from Allegheny, Senator Holland? The Chair hears none. Leave is granted.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Mr. COLEMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows and referred to the Committee on State Government.

INVITING THE HON. JOSEPH F. GUFFEY AND THE HON. JAMES J. DAVIS TO APPEAR BEFORE A JOINT SESSION AND REPORT THE STATE OF THE NATION AND THE CONDUCT AND PROGRESS OF THE WAR AND POST-WAR PLANNING

In the Senate, April 15, 1943.

The newspaper reports of the conduct and progress of the Wars in which our Nation is now engaged, continue to impress us with confidence in its final successful conclusion.

The plans promulgated by leading statesmen for the conduct of the Nation and of the World after the termination of the war, are different, and include such as would change our mode of life.

The Congress of the United States and its members are in close touch with world affairs, and are acquainted with facts that are not made known to all the people.

It would be of great value to the members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth to hear directly from members in Congress from Pennsylvania and their messages might have a beneficial effect upon pending legislation; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That the President Pro Tempore of the Senate shall communicate with the two United States Senators, the Honorable Joseph F. Guffey and the Honorable James J. Davis, the Keystone State's ambassadors to the seat of the Federal Government at Washington, and invite them to appear together, at an agreeable time, before a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives of this General Assembly, and give to its members a full report of the state of the Nation and the conduct and progress of the war and of post-war activities and plans, to the end that Pennsylvania may be fully and authentically advised of the things which are of vital interest to her people, and that this great Commonwealth may be the better guided in the formation of a legislative policy that shall protect her best interests, accelerate her efforts in assisting in the successful prosecution of the war and in making wise plans for the days that are to follow the termination of hostilities.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Is there objection?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I do not know whether the members of the Senate listened to the reading of this resolution or not, but it provides for a joint session in order to hear two speeches, one by Senator Guffey and the other by Senator Davis. Whether the Senators want to hear any more speeches or not, I do not know but I would like to warn them what the resolution is all about. I have no objection; I can stand it personally.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I rise on a point of information.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Jefferson will state his point of information.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Do I understand that there is a call that this be acted upon immediately.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. That is correct.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. I rise in place to make this statement. I feel that this attendance today does not justify action at this time, and I therefore object to its being acted upon immediately. I suggest that it go over for the present, and while I am on my feet, I want to serve notice on this Senate, that you are requiring all of us to be here early and late, four or five days, perhaps a week, and with the feeling that has been running here this week, and the inconceniences that have been put upon those of us who have tried to serve the state without any idea of political matters and without any partisanship that the time has not come when we should have to call upon the United States Senate or upon the United States House of Repersentatives or any other man who serves in any capacity in Washington to come and tell us about the affairs of the nation.

We have all kinds of newspapers, we have all kinds of members of the Senate and House of Representatives offering us all kinds of information and making all kinds of speeches and giving us all kinds of advice and all kinds of information to see that we do not make any errors. If you people do not, through the radio and through the press, and through the eloquent speeches on this side and that side know what the federal government is doing or have some opinion upon it, it would be pretty poor policy to give some of our time to the very distinguished United States Senators representing us, we hope, in the great Senate of United States, and to me it seems a thing that should not be done at this time.

If it had been given us earlier in the session, so that it would have been of some real use, there would be some justification or excuse for it. It seems to me, that if those two gentlemen have any message of any kind to send to us, I suggest that they put it in writing and mail it to us. Should we recognize their right to come before us to mould public opinion, under the guise of saying that they are reporting from Congress the condition of the United States? Think about it, the condition of the United States, to be told to us by any Senator or anybody else. It speaks for itself in very much stronger language than can be put into effect by either of the Senators who might come here. Therefore, I feel that it would be a waste of time, no matter how intelligent and how wonderful an orator may come, whatever the information may be that he brings to us in the last days of the session, being limited as we are to the business which we are supposed to do, to give our time to these people to tell us what to do and create more feeling.

Mr. President, this is only the start of some of the things that I have been thinking about during this week and I propose from now on, and I serve notice herewith that along with some of the other gentlemen, who have had so much of their own way on that side, reading papers and repeating things that somebody else wrote for them, I have some few words to say myself, and therefore, whether you want to take it or not, it does not make any difference to me. I think it is time for somebody to get up and say something, and I am serving notice today here on the floor, as I have served notice in some other places, to the effect that from now on, if it is a free-for-all, if it is a football game, let us have it and we will start in and we will play the game from a technical standpoint or as a free-for-all, just as you wish it.

Therefore, Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration of this resolution at this time, and probably at any time.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, very early I was taught at the knee of my very devoted mother to have respect for my elders, and I do not intend to get into any acrimonious debate with the gentleman from Jefferson.

I felt, from my observations in the last week or two, that he was rather anxious to get on his feet and to express some of the things that he had in mind about the alleged filibuster on the Democratic side, but I had no idea that the introduction of a resolution, which has absolutely no connection with what is going on, would afford him the medium for expression of his sentiments.

Let me say, first of all, that when he is talking about repeating a speech, I do not think he is making reference to me, because I want it known right here and now that I have never at any time repeated a speech or delivered one that was written by any other gentleman but myself.

Further, Mr. President, I can not agree with the gentleman from Jefferson that listening to a speech or speeches by members of the United States Senate is a waste of time, because as you all know, those gentlemen are in closer touch with the situation than are the members of the general assembly of Pennsylvania, and we may get from them some sort of a concrete suggestion for some war time legislation, which obviously is lacking in this Session of the Senate. So far as wasting time is concerned, Mr. President, I do not think that either one of these gentlemen would have used any more time than was used in the demonstration to which the Senate was subjected this morning. As to myself, I am frank to confess maybe I contributed to the waste today.

Mr. President, I am not going to quarrel about immediate consideration of this resolution. I think maybe some good could come out of it, but to paraphrase a rather familiar tune, We did it before and I think we ought to do it again.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The resolution is referred to the Committee on State Government.

RESOLUTION

Mr. WOODWARD offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

REQUESTING THAT CERTAIN HOUSE BILLS ON THE CALENDAR SHALL NOT BE READ AT LENGTH

In the Senate, April 15, 1943.

Whereas, there are now on the Calendar 12 bills No. 829 to 889 inclusive which accomplish the change of one word namely, the word "motor" to the word "state" police,

And Whereas, by actual count these 12 bills to change one word contain 15,173 words,

Resolved, that an exception to the present procedure of reading bills, be adopted in the case of these bills and that the Clerk will not be required to read any of these bills at length.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Is there objection?

Mr. WOODWARD. I ask for immediate consideration, because, Mr. President, I have consulted the villian of the peace, Senator Barr, and he says he will o. k. this.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WOODRING. I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Northampton will state his point of order.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, I have no objection to immediate consideration of the resolution, but I rise to express the point of order that we can not by resolution set aside the provisions of the Constitution. If it is the thought and pleasure of the body of the Senate to raise no objection to symbolic readings, I am perfectly agreeable, but I do not think we should approach the question by resolution, which by its own nature can not set aside a Constitutional provision.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Does the gentleman from Northampton object to immediate consideration?

Mr. WOODRING. Out of deference to my good friend, Dr. Woodward, I will raise no objection.

RESOLUTION REFERRED

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Chair, as an individual member of the Senate, objects to immediate consideration.

The resolution is therefore referred to the Committee on State Government.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise on a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WOODWARD. The resident is out of order; he has no vote when he is sitting up front.

Mr. HEYBURN. I will object, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. If the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, insists that it is not proper for me, while occupying the Chair, to file objection, I will call someone else to the Chair.

Mr. WOODWARD. I do not insist on that, Mr. President.

RESOLUTION RECALLING FROM THE GOVERNOR HOUSE BILL No. 694

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows, considered and agreed to:

In the House of Representatives, April 14, 1943.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 694, Printer's No. 131, entitled:

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE TO REQUEST ALL DEALERS IN POULTRY TO DISCONTINUE SALE OF CHICKS, DUCKLINGS AND RABBITS DURING THE EASTER SEASON

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House, which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 5, 1943.

Each Easter Season in this enlightened country thousands of live chicks and ducklings and young rabbits are sold for temporary Easter pets for children who know nothing about, and care less for, their proper feeding and care.

Most of these unfortunate chicks and duckling and rabbits die within a few weeks of starvation or misuse or plain cruelty.

Each one of these chicks or ducklings or rabbits, if properly cared for would have grown to maturity and in time would have assisted in reducing the food scarcity existing in the nation.

The sale of these live fowl and animals has become more than a matter of cruelty and now takes its place as a means of hindering and interfering with the prosecution of the war effort by wasting needed food and increasing the scarcity of meat.

It is now a matter more for the attention and action of the State Council of Defense than one for local societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the attention of the State Council of Defense is hereby called to the situation created by the sale of chicks, ducklings and young rabbits during the Easter Season and the Council is hereby respectfully requested to request all merchants, farmers, and dealers in poultry and other livestock to immediately discontinue the practice of selling such chicks, ducklings and rabbits and to publicize its actions in order that the public might be informed of its contribution to the scarcity of food in the purchase of such livestock; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House shall transmit a copy of this resolution to the Chairman of the State Council of Defense.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate concur in the House resolution.

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise on a point of information.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Cambria will state his point of information.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, by the passage of this resolution now, would it be mandatory or just a request upon the farmers of this Commonwealth.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The resolution is simply a request, as the Chair understands it.

Mr. HALUSKA. There is no question of law involved, is that correct.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. There is no question of law involved. It is a request, as the Chair understands it.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, as I understand it, the resolution is simply a request. However, the Senator from Butler, Mr. Carr, did introduce a bill covering the same situation here on Monday of this week, I think it was.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his point of order.

Mr. COLEMAN. As I understand it, Mr. President, we can not enact laws by the passage of concurrent resolutions, adopted by the House and the Senate, but I am just a bit fearful, since we have delegated to the State Council of Defense the authority to adopt rules, that this may have the effect of law if the State Council of Defense adopts it.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, reference has been made to a bill I introduced by request, which would prohibit the sale of less than twelve of these live chicks or ducklings. In the Committee on Agriculture, this bill was the object of some ridicule and belittling, and consequently it did not come out of the Committee of Agriculture and my impression is that it will not come out. Therefore, I think that this resolution, while it has not the effect of law, it will not be law, as I understand it, it will act somewhat in the same nature as the law might have acted in calling the attention of the people to the fact that this waste of food and this cruelty to these little birds and animals is going on, and therefore I am in favor of passing the resolution at this time.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

CONGRATULATIONS EXTENDED TO CARBON COUNTY ON ONE HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House, which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 7, 1943.

Carbon County was created by an act of Assembly of March 13, 1843 more than one hundred years after the arrival of a group of Moravians in search of a haven of safety.

From the time of the arrival of that intrepid band of white men and women who later survived the great Onadon Hutton Massacre in 1755 the territory they settled has prospered.

In this territory Benjamin Franklin, recognizing it as an outer defense of Philadelphia, personally supervised the building of Fort Franklin in what is now Weissport as a protection and a barrier against the Indians of the North.

In 1791 Philip Ginter discovered anthracite coal and started one of the great industries of the Commonwealth and which led to the building of the Lehigh Valley Railroad in 1855 by Asa Packer who later built and heavily endowed Lehigh University.

From this county came men who have contributed greatly to the development of the Commonwealth. They marched and endured with Washington, their sons answered the call of Abraham Lincoln, and fought in France and their grandsons and great grandsons are now scattered over the battlefields of Europe and Asia and are demonstrating the same bravery and fortitude that marked those heroic founders of this county.

On Monday, March 8, 1943, the Carbon County Historical Society petitioned the Court of Common Pleas of Carbon County to hold a special session of the court on Saturday, March 13, 1943, in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of Carbon County.

The court granted the prayer of the petition and on March 13, 1943, a special session of the court was held in the Court House with Judge James C. McCready presiding.

Fred Brenckman, formerly of Hudsondale, representative of the National Grange and author of the History of Carbon County was the principal speaker. Congressman Francis H. Walter, Judge Samuel Shull, Monroe County, Judge Frank McClusky, Northampton County, State Senator M. F. Crowe, Hon. Elmer Holmes of the House of Representatives and others also spoke.

It was an impressive, instructive and successful celebration of an important happening and those responsible for the preparation of the program and the carrying out of the plans are deserving of great credit. It was an occasion of which some permanent record should be made; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly extends to the people of Carbon County its congratulations upon the successful celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of their county, it congratulates also those who planned and carried out the celebration and those who took part in it; and be it further

Resolved, That in order to make a permanent record of the occasion it is ordered that this resolution be printed in the Legislative Journal and that a copy thereof be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Honorable James C. McCready, President Judge of the Courts of Common Pleas of Carbon County.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, as Carbon County is a part of my district it is a pleasure to move immediate adoption of this resolution.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. My question of personal privilege is to show how wrong the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, is in this matter of strict interpretation of the Constitution.

The Constitution of 1874 provides, as we have heard, that all bills shall be read at length. There is nothing said about printing, but we heard Senator Encyclopedic Shapiro say that bills so far have cost $60,000 per bill and if the Senator says it, it must be true. Now, I would like to quote the Latin phrase "Reductio ad absurdum," and that is just about where we are now at.

Mr. President, I would like to call your attention to this matter, and I should like a moment to say to these people who have Constitutionitis, that the mere printing of these bills that I objected to costs $265.92. I am not quite sure, but I understand that all of the reading by the reading clerk is being printed at the expense of the state, and that shows what a ridiculous situation and what a very expensive situation we are falling into. When I think of having had only one cup of coffee and one pat of butter for breakfast—I am trying to win the war that way—it seems as if we ought to do something here and not throw our money away as we are doing, owing to the position taken by the President Pro Tempore, and the Senator from Allegheny, and, I guess, the Lieutenant-Governor also, about being so strict in their interpretation of the Constitution.

If you want to save money, you have got to modify that misapprehension about reading at length and printing at length.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Chair has already made a ruling, and suggests that we proceed with the order of business.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, is probably the most inconsistent man in the Senate.

The other day he said that the point I had raised was a good one, because he had never heard before, a bill he had introduced and which was read at length here, and he said he thought the idea was a very good one.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COLEMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I had the misfortune of missing the early part of the discussion between the gentleman from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, and the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, but I have heard considerable discussion by some members repeatedly about the tremendous cost to the Commonwealth of the alleged filibuster carried on by the Democrats, or the insistence by the Democrats that we live up to the constitutional provisions.

I would like to point out to the gentleman from Philadelphia that I personally can not see where there is any cost being added to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, because the per diem employes are paid from the time the Presiding Officer's gavel falls calling the session to order until we adjourn sine die. In other words, if the Legislature was in session for a twenty-four hour period, it would not add to the $10,000 payroll each week. As I understand it, under the laws of the Senate, these employes, whether they work two hours or two days a week, are paid for seven days a week, so the argument that this is adding a tremendous cost to the Commonwealth is a fallacy.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Chair would like to call the attention of the Senate to the fact that the next order of business is consideration of the Calendar.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise again on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, in reply to the Senator from Lackawanna, he knows, I think, that I object to the per diem people and I have gone on record to that effect.

My patronage here consists of an assistant postmaster who comes here on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays and this being Thursday, I though surely this morning I would meet him and I have been out there and he has not shown up as yet.

I should like to also say to my good friend, Senator McCreesh, I too think it is a good thing to limit the number of bills reported out on the Calendar, and I would like to call attention to the fact that my Committee on Federal Relations ought to be given a blue ribbon or something, because they do not report out bills; they have always pigeon-holed every bill that has been submitted to them, because the motto on the wall is, "No relations with the Federal Government."

I have here a resolution that passed the House to the effect that when the war is over the United States shall furnish free transportation on United States warships to and from the Philippines, after the cessation of the present hostilities, to every man and woman who formed a part of the expeditionary force that made possible the freedom of the Filipinos and the creation of a new Republic of the Philippines.

That is very fine language, but it will not get out of committee—I hope.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. GELTZ asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I would like to reply to the argument or statement of my colleague from Allegheny County, Senator Coleman, first of all, that there was no increase in the cost of operating as we have been operating this week. I think, Mr. President, that he overlooked one very important point, and that is while we have been in session for long hours this week and we have passed a considerable number of bills, we have been unable to hold important committee meetings for the approval of important matters, and in order that that be done, there can be only one or two things take place. If the other side persists in doing what they have been doing this week, the session will have to be extended considerably in order that we can find time to hold committee meetings for consideration of important bills, or, if that does not happen, I think we should serve notice on the various groups and the various associations in this state who are interested in various legislative matters, that if this thing continues, the chances are that the bills in which they are interested will not be passed at this session.

It goes without saying that when Senators, Legislators, have to stay in this Chamber for a matter of twelve, thirteen, fourteen hours a day in order to have these bills read at length, as they have been read this week, and in order to pass legislation, that they certainly can not give proper consideration to important bills which come up for consideration before the various committees, they can not give proper consideration to many other important matters, and the chances are if this thing continues, there are going to be a lot of disappointed people in this Commonwealth, and they can lay their disappointments on the doorstep of the Democratic minority.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, while I feel that I am encroaching on the patience of the Presiding Officer, I want to say this while I am locked in here, I am going to make this statement because I am not going to allow any impression to arise that I have not performed my constitutional duties here because of technicalities that have been raised recently.

Mr. President, I do not agree with the construction that is being placed upon the Constitution. The Constitution of Pennsylvania is a flexible instrument and it comes with poor grace for Democrats, who have changed all the fundamental laws of the United States, to say that the Constitution is a hard and fast instrument that does not change with the people, and I want to state my views, as a country lawyer, on the Constitution.

We have put through more than seventy years of legislation and as to the construction put on the Constitution, what words mean, reading at length, and so on, my interpretation of the Constitution is that a bill must be on the Calendar and that the Presiding Officer must call the attention of the members to the fact that such bill, by number, is now up, and that is the interpretation, the unanimous established interpretation of the legislature, both House and Senate, and that is the Consitutional machinery, and there is no way in which anybody can question the action of the Legislature. Each body decides on the meaning of the Constitution, so far as that is concerned, and no court can question what we do, and for more than seventy years we have put this interpretation on the Constitution, that it means that the bill must be printed, have it on the Calendar, have it called to the attention of the members by the Presiding Officer. I just want to make this statement, because I would not admit that after all these years of service, that I had no regard for my oath of office, when the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, insists on the strict interpretation of the Constitution, and that when he turns his back I disregard it. I have always had regard for my oath of office, that I will support and obey the Constitution of Pennsylvania, and I have been doing it all the time, but Senator Barr is now taking a technical position and there is nothing we can do about it, because my colleague would not listen to me, but I want to put on this record that I do not think it is necessary to read bills at length under the Constitution, and that when they are on the desks of the Senators, and on the Calendar, and called to the attention of the members by the Presiding Officer, we have then complied with the Constitution. If, next week, Senator Barr relaxes his insistence and we go back to reading the bills as we always have, I do not want anybody to say that I disregarded my oath, because I think we are and have been performing our duty all the time, under the ordinary interpretation of the Constitution that we have accepted as the correct interpretation of the Constitution.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, by reason of the fact that a number of Senators are attending committee meetings, who desire to be present when bills on final passage, third reading recalled from the Governor, and third reading are considered, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate do now proceed to the order of business of bills on second reading.

The PRESIDENT. The roll having been called and 33 Senators being present, the Chair declares that there is a quorum.

What is the pleasure of the Senate?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McGINNIS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I can not quite understand why, if there is such a great desire on the part of the other side of the Senate to transact business here, that we will waste all morning on a roll call and now start in after a recess on a roll call, and waste another hour or so. It is quite apparent that the other side is realizing that there has been more work done this week than in any other week since this session started, and now it is apparent that there is a real, genuine filibuster on the other side, to delay any more work this week, for fear that this will show as the best week by two or three times in the way of bills passed and work done than any other week during this session.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BECKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, it so happens that Senator Dent, Senator Cox, Senator Snowden, Senator Watkins, Senator Crider and myself are six senatorial members of a committee appointed some weeks ago to investigate the procedure of certain municipal authorities in the state of Pennsylvania.

This committee has been functioning very diligently, and at the close of the sessions last week, not anticipating this unnecessary routine through which we have been going this week, we called to Harrisburg, to meet representatives of a number of municipal authorities in the state of Pennsylvania, from Beaver Falls, and the western part of the state, Pittsburgh, Gettysburg, Schuylkill County, and other parts of the state of Pennsylvania.

Heretofore, ordinarily we have been able to conduct these meetings on Thursday for the reason the session did not last so long on Thursday that we could not coordinate our time with the time of the session.

As I have stated, by reason of what we have been suffering from this week, it so happens that these persons are now down in the Senate Caucus Room, they have come from all over the state of Pennsylvania, we can not send them back and tell them by reason of the situation here that we can not hear them today. That would be most discourteous to them and rude.

The committee sat this morning from nine o'clock until twelve-thirty and then recessed until two o'clock. We have asked these folks to come back there at two o'clock. I think examination of the remaining representatives who are there will consume about two hours. I do not think that the Senate can go on without the six members of our committee being here on the floor to transact business in the ordinary way.

Under the circumstances, Mr. President, I see no other alternative than to ask that at two o'clock the Senate recess for a period of two hours in order to give our committee an opportunity to function.

The PRESIDENT. What is the pleasure of the Senate?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, we can continue until two o'clock, at least with the first reading Calendar.

I regret very much that this filibuster took place, but there is nothing we can do about that except to continue until two o'clock, and then, of course, we will have to allow these members to attend the committee hearing.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I am very fearful that the Floor Leader on the minority side has expressed what I believe to be the purpose of the other side. The Senate has performed its business all morning, without the six members being here—what little business was performed—but there was a quorum present in the Senate.

If there are any bills that we are particularly interested in, you can do as you have always done, let them go over in order, and take up the first and second reading Calendar where our presence is not absolutely needed, and perform the duties of the Senate if you wish. However, if the majority desires to conduct their filibuster on a different course, we will follow that.

Mr. BECKER. I think the suggestion of the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, is manifestly unfair to those of us who have a desire to participate in the deliberations of the Senate.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, these men that we had asked to be at this Committee meeting were here very promptly this morning, and I know we have almost completed all our work. I do not think it will possibly take us more than half an hour or an hour. Do you gentlemen on the Committee agree with that?

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I concur in the statement of the Senator from Allegheny. I may have slightly overstated the time required. I think we may be able to finish our committee hearing in a shorter time than I stated.

Mr. COX. I did not know the gentleman from Lebanon had made a statement; I am very sorry.

Mr. BECKER. I suggested two hours, but I may have overstated slightly. It may be that we can conclude our hearing today in an hour or an hour and a quarter.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, we of course have an obligation to these men. We invited them here, they have come from long distances, and I think it would be manifestly unfair not to hear them. At the same time, matters before this Senate are of great importance, and whether it will be necessary to have a recess in order to meet this dual situation, I do not know, but obviously that should come first.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, this is not a problem for this side. Whatever they decide, they will do anyhow, so let them get together over there.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I suggest we proceed with the first reading Calendar, and after the first reading Calendar is completed we can determine how much longer the Committee will require to complete the hearing. If they have to stay too long, the only thing we can do is to put the third reading bills over in order. We will determine that after the first reading Calendar is completed.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STEVENSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I understand that while I was attending a meeting of the Committee on Municipal Government, the roll was called. I desire to be marked present.

The PRESIDENT. The statement of the Senator from Clinton will be noted on the record.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. JAMES read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 582, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Forests and Waters for the permanent improvement and maintenance of the Delaware division of the Pennsylvania Canal.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HEYBURN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask permission to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BARR. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HEYBURN. I am wondering if the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, would have any objection to symbolic reading of bills reported from Committee for the first time.

Mr. BARR. I object, Mr. President.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the Senator from Allegheny objects and I therefore will not move that bills reported from committee today be read for the first time.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HEYBURN asked and obtained unanimous permission to address the Senate.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I visited the two committee meetings being held and I find that the committee investigating municipal authorities will be in session for probably two hours more and also there is a sub-committee conferring with some departmental heads over their budget, which is necessary to complete the legislation. Of course, both meetings had been scheduled quite some time before this unhappy situation developed here.

I see no other alternative, Mr. President, than to take up the Calendar and move final passage bills over in order and also third reading bills.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, unless there is some bill some one thinks is necessary to have passed this week, I move that all bills on the Final Passage Calendar on the first and second page of today's Calendar, go over in their order until Monday.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

SENATE BILL No. 135, PRINTER'S No. 265, ON THIRD READING RECALLED FROM GOVERNOR, OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 135, Printer's No. 265, on third reading, recalled from the Governor, entitled:

An Act to amend section seven hundred sixteen of the act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1225) entitled "An act concerning game and other wild birds and wild animal and amending revising consolidating and changing the law relating thereto" authorizing the sale and purchase of hides of lawfully killed deer until under certain circumstances and making it unlawful to buy or sell raccoons for propagating purposes go over in its order.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, if there is no objection, I ask unanimous consent that all bills on the Third Reading Calendar go over in their order.

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HEYBURN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I think I should give notice to committee chairmen that we will have to call off all lengthy committee meetings, and also public hearings, until we determine whether or not this filibuster is going to continue into next week. It is impossible to do business here with this filibuster, because of the length of the sessions, and there is just not time to hold committee meetings or public hearings.

Therefore, Mr. President, I suggest to all committee chairmen that, depending on whether or not this filibuster will continue next week, they will have to notify any interested groups in the state that there can be no public hearings.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I think that the Legislative Journal this week will prove that Senator Heyburn has made a misstatement. There have been more bills passed by both the House and the Senate this week than have been passed any previous three weeks of this session.

As far as committee meetings are concerned, I know that the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, is using that as a subterfuge, and I think, as the record will show, we have done more work. I know the statement was made for the benefit of the press, but I am sure the press is aware of that also.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. CARR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I would like to answer the assertion of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, concerning the amount of legislation that has come out this week. There is a certain time when the legislature has reached the point where bills start coming out of committees and are reported to the floor and action begins. That point was reached, regardless of the filibuster, and the bills have begun to come through in the regular way.

I am confident that if this thing had not happened we would have still more bills out this week than we have had, and I believe, Mr. President, the assertions that were made a day or two ago with regard to the cost per bill are based on an absolutely false premise. They say that each bill that came out cost so much because the cost of the session has been a certain amount, and they divide that by eighteen bills. That reasoning is utterly false. The entire time of this session has not been devoted to the production of those eighteen bills which have been enacted into law. We have considered hundreds of other bills, hundreds of them have been challenged in committee, hundreds of them will never come out for passage. The fact that those eighteen bills have been acted on makes them part of the legislation in which we participate here, and therefore to say that the cost of eighteen bills that were passed up until this week cost something like $60,000 per bill is a piece of false reasoning to becloud the issue here to a great extent. I think these things ought to be brought to the attention of the public, and therefore I am saying that a great deal of what has been said here is utterly outside the pale af fact.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McGINNIS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, it is quite evident today that those on the majority side are not desirous of taking up third reading bills because they do not have enough votes here to pass a good bill.

I am willing to sit down with the Majority Floor Leader, and I am sure there are some bills on this Calendar that are not controversial and that we can pass.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HEYBURN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I am perfectly willing to sit down with the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, or with any other Senator, but I have been told by different Democratic Senators that they are desirous of attending a meeting in Johnstown at seven o'clock. I am merely trying to comply with their wishes.

Mr. President, if they do not want to go to Johnstown, that is all right with me; I can stay here until tomorrow.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HALUSKA asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, this morning I reminded the Majority Floor Leader, Mr. Heyburn, that previous to coming down to Harrisburg this week I had made plans to attend a banquet at Johnstown at seven o'clock tonight, having no knowledge, of course, of meeting such conditions as exist here now, and I have invited en route to their homes a number of my colleagues, who have accepted my invitation.

Mr. President, if we had asked for leaves of absence you would have had less than a quorum here, so Mr. Heyburn very kindly said to me that he would try to arrange the session in such a manner that we could leave here about three o'clock.

I trust that my colleagues on the right will consent to come to some truce or some agreement, or make some arrangements that will be agreeable to all the members, so that we can get together and adjourn in time so that we might get back to Johnstown by seven o'clock this evening.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McGINNIS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I did not know anything about the understanding between Senator Heyburn and Senator Haluska, and I agree to and approve that plan. I am invited to this banquet tonight; however, while we are here, I feel that we ought to pass some bills. I did not know just what time had been agreed on to adjourn today, but if Senator Haluska feels that we ought to leave here by three o'clock, that is perfectly satisfactory to me.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WALKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McGINNIS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny whether the comment he made previously with regard to the attitude of the Republican side of the Senate was made without an understanding of the arrangement existing between Mr. Heyburn and Mr. Haluska.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, in view of the tactics of my good friend from Allegheny, Senator Walker, in tying up this Senate for a couple of hours today on roll calls, I am more convinced than ever that it was a studied effort over there to keep this session going here until three o'clock without doing anything on third reading bills.

Mr. WALKER. When we vote for adjournment, Mr. President, I want to be recorded in the negative.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, due to the conversation that has taken place between the Republican Floor Leader and myself, I now move that the Senate do now adjourn until four o'clock, Monday, April 19, 1943.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, before I second that motion, I would like to have my colleagues satisfied.

Mr. President, I do not want to quarrel with any of my colleagues, on either side, and maybe the best thing would be for us to go home and have a couple of night's sleep. Perhaps the filibuster will be over on Monday—I hope so—because it is not doing anybody any good, and I am perfectly willing to go home.

Therefore, Mr. President, I second the motion of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, at four o'clock, p. m.

Mr. GELTZ. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GELTZ and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—21

Bowers,
Carr,
Coleman,
Crowe,
Deitrick,
Ealy,
Farrell,
Gourley,
Haluska,
Heyburn,
Holland,
Homsher,
James,

Wade,
Wilson, H. I.,
Woodring,

NAYS—8

Barr,
Geltz,
McQuiddy,
Stiefel,
Tallman,
Thomas,
Walker,
Wilson, T. B.,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The Senate adjourned at 2:55 o'clock p. m. Eastern War Time until Monday, April 19, 1943, at 4:00 o'clock p. m. Eastern War Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

So enlarge our minds, we pray Thee, that our love may be a world-feeling, and our sorrow a world-grief, until Thy light and Thy truth shine in all the dark places of the world, and Thy saving love become the joy of all men, in the name of Jesus, our Master. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. THRASHER.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 61.

In the House of Representatives, April 14, 1943.

For many years this country and the world at large has observed May first as May Day and at different places the observance has been marked by various kinds of celebrations.

At times these celebrations have resulted in demonstrations against organized government.

In 1932 the American Legion in Fayette County inaugurated a new kind of observance of the day by staging a parade of Americanism which has grown each year into an event of first importance.

The participation in the celebration of this day by patriotic societies, veterans' organizations and other organizations cannot help but make it throughout the Commonwealth a day to awaken new pride in our American institutions, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urges the setting aside of May first as Americanism Day and urges upon all patriotic veteran fraternal and civic organizations the planning of its celebration in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth a full realization of the benefits and privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of government, and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation further urging the people of the Commonwealth to join in a real American celebration of Americanism Day.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. HOCKE. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 62.

In the House of Representatives, April 14, 1943.

Whereas, Ever since the adoption of the apportionment acts of May 10, 1921 (P. L. 449) and May 21, 1921 (P. L. 455), the General Assembly has failed to agree upon a suitable or valid basis of reapportioning the State into senatorial and representative districts and, accordingly, has failed to enact valid reapportionment legislation based upon the last United States decennial census, as required by Article II, Section 18 of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Joint State Government Commission shall investigate and consider the matters of senatorial and representative reapportionment, and shall submit to the General Assembly, at its next regular session, an equitable plan for such reapportionment, based upon the population of the various portions of the Commonwealth as indicated by the last United States decennial census.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTION

Mr. WORLEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to introduce a resolution.

The SPEAKER. This is not a privileged resolution and will be filed with the Clerk under the Rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WORLEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the resolution I have offered is an amendment to Section 4, Article III of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and is co-sponsored by Mr. Brown and myself, to cure a situation that has obviously outlived its usefulness and is no more practical in legislative proceedings in this Commonwealth. I would like to yield to my colleague, Mr. Brown, at this time.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley, and myself, have been thinking along the same lines. In order that we might save the time of the House we have joined in this joint resolution. We hope that it will be expeditiously reported to the House and sent to the Senate before the end of this session. We are of the opinion that it will cure a situation that has outlived its usefulness in that we are changing Article III, section 4 of the Constitution which read as follows: "every bill shall be read at length on three different days." We are only changing the section to read as follows: "every bill shall be considered and agreed to on three different days in each House."

We believe with Thomas Jefferson that the Constitution was made for the living not for the dead, and in our Constitution, our democratic form of government, any section that has obviously outlived its usefulness may be changed by the will of the people. We believe that the people will be in accord with the change we ask this House to make as to this section.

be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I think that the time is appropriate to clear up certain misapprehensions that may be in the public mind concerning the amount of work which is being accomplished by this House.

An analysis of the work accomplished this week, as compared to the amount of work done in the previous week, makes a very interesting comparison. During the week of April 5, 1943 when there was no so-called filibuster in progress, there were approximately 100 bills on the third reading calendar. Of these bills, action was taken on 53, which resulted in 49 bills being passed and 4 bills being defeated. It is interesting to note that of these bills, only two were Senate bills which passed on to the Governor for signature, while one Senate bill was defeated.

In this week of the so-called filibuster, we have had the opposite effect of the commonly accepted impression of a filibuster, in that there have been no lengthy speeches, no maze of parliamentary maneuvering, but straightforward action within the Constitution and not in defiance of the Constitution. It is true we have all worked harder, but we should not complain about that. The record for this week up to this moment, exclusive of such third reading bills that may be passed today, shows that approximately 76 bills appeared on the third reading calendar and that action was taken on 46 bills. Forty-five of these measures were passed and one measure was defeated. There were no Senate bills acted on to be sent to the Governor for his approval.

Furthermore, during this week a great portion of the budget program of the administration was passed together with the first real war measure, House Bill No. 1082, which gives the Governor extraordinary war time powers.

This, Mr. Speaker, is the record of this week. In the face of it, I can find no reason to complain. The people of the Commonwealth were not let down nor was progress hindered.

SENATE MESSAGES

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 5, 1943.

Carbon County was created by an act of Assembly of March 13, 1843 more than one hundred years after the arrival of a group of Moravians in search of a haven of safety.

From the time of the arrival of that interpid band of white men and women who later survived the great Gnaden Hutton Massacre in 1755 the territory they settled has prospered.

In this territory Benjamin Franklin, recognizing it as an outer defense of Philadelphia, personally supervised the building of Fort Franklin in what is now Weissport as a protection and a barrier against the Indians of the North.

In 1791 Philip Ginter discovered anthracite coal and started one of the great industries of the Commonwealth and which led to the building of the Lehigh Valley Railroad in 1855 by Asa Packer who later built and heavily endowed Lehigh University.

From this county came men who have contributed greatly to the development of the Commonwealth. They marched and endured with Washington, their sons answered the call of Abraham Lincoln, and fought in France and their grandsons and great grandsons are now scattered over the battlefields of Europe and Asia and are demonstrating the same bravery and fortitude that marked those heroic founders of this county.

On Monday, March 8, 1943, the Carbon County Historical Society petitioned the Court of Common Pleas of Carbon County to hold a special session of the court on Saturday, March 13, 1943, in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of Carbon County.

The court granted the prayer of the petition and on March 13, 1943, a special session of the court was held in the Court House with Judge James C. McCready presiding.

Fred Brenckman, formerly of Hudsondale, representative of the National Grange and author of the History of Carbon County was the principal speaker. Congressman Francis E. Walter, Judge Samuel Shull, Monroe County, Judge Frank McClusky, Northampton County, State Senator M. F. Crowe, Hon. Elmer Holmes of the House of Representatives and others also spoke.

It was an impressive, instructive and successful celebration of an important happening and those responsible for the preparation of the program and the carrying out of the plans are deserving of great credit. It was an occasion of which some permanent record should be made; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly extends to the people of Carbon County its congratulations upon the successful celebration of the one hundreth anniversary of the founding of their county, it congratulates also those who planned and carried out the celebration and those who took part in it; and be it further

Resolved, That in order to make a permanent record of the occasion it is ordered that this resolution be printed in the Legislative Journal and that a copy thereof be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Honorable James C. McCready President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Carbon County.

CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 53

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 1, 1943.

Each Easter Season in this enlightened country thousands of live chicks and ducklings and young rabbits are sold for temporary Easter pets for children who know nothing about and care less for their proper feeding and care

Most of these unfortunate chicks and ducklings and rabbits die within a few weeks of starvation or misuse or plain cruelty

Each one of these chicks or ducklings or rabbits if properly cared for would have grown to maturity and in time would have assisted in reducing the food scarcity existing in the nation

The sale of these live fowl and animals has become more than a matter of cruelty and now takes its place as a means of hindering and interfering with the prosecution of the war effort by wasting needed food and increasing the scarcity of meat

It is now a matter more for the attention and action of the State Council of Defense than one for local societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals therefor be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the attention of the State Council of Defense is hereby called to the situation created by the sale of chicks ducklings and young rabbits during the Easter Season and the Council is hereby respectfully requested to request all merchants farmers and dealers in poultry and other live stock to immediately discontinue the practice of selling such chicks ducklings and rabbits and to publicize its actions in order that the public might be informed of its contribution to the scarcity of food in the purchase of such live stock and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House shall transmit a copy of this resolution to the Chairman of the State Council of Defense

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. HANNON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Counties for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.
On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?
Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Hannon.
The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?
Mr. HANNON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.
Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman for what purpose the bill is to be recommitted?

Mr. HANNON. Mr. Speaker, for further study and possible amendment.

Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman if he is aware of the amount of tax revenues that would be lost if this bill were enacted into law in the county of Allegheny?

Mr. HANNON. Mr. Speaker, my motion is to recommit. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Bentley, wants to speak on the merits of the bill.

The SPEAKER. The merits of the bill cannot be debated on a motion to recommit. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the motion to recommit.

Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I have no further interrogation of the gentleman. I would like however to speak on the motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 195 is a bill which does away with a law of more than a century's standing, a law which permits the County of Allegheny or the municipalities within it to levy a tax upon mill and mining machinery within the boundaries of the county. Last week the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Hannon, delivered himself of a statement on what he chose to call "squandermania." This bill, Mr. Speaker, is a product of another type of approach. I choose to call it "humbuggia." Humbuggia is not a city, it is not a county, it is not a state except that it exists in a state of mind. It consists of stumping the county, calling together tax-payers for different meetings on real estate taxes, insisting to these people that you are in favor of reducing real estate taxes, and then introducing bills such as this, the necessary result of which is inevitably to increase real estate taxes.

House Bill 195 should not be recommitted. It should be killed on the floor of the House. A careful study of the bill has been made by persons in Allegheny County who have been intrusted by the tax-payers with the duty of levying taxes. They have compiled, and when I say "they" I mean not alone the County Commissioners of Allegheny County but the Representatives—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Blair will state his point of order.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I have been waiting and listening very patiently for the gentleman from Allegheny to speak upon the motion to recommit. To my mind and to my listening he has only mentioned that once. He has been deliberately debating the merits of the bill and I would ask him, Mr. Speaker, to limit his debate to the motion.

The SPEAKER. The Chair must sustain the point of order.

The Chair will read a decision so that it may be clearly understood by the gentleman from Allegheny since the Chair is of the opinion that the gentleman has been discussing the merits of the bill.

> When a motion to recommit is made it stops debate on the main question and the debate is limited to the propriety of committing the bill. It has been uniformly held by former Speakers of this House that the merits of the main question cannot be debated when a motion to recommit is before the House.
>
> Rule 54 of the House specifically shuts out the original question when a motion to recommit is made.
>
> Rule 15 of the House provides that a motion to recommit is privileged and interrupts the question before the House. The motion to recommit must therefore be first decided by the House before consideration on debate of the main question is resumed.

Will the gentleman kindly confine his remarks strictly to the motion to recommit?

Mr. BENTLEY. I will proceed, Mr. Speaker, under the Chair's ruling. I wish merely to state to the Members of the House that no amount of study, no number of amendments, nothing added or taken away from this bill can make it such a bill as should properly pass this House.

I, therefore, oppose the motion to recommit and the bill should be killed on the floor of this House and given a decent funeral.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 364, entitled:

An Act to amend the title and to further amend sections one two and three of the act approved the twenty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 787) entitled "An act authorizing the compromise or reduction of tax claims on real property purchased by any county city borough town school district or poor district at any sale for the nonpayment of taxes and the reconveyance or private sale of such property" giving each political subdivision having tax or municipal claims against any such real property the right to petition court for a compromise agreement or sale authorized by the act and extending the time for the holding of a hearing thereon

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 501, entitled:

An Act regulating the lien of judgments; prescribing the procedure for the revival of judgments, and for the continuance of the lien thereof; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 518, entitled:

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 578, entitled:

An Act relating to chattel mortgages on livestock, poultry, farm machinery, farm equipment and crops, grown, growing or to be grown, designating the operation and effect of the lien of such mortgages; providing for the filing, indexing and docketing of such mortgages and related instruments in prothonotaries' offices and prescribing prothonotaries' fees; providing for the filing in Pennsylvania of similar lien instruments originally filed or recorded in other states; regulating the assignment, release, satisfaction and extension of the lien of such mortgages; prescribing methods of foreclosure; defining defaults and violations; and fixing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

PERMISSON TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LICHTENWALTER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would just like to make a brief statement. Yesterday, I believe, I heard a statement from the minority as to committee meetings not being announced on Monday night. I believe the word "plot" was used and a statement was made to the effect that we blacked out the minority as far as any consideration of bills in those committees was concerned.

I want to say that this bill, together with the bill found on page 23 of the calendar today sponsored by Mr. Skale were two Democratic bills that were reported out of committee in the committee meetings of that particular day when the minority was "blacked out." When you are charging that there was a plot on the part of the majority, you must bear in mind that they were holding committee meetings at that very time and reported out Democratic bills.

PERMISSON TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, may I reply to the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter, by stating that when I made my charge or statement the other day I specifically exempted the Committee on Judiciary General and the Committee on Education for the reason that those committees, as far back as I can remember, and certainly in this session, by agreement had at their organization meeting at the beginning of the session agreed, as all the members knew, had stated meetings of those committees at certain times, on each Tuesday of the session, and I did not say, when speaking of those committees that there was any plot to black out the Democrats from consideration of bills in those committees, and these two bills referred to come from the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman from Philadelphia, I wish to state that the bill which we just considered came from the Committee on Judiciary Special.

Mr. COHEN. Judiciary General, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I have consulted the history and if I am in error then I must blame the Printer for it.

Mr. COHEN. It is my suggestion, Mr. Speaker, that we call in the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Moran, who is an expert on bills not on file, to see whether or not it came from Judiciary General or Judiciary Special.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 607, entitled:

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 757, entitled:

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. HABERLEN. Mr. Speaker, it was the understanding that after this bill passed second reading it be returned to the Committee on Agriculture, but I feel that there should be a few remarks made in connection with this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I feel that this bill is the exemplification of rabid partisanship.

The Republicans who served in the session of 1937 will remember that this law received the most careful attention and the basic consideration of its enactment were the principles of democratic procedure. Those of us who considered the merits and demerits of this legislation hedged it about with all the safeguard of democracy. We insisted that no farmer might become a party to any process without full and complete understanding of the proposals under consideration.

For this reason, we provided for three steps with intermissions for study, discussion and consideration—the First, a petition signed by 25 representative farmers in the proposed district. Second, the hearing, wherein farmers opposed to and these favoring a district might express their views and Third, that good old American tradition, the referendum. It is refreshing to know that some Republicans in this House are not willing to deny to farmers the right of petition, hearing and referendum without further consideration by the Committee of Agriculture.

It is furthermore refreshing to members of this side of the House to find members of the opposition act consistently in the matter of receiving federal aid for Pennsylvania projects. There have been few political campaigns wherein Republican orators did not assail the New Deal because of the fact that Pennsylvania received in unjust proportion, a fair share of the revenue that the Keystone State contributed to the national Treasury. In campaign after campaign, orators bewailed the fate of Pennsylvania as the step child of the U. S. Treasury and bemoaned the suffering of taxpayers without compensatory benefits.

This is what the political orators averred but not what the political administrators performed. Not only in Philadelphia where the unemployed accepted doles instead of work relief because WPA was ignored by the city politicans but also the farmers were denied the benefits of the soil conservation service since the inception of this act. Why? Because the Grange politicans together with representatives of the Extension Service organized campaigns of misinformation to prevent farmers from receiving their just benefits from the federal Treasury. So rapidly and blindly did the Grange politicians follow the course of obstruction that the present administration found it necessary to profit from the mistakes of the past administration and named a Secretary of Agriculture who was less closely alligned with the "dog in the manger" advocates of condemnation and destruction.

I think it is a revelation to many of us to learn that the Grange politicians have been entirely too vocal in speaking for the farmers of this nation for if we follow the record of those politicians in this state, we will find that from the day that John McSparran played Democratic Politics with the Grange in Pennylvania and John McSparran and John Light played Republican politics with the Grange in Pennsylvania, this great order declined in power and prestige.

The men who planned this ripper have to their discredit the amazing record of having presided over the liquidation of a great order. They have driven people out of the Grange as fast as Leon Henderson drove Democrats out of Congress. The Grange treasury will no longer support the reasonable administrative expenses and its membership has dwindled from 93,000 to who knows what

The recent survey of Fortune Magazine is startling in that it shows that the Grange registers only 3.4% of the farmers of the nation and speaks authentically for only a fraction of this number. Like the hermit frog when the pond was drained, spoke only for himself.

And finally Mr. Speaker, the men who favored this ripper in open hearing were not opposed to the provisions of the act. They admitted that soil conservation was an admirable practice. The whole of the opposition seemed to be summed up in the story of the President in addressing the national press association a year or more ago—to paraphrase—they were perfectly "willing to go to Heaven but they didn't want to go with our bunch." To be sure, soil conservation is a worthy project and it is a very happy occasion indeed when independent and fair minded Republicans from every corner of Pennsylvania came to Harrisburg to testify that the merits of the law were not questioned and that in their opinion, the root and source of opposition sprang from a partisan opposition to New Deal legislation.

When we consider, Mr. Speaker, that millions of dollars have been distributed in pork barrel legislation year after year by the federal Congress so that streams might be kept clear for commerce. When we consider that Huey Longism and gang politics grew out of pork barrel appropriations to gulf and ocean port cities, we begin to realize how powerfully we may favor independent institutions when we begin to take the money from the giant dredging concerns of our port cities and distribute it among the farmers on the hillsides of Pennsylvania and Idaho and Minnesota and Tennessee. Then we will be true conservationists—holding the soil on the hillsides rather than dredging mud from deltas, building levees and dykes on river banks and rescuing flood victims every time "Old Man River" goes on a rampage.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to have inserted in the Journal two editorials, one from the Shippensburg, Pa. News Chronicle, and one from the Chambersburg, Pa. Public Opinion.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the gentleman's remarks will be extended on the record as requested. The Chair hears none and consent is granted.

EXTENDED REMARKS OF MR. HABERLEN

SOIL SAVING LOSES

"Soil conservation has been beaten in Franklin County, and on the basis of the size of the vote the outcome of the balloting on Tuesday probably was for the best. Prior to the voting it was estimated that 1,870 landowners in the seven townships covered by the election were qualified to vote. The total vote cast was 343. Plainly, a soil conservation district authorized by an 18 per cent vote would have placed the board of supervisors in an unenviable position, for only by a large degree of cooperation can the maximum results be obtained from a conservation program.

"Why the vote was so light and why it resulted in a negative verdict are questions all citizens of Franklin County and Pennsylvania should want to see answered. Why a proposal embodying principles and aims everyone agrees are sound, if not necessary to a healthy agriculture in the future, should fail to arouse sufficient interest to bring out a sizeable representation of qualified voters asks an explanation. Why a program so carefully hedged about with democratic processes that it is almost weak from the enforcement standpoint should fail so signally to appeal to those it is intended to help is puzzling. That a beneficial plan requiring only as great a financial outlay as its participants wish to make should be so decisively rejected should pique the curiosity even of those who are only mildly interested. And why Franklin County should be deprived of the benefits of federal funds and services the establishment of a soil conservation district carries should be the concern of all.

"While the fact that the soil district plan does not carry a cash bounty for the farmers doubtless was a factor in the outcome of this week's, it does not tell the whole story. There were many other factors, one or two of which stand out so clearly that they warrant discussion. The most significant of these was the failure of the Franklin County Agricultural Extension Association to in any way assist the movement, an attitude which lends credence to reports that individual members of the association actively worked against it at one of the polling places. This is not to deny either the association or its members the right to openly oppose any proposal they consider adverse to the interests of agriculture. That they should be found opposing, or at least not aiding, an effort to set up a soil saving district seems strange, however, in view of the erosion control services the association offers. The opposition to the federal plan suggests that the extension association considers its educational program superior, although it admittedly does not have the resources to make any appreciable dent on the erosion problem. Does this mean that the opposition stems from hostility to a federal project because it is a federal project? If this is true, too much blame should not be placed on the local association. It is significant that Pennsylvania and California are the only two states in the Union in which the State extension services do not cooperate with the Soil Conservation Service. This helps to account for the fact that there are only four conservation districts in the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to explain why the conservation project has lost in three counties within the last week.

"Doubtless the extension service has reasons to support its apparent policy on non-cooperation, but the minority status of the State in respect to soil conservation puts those who are assumed to have the best interests of our agricultural community at heart on the defensive.

(Editorial from Chambersburg, Pa., (Franklin County) Public Opinion, January 16, 1943. Public Opinion is listed in Pennsylvania Manual, Independent Republican.)

SOIL DISTRICT RIPPER

"The honorable assemblymen from Chester and Susquehanna counties, respectively, have introduced into the House of the Pennsylvania legislature a ripper bill which would kill the soil conservation districts law and abolish forthwith any soil conservation districts in operation or being formed in the State. This law is an enabling act, by which farmers of the state are enabled to take advantage of federal assistance offered from Washington in correcting conditions contributing to soil erosion or similar wastage. The government furnishes technical supervision for corrective work, and in the palmy days of the Civilian Conservation Corps the labor was furnished also. Now, however, the farmers must provide the labor and the materials.

"Foundation for the ripper attempt is not too clear. It can hardly be economy, for the program costs the state only $5,000 a year. There is an argument that it is no more proper for the government to repair the soil for farmers than for the government to repair the machinery of a commercial manufacturer whose equipment has become rundown. There may be something to this argument. On the other hand there is a difference, for the fertility of the soil is a national resource, a very necessary one, and its protection should be supervised and assured by the government. The nation obviously cannot exist without food and fibre, and these inevitably come from the soil.

"The fact of the matter is that the opposition to the soil conservation district program, evidenced in the present bill and in stumbling blocks which have been placed in the way of the program in the past, is purely one of party politics. There are certain Republicans who are opposed to the program simply because it emanates from Washington and bears a Democratic label, and for no other reason. Such political shenanigans are silly at any time, and are monkey wrenches thrown into the machinery of the democratic form of government. If this measure should prevail Pennsylvania would drop the soil district work, but the work would go on in the other 47 states, with Pennsylvania paying 10 per cent of the bill. It's plain nonsense.

(Editorial from Shippensburg, Pa., (Franklin-Cumberland Counties) News-Chronicle, April 9, 1943. News-Chronicle is listed in Pennsylvania Manual, Independent Republican.)

Mr. GYGER. Mr. Speaker, in order to keep the record straight I wish to state that the sole purpose of this bill is to eliminate duplication and needless expense and red-tape, and not later than this morning the opponents of this bill made a statement that there was more money spent on some farms than the farm is really worth. We do not feel that that is conservation. There are still a vast number of farmers in Pennsylvania who still have pioneer blood flowing thru their veins who do not wish subsidies to do their own work.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. REAGAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture for further study.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Winner, to preside.

MR. WINNER IN THE CHAIR

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1092, entitled:

An Act to amend section twelve of the act approved the fourteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred twenty-three (P. L. 710) entitled "An act allowing and regulating boxing sparring and wrestling matches and exhibitions establishing a State Athletic Commission making an appropriation therefor and appropriating moneys received for monument and memorial purposes and prescribing penalties" changing the minimum age for participants in amateur boxing sparring and wrestling matches and exhibitions and providing a penalty

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection Senate Bill No. 407, Printer's No. 161, was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER pro tempore.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1071, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 2051) entitled "An act relating to public assistance providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children aged persons blind persons and other persons requiring relief providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with and to accept and disburse moneys received from the United States Government for assistance to such persons providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance pensions for the blind old age assistance and the State Emergency Relief Board" declaring the legislative intent restricting the powers of the Department of Public Assistance and the State Board of Public Assistance extending the powers of county boards of assistance and making provision reciprocal with other states for assistance to certain aged persons

The first, second, third, fourth and fifth sections were separately read and agreed to.

The sixth section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. MOCK offered the following amendment:

Amend sec. 6 (Sec. 9), page 12, by inserting between lines 11 and 12, the following: "No aged person shall be required in connection with the receipt of assistance under this clause to give any bond, note by other obligation in any amount to secure the repayment of moneys received as assistance."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this amendment. The amendment provides that no aged person shall be required in connection with the receipt of assistance under this clause to give any bond, note or other obligation in any amount to secure the repayment of money received as assistance.

This involves the question as to whether or not we shall require of persons who have received assistance reimbursement from any money they may have or any property, either personal or real property. This amendment would absolutely nullify the reimbursement provision. The Committee went into it very deeply, and that matter has been studied for the last ten years. The requirement for reimbursement is historic; it began way back in 1919 and it has been inserted in our laws that were enacted. When the Public Assistance law was last enacted in 1937 we had the support law enacted which requires reimbursement from all types of assistance.

Just briefly, in order that we might know the amount of money recovered therefrom, in 1942, for example, we recovered over a million dollars from reimbursement, of which the largest portion by far, over six hundred thousand dollars, came from reimbursements from elderly folks.

The question now arises, do we want reimbursement or do we not, and I am sure that the majority of the Members of the House realize that we can ill afford not to receive this money from the people. It is very unfair to say to a person who applies, say for old age assistance, who has a thousand dollars in the bank, to say to him "you must use up all that money before you are eligible for assistance." But if he happens to have a thousand dollars in real estate, you practically by this bill make it impossible to hold that property liable for the person's support.

Now, the Federal Social Security Act insists that we must administer assistance entirely on the basis of need, entirely on the basis of need. If we do otherwise we are certainly going to jeopardize our relations with the Federal Government and we will not receive a fifty per cent contribution towards the cost of relief to aged persons and to dependent children. I am sure we are all in sympathy with the lot of aged people. I have racked my brains trying to think of ways that we might improve the lot of aged persons, but until such time as the Federal Sociay Security Act has been in effect long enough aged persons will be in an unfortunate situation, but we are doing the best we can. We modified the laws in 1939 and again in this bill, House Bill 1071, and we will have to do the best we can. However, I am sure we are not ready to throw away the idea of reimbursement, and so I ask the Members to vote these amendments down.

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this amendment. For quite a number of years I have been interested in the question of public assistance, having presented on the floor of this House several pieces of legislation and resolutions which I believe were in keeping with the needs of these people on the relief rolls. There is one question that we shall decide on these amendments, and that is whether or not we believe that the time has come where we no longer require reimbursement in the state of Pennsylvania from the aged people who have become eligible to receive assistance by the signing of a bond.

I think that we must weigh in the balance the fear and the misery and the lack of confidence of these public charges against the amount of reimbursement the state of Pennsylvania has received over the years since this bond provision was put in the public assistance law.

I think that we can intelligently, and we can fairly and we can equitably say that the time has come to repeal this obnoxious section of the public assistance law, and I ask every Member of the House to support these amendments.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Cordier

The SPEAKER, PRO TEMPORE. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CORDIER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, as I understand the gentleman's amendments, they would have no relation to the bonds already given by these persons, by these aged persons?

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, I did not present the amendments. The gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Mock, sponsored the amendments. I yield to him, if the gentleman would care to interrogate him.

Mr. BROWN. No. Mr. Speaker, I thought the gentleman from Lackawanna did.

Mr. CORDIER. The gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Mock, presented the amendments, and I will be glad to yield to him.

The SPEAKER, PRO TEMPORE. Does the gentleman from Allegheny desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne?

Mr. BROWN. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER, PRO TEMPORE. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOCK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, as I understand the amendments, they do not take care of those aged persons who have already given bonds?

Mr. MOCK. They do not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Does the gentleman not think, Mr. Speaker, that in legislation of this kind if it is good for those who will be affected in the future, should it not also apply to those in the past? Would the gentleman have any objection to passing this bill over so that amendments may be made that will provide for taking care of those who have given in the past in the same manner as those in the future?

Mr. MOCK. It is o. k. with me, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. May I interrogate the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Van Allsburg?

The SPEAKER, PRO TEMPORE. Will the gentleman from Erie permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, is there anything in the Federal Social Security Act that would nullify the contribution made by the federal government should this Legislature decide to make the law as would be required in these amendments, and would also make the law so that bonds given in the past might be stricken from the record?

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. I think not.

Mr. BROWN. I thank the gentleman. Mr. Speaker, I think the majority of the Members of this House would vote for such an amendment, but I believe the amendment ought to be correctly drawn. The sponsor of the bill, Mr. Mock, stated he has no objection. Surely if those who are to get assistance in the future would not be required to give bond, those who have given bonds in the past ought to be relieved of the same burden, and I would ask that the bill go over for a few minutes—because it will only take a short time to check the amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

An Act to further amend section seven hundred seven subsection (e) of section nine hundred three and to repeal section seven hundred eight and subsection (f) of section nine hundred two of the act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 905) entitled "An act for the protection of the public safety regulating the use of highways and the operation of vehicles tractors street cars trackless trolley omnibuses bicycles pedestrians and the riding of animals upon the highways of this Commonwealth providing for the titling including liens encumbrances and legal claims registration of certain vehicles and licensing the operators thereof upon payment of prescribed fees prescribing and limiting the powers of local authorities to deal with the subject matter of this act conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue the Department of Highways peace officers mayors burgesses magistrates aldermen justices of the peace the courts and the clerks thereof owners of vehicles and garage keepers providing that records are admissible as evidence imposing upon owners counties cities boroughs incorporated towns townships within the Commonwealth liability for damages caused by the negligent operation of their motor vehicles imposing penalties imposing certain costs upon counties providing for the disposition of fines forfeitures fees and miscellaneous receipts making an appropriation and providing for refunds" changing the provisions of said act relating to the weight length and width of motor buses and motor omnibuses and loads and changing the registration fees of motor buses motor omnibuses and other vehicles used for the transportation of passengers

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FREED. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bretherick.

The SPEAKER, PRO TEMPORE. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETHERICK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FREED. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Delaware tell me what the change is in this bill from what it is at the present time?

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, this bill was introduced by me to cure a very acute transportation problem in the war centers of Pennsylvania. As most of you know, the Office of Defense Transportation in July of last year provided that no further buses were to be manufactured in this country. Mr. Eastman of the Office of Defense Transportation has recently ordered the construction of seventy-five hundred bus bodies in order to relieve this transportation difficulty that we are now faced with. Those bus bodies can only be used on tractors, so in order to relieve this difficulty you will have three types of motor vehicles carrying passengers: first the regular motor bus which, as most of you know, is of the integral or unit type of construction; secondly you will have bus bodies with truck chassis, and third you will have bus bodies with tractor trailers. You have got three different types of motor vehicles with bus bodies, and therefore in order to have some uniformity the law was changed to provide that fees be based on maximum gross weight rather than on the number of passengers that were carried. You can see the logic of it. If in one of these new busses the operator wanted to put in seven seats and make the men stand up, which many of them would be willing to do in order to get to their place of employment, there would be a very minor license fee based on the number of seats in the bus.

On the other hand let us assume that we had a bus with thirty-six seats. Your fee would be two hundred eleven dollars. Well, if you have stand-sit seats, and that is in contemplation, gentlemen, in order to relieve this very trying situation, you would have to pay ten dollars for each additional stand-sit seat. The operators of these buses are going to be required to spend probably from eight to ten thousand dollars for the conversion of their truck chassis into a motor bus. That is absolutely necessary in order to relieve this acute situation, and there is no other method by which you can uniformily apply a tax or fee to these three classes of transportation buses than that adopted in my bill. If not, I am afraid, gentleman, you will have confusion worse confounded. In my county we have a bottle-neck of transportation, and many of the Members on both sides of the House have come to me and told me that they also live in war industry areas in which they have that same bottle-neck situation, and something must be done to relieve this situation. I have talked and discussed the matter with Members on both sides of the House, and I have yet to meet anyone who is not in accord with the provisions of this bill.

Mr. FREED. Mr. Speaker, since the gentleman from Delaware has made a speech, I would like the gentleman to tell me about what this will cost to the Department of Revenue?

Mr. BRETHERICK. May I say, Mr. Speaker, first of all that the Revenue Department has approved this bill. May I say secondly that this will cost the state of Pennsylvania approximately one hundred ten thousand dollars. We must not lose sight of the fact that when we reduced the fee on passenger motor vehicles we reduced the income to the state of Pennsylvania about two million dollars. When we reduced the fees on T pick-up buses we reduced the Revenues of Pennsylvania to the extent of three hundred thousand dollars. You are now reducing any revenue to the state of Pennsylvania to the extent of one hundred ten thousand dollars, but you are providing uniformity.

In addition to that fact, there are increased earnings, and I assume that there will be increased earnings by the transportation companies, and those earnings will be taxed in Pennsylvania under your corporate net income tax, your gross utilities tax and other forms of taxation, and while you will lose it in one respect you will make it up in another respect.

Mr. FREED. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman to tell us just why they took the old truck weights and then increased the weights and reduced the amount of fee for what those weights have been per truck.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, I think the answer to that is quite simple, in order to provide uniformity. After all a motor bus of a certain weight does not create as much wear and tear on the highways of the state of Pennsylvania as a bus does. You must not lose sight of the fact that these buses are created for passenger purposes for transportation in war industries, they are used in the peak hours only and they are not used except in those hours, and during those hours they are not using the highway. There is only one method by which you can cover that situation, and that is the method provided in this bill.

Mr. FREED. Another question, Mr. Bretherick, on a bus will the gentleman tell me who controls the seating arrangement on this type of bus when they are put on a [illegible] job?

Mr. BRETHERICK. I didn't quite understand that question, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FREED. The question I am after, Mr. Speaker, if you look at a bus today you will find it has all the luggage inside, the luggage that used to be outside. Today with that amendment I am wondering if the convenience of the passengers is going to be more neglected after we give them the privilege of putting these things on truck chassis or any way of regulating or controlling the seating capacity.

Mr. BRETHERICK. May I say to the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, that the transportation industry would not accept as a matter of peace time use these bus bodies on the truck chassis unless it was absolutely necessary to carry these passengers to and from a war industry. They would not for one moment think of that type of construction. Nor would they consider for one moment the use of the so-called sit-stand seats. Passengers in these busses after the war won't stand for that type of transportation. Men and women today want convenience, but they are perfectly willing to forego convenience today in order to get to and from these war plants, and I say to you, gentlemen, it is a problem. We are transporting people from as far away as Norristown to the war industries in Delaware County by bus.

Mr. FREED. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Delaware to answer that question and then let me talk.

The SPEAKER, PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Delaware has the floor.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, I am perfectly willing to let the gentleman talk. I like to hear the gentleman talk.

Mr. FREED. Mr. Speaker, I am very sorry that I have to take up this time at this time, but I felt that every man in the House should look this bill over and then think it over, because I do not believe there is another type of business or any kind of business that can come into the Commonwealth and try to get a reduction without showing that there is something there, something that has caused their revenues to be cut.

I come from Lehigh County. I have been told here for the last few weeks about being from a war working or war plant district. I believe that the Bethlehem Steel, and I believe that the Mack Motor Car Company and the Lockheed Aircraft Company or the other steel industries could all be classified as war industries. I believe if you would check Lehigh County, including the dynamite and all, it is certainly a war industry area, and for that reason I think I know what they need or should have along those lines.

I am trying to protect those who are not up here and who are protecting us by attending to their work, and it is up to us to protect their interests.

Perhaps you and I do not have to ride those busses, but if we had to ride those busses, let us try to do something for those people who have to ride them. That is the only reason I have taken this time, and I am very thankful to the gentleman from Delaware for putting in his time to explain the bill and saving me the time, because I think this is a fine day to mend umbrellas, and I want to go home too. I thank you.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, may I say just a word or two more? The Office of Defense Transportation in Washington has ordered that these busses be increased to one hundred twenty percent of their capacity. Let me tell you what is going to happen to these seventy-five thousand busses if we don't get something done about it in Pennsylvania. In Pennsylvania the license fee is $226 for a 37-passenger bus. In New York it would be $81.50, or approximately one third of the amount. In New Jersey it is $54 and in Delaware $93, so if this bill does not pass the busses that are needed for transportation in the state of Pennsylvania are going to be used in New York, in New Jersey and Delaware to the detriment of Pennsylvania.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I am very thankful to the gentleman from Lehigh, or back there somewhere, for the explanation of this bill. If you will recall, the other night I stated very plainly that this was no time to stop the revenues coming into the state. I realize that there is possibly a problem here, and we certainly are sympathetic with the men in war industry who have to ride these buses, and we would be perfectly willing to help them in any way we can, but as I see it, as the gentleman from Delaware has explained, we have to continue to cut the revenue coming into the state. Now, that is just contrary to what we should do; we should increase the revenue now instead of decreasing it.

These poor boys who are possibly riding these buses, we have a lot of sympathy for them, but we still have to think of the boys over on the other side who are going to come back and find no revenue here in order to have a post-war program to put those boys to work. I think, gentlemen, we are making a mistake, and I think we should consider this bill. As the gentleman said, if it meant $110,000 or something like that to the State, I didn't exactly get the figures—

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER, PRO TEMPORE. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland yield to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bretherick?

Mr. LOVETT. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that there is going to be some debate on this bill, I would ask that this bill be put over on the third reading postponed calendar.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, I would like to read into the record a letter received by me last week from the Northampton County Board of Assistance, which is dated April 12, 1943.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, the letter is as follows:

Northampton County Board of Assistance,
321 Northampton Street, Easton, Pa., April 12, 1943.
"Hon. Carleton T. Woodring
"R. D. No. 1
"Easton, Pa.

"My dear Senator Woodring:

"At a recent meeting of the Northampton County Board of Assistance, legislation affecting public assistance, currently being considered by the state legislature, was discussed. Assemblyman VanAllsburg's proposal to repeal the Eckel's Milk Bill was among other proposals considered by the Board.

"Early in 1941 the Northampton County Board of Assistance went on record as unanimously opposing the Eckel's Bill. The past three years have made no change in the thinking of the Board on this subject. The increased administrative cost, the loss of federal participation in this portion of assistance grants, plus no guarantee that fluid milk is necessary or the most healthful for all children are, in the opinion of the Board, sufficient reason for discontinuance of the program. A better use of the eight to nine hundred thousand dollars which the milk bill is costing annually would be to spend a similar sum for increases in Aid to Dependent Children grants.

"In short, it is the unanimous, considered judgment of the Northampton County Board of Assistance that the Eckel's Bill is inequitable and costly from the standpoint of both the recipient and the State and should be repealed at this session of the Legislature.

"Very truly yours,
"Henry A. Miller, Chairman
"Northampton County Board of Assistance"
HAM.nds.

Mr. President, it so happens that I am not acquainted with Henry A. Miller, and I do not happen to know with what political party he is affiliated. I do know that the Northampton County Board of Assistance, like the county boards of assistance in other counties, is made up primarily of non-partisan men and women, leading men and women in their respective counties.

I also happen to know that the public charities organization throughout the state of Pennsylvania, and the public welfare associations, are almost unanimous in their desire that the provision for the supply of fluid milk as a portion of the relief grant be abolished.

I note on the Senate Calendar that there is such a repeal bill in this Senate at the present time, Senate Bill No. 88, that it was referred to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions, February 2, was reported as committed and passed first reading on April 6, and was then recommitted on April 7.

It seems to me, gentlemen of the Senate, in view of the strong feeling throughout the state of Pennsylvania for the repeal of this measure, that Senate Bill No. 88 should be re-reported for consideration by the members of the Senate, and also to gain a further crystallization of opinion of the citizens of our Commonwealth.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I just want to say for the information of the Senator from Northampton, that House Bill No. 1071, to repeal the Eckels milk provision is up for final passage in the House today.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COX asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I would like to say in introduction to these remarks that the things I say, the opinions I express, are my own personal opinions. I do not care to put the committee appointed by the Senate to investigate Municipal Authorities in the position of having indicated any attitude that any other member of that committee might have.

I would like to say that Chairman Becker of that Committee, in my opinion, has done a magnificent job in the short time he has had the Committee together; his splendid ability as a lawyer and his willingness to give of his time I am confident is going to result in legislation that will correct many of the defects in our Municipal Authorities act.

During the time of our investigation there has been a strange course of events come to light and I know that the members of the Senate would believe it incredible that there could be as many defects in as splendid an act, and I want to go on record as saying that I believe in all sincerity in the idea of Municipal Authorities—I am for them one hundred per cent—but I am certainly in favor of correcting any loopholes in the Municipal Authorities act which could enable some of the things that have happened in this State to happen in the future.

As an example, the Borough of Wilkinsburg and the officials of the Pennsylvania Water Company entered into secret negotiations for the acquisition of the plant of the Pennsylvania Water Company. This plant services eighteen boroughs and townships and a part of the City of Pittsburgh. Their negotiations were proper and permissible under the Municipal Authorities act.

Unfortunately, they were conducted over a long period of time and the other municipalities had no opportunity of expressing any desire or interest on their part in joining with the Borough of Wilkinsburg in a joint authority for the acquisition of this proprety.

It was only when an ordinance authorizing the creation of an authority for purposes unknown or unexpressed in the ordinance was published in a local paper that there was any indication that such an idea was in view, and it was due to the agility and the industry of the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph, which investigated the whole matter, that there came to light the situation which I want to talk about today, only as an illustration of what can happen under the act.

Very briefly, the officials of the Pennsylvania Water Company went to the Borough of Wilkinsburg and told them under the Municipal Authorities act that they could create an authority for the acquisition of the water plant. The officials of that borough agreed that was a very fine thing. Everybody kept very, very quite about it and they did say the reason for the secretiveness was that they did not want any other borough to get the idea that they could join in the deal or that they could buy the water plant.

As a result of the disclosure by the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph, there has been considerable furore throughout Allegheny County and particularly in the districts served by the Pennsylvania Water Company. Perhaps this story is better told than I can tell it by articles appearing in a local paper, the Gazette published in Allegheny County, published by editor John McDowell, who is familiarly known as the Country Editor and a former member of Congress from Pennsylvania. I might say that we on the Democratic side feel that in the congressional reapportionment bill one of the things it will do, as I see it, will be to send Congressman McDowell back to Washington.

This paper has always been an interesting paper to me and glancing over the first page, at the very top, we find this statement: "A politician is an animal who can sit on the fence and yet keep both ears to the ground." —Author Unknown.

The Gazette published, after the disclosure in the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph, the whole deal, all the plans, and also published an engineering report which claims to have investigated the value of the proposition. It has quite visible headlines, as you can see, and it reads as follows:

"WILKINSBURG TO PURCHASE WATER COMPANY FOR $7,880,000

"Old Utility to be Sold by Mellons: Nineteen Boroughs and City are Serviced: Court Action Pending

"Harrisburg, April 15, 1943.

"Officials of the Borough of Wilkinsburg appeared before the Senate Municipal Affairs Committee today to testify as to their knowledge of the intention of their Borough buying the Pennsylvania Water Company. Their were Burgess Harry R. Rowland, Council President Wm. M. Findley, Finance Chairman Ray Maxwell and Newton Hopkins, one of the proposed members of the Authority.

"Also here were John Dierst, solicitor for Swissvale and Anne X. Alpern, solicitor for the City of Pittsburgh.

"PUBLISHING OF ORDINANCE REVEALS QUIET NEGOTIATIONS; OTHER TOWNS MAKE OBJECTIONS

"Forty Year Period to Liquidate Purchase; No Increase in Water Rates Say Proposed New Operators

"The Council of the Borough of Wilkinsburg has arranged to purchase the Pennsylvania Water Company, Burgess Harry R. Rowland announced last Friday.

"The price to be paid is $7,880,000.

"In discussing the proposed purchase Ray Maxwell, chairman of the Finance Committee, said the negotiations for the Water Company had been conducted over a series of weeks in complete silence, in an effort to keep some other purchaser from offering more money for the utility which has been a profitable one for many years.

"Principal stockholders of the Pennsylvania Water Company are the various members of the families of the late Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and his brother, Richard Beatty Mellon. The Mellon's own an estimated 83 percent of the stock.

"The Water Company, if it changes hands and becomes the property of the citizens of Wilkinsburg, will be operated under State law by a Wilkinsburg authority.

"The enabling ordinance for the authority was passed by the Council on March 29 and published in the Gazette in the usual fashion on April 2nd.

"Named in the ordinance to be members of the Authority are the five men who will presumably be the operators of the Water Company in the future.

"They are E. D. Rudolph, vice president of the Wilkinsburg Bank; William Hoffman, head of the Hoffman Contracting Company; Lawrence S. Bell, head of the Union National Bank; Samuel Taylor, engineer, and Newton F. Hopkins, of the engineering firm of Harrop and Hopkins. All five are residents of the Borough of Wilkinsburg as is required by law.

"The seven million, eight hundred and eighty thousand dollars is to be raised in the form of bonds to be bought by the Mellon Securities Corporation and payment is extended over a period of forty years.

"The decision to purchase the Company by the Council was made when it was learned that the owners were determined to sell the utility.

"According to Pennsylvania law, any municipality served by a utility has the right to buy and operate it in case it is offered for sale. The owners, when they determined to sell the controlling stock in the Company, chose the largest Borough being served by the company and made known their desire to sell it.

"The publishing of the ordinance caused a considerable furore amongst other boroughs served by the Pennsylvania Water Company and two of them, the Borough of Edgewood and Swissvale, immediately filed petitions in the Common Pleas Court as did Mrs. Laura B. Norris, Wilkinsburg resident and property owner on East End Avenue, who filed a tax payer's petition.

"All of the petitions, similarly drawn, allege the ordinance is unconstitutional and point out that the Borough of Wilkinsburg consumes only one-tenth of the total output of the Water Company, and the other ninety percent of the consumers should be represented.

"The law, however, does not provide for this.

"Interest in the purchase was further heightened when Chairman Decker of the Senate Municipal Affairs Committee of the Pennsylvania Legislature responded to a request that the Committee investigate the affair. The request was made by Senator Cox (Democrat, Munhall), who, until recently, was the solicitor of the Borough of Pitcairn, one of the boroughs served.

"Nineteen boroughs and townships are served by the Company as well as the Brushton district of the City of Pittsburgh.

"The Pittsburgh City Council, when they learned of the proposed purchase, instructed its solicitor Anne X. Alpern, to investigate the situation and take what action she deemed necessary.

"The date of the hearings has been set for April 24.

"The secrecy with which the affair has been conducted has been severely criticized, particularly by the other communities served by the utility but the Wilkinsburg Councilmen very frankly say they intentionally kept the matter a secret, fearing that if it became known before a price had been agreed upon other municipalities might bid up the price.

"The affair became known to a Gazette reporter several months ago and he immediately made inquiry regarding the matter from various borough officials. They explained the entire hope of the Borough Council and requested that the matter be held in confidence until such time as the enabling authority act had been agreed to by the Council.

"The Gazette, after learning that the local authorities had engaged the engineering firm of Peter F. Loftus to examine the Company properties and determine the value and condition of the Company, requested a copy of the report which was furnished and is published in full on page nine of this edition of the Gazette.

"The Gazette learned that the price first asked by the stockholders of the company was $98 a share, making a total of $8,400,000. . . . The Loftus Company, however, recommended that a price of $71 per share, or a total of $7,880,000, be paid for all shares offered for sale. This was agreed to by the Mellons.

"A Gazette reporter submitted the Loftus report to an iron expert, with the request that an opinion of the condition of the underground pipes be made. He declared that the water lines would be of cast iron and that no guarantee was ever given by pipe makers as to how long underground pipe would last.

"He stated that the history of cast iron pipe indicated the pipe should be of service, with but minor breaks, for a period of eighty years, but that the rotting of the pipes was determined by the chemicals in the water that was carried, the pressure of that water and the chemical condition of the soil in which it was buried.

"The Loftus Company guessed that the underground equipment of the property was in as good operating shape as the above ground properties.

"A Gazette reporter polled a majority of the members of the proposed authority regarding any future increase in the water rents now charged by the utility.

"All agreed that no increase was contemplated and that as the Company was to be owned in the future by a municipality instead of private owners there would be an excellent chance for future water rent reductions.

"The question as to whether the residents of Wilkinsburg would be given a lower water rate over the other municipalities served was answered by "No that was impossible according to law."

"A majority of the Authority members were questioned (all available about the possibility of the company being continued under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission. They all thought it was a good idea.

"The Gazette reporter put the question to various members of Council regarding possible political operation of the Water Company—the old fear of any politically owned utility. Burgess Rowland answered that by pointing to the calibre and character of the men on the Authority, none of whom have any connections with politics.

"Mr. Maxwell described the method by which the members of the Authority were selected. He declared that, by agreement, each of the nine members were requested to submit five names of Wilkinsburg citizens with the further agreement that the names being submitted the most times would be chosen. In all, Maxwell declared, about two dozen names were submitted.

"E. D. Rudolph, whose name was on most of the Councilmen's lists, was given the long term, five years, and the others according to the number of Councilmen who chose them.

"In discussing the secrecy of the matter Councilman Maxwell declared it was a matter of good business to keep it a secret to keep the price down and that Wilkinsburg had the chance of buying the Company at no risk or risking buying its future water from some other community or a possible private owner at a higher rate as private owners may be required to raise water rates to meet Federal taxes while a municipally-owned company would be tax free."

Now, here is the story of the Country Editor, as I said:

"Now about the Pennsylvania Water Company affair.

"Nothing I can ever remember has exploded with such a little noise that scared so many people at the same and started so many people running in every direction at the same time.

"As has been vigorously and loudly and indeed somewhat profanely predicted for ten days, the Water Company 'deal' burst its ill-timed bonds and is spreading in every direction.

"The facts of the matter, as I know them (and I think I know them) are somewhat as follows: a couple of months ago I smelled something cooking in City Hall. It didn't take too long to find out the truth—that the Borough of Wilkinsburg was considering the purchase of the Pennsylvania Water Company. The sum asked was eight million, four hundred thousand dollars by its principal stockholders, the estates of the late A. W. and R. B. Mellon.

"At that time there was no decision to purchase the utility; it was being discussed.

"Hot after a story I was told everything I asked and showed all written materials on hand dealing with the situation.

"It was suggested that the matter be kept in confidence until more was learned of the proposal, lest some other community, in view of the reputation of the Pennsylvania

Water Company for being a profitable utility, step into the picture and snatch the business over by bidding more money than was contemplated by Wilkinsburg.

"Mayor Scully's ambitions to extend the limits of Pittsburgh was a boogy.

"Like everybody else I have heard many stories about this and every other utility; about its owners trying to sell it long ago; about its property being worn out and would soon have to be replaced.

"I dug deeper into the business and learned from what I consider skilled businessmen and financiers, that the price was not too far wrong. I learned that original owners have either died or are desirous of leaving the public utility field.

"I learned that an Authority is not primarily to protect the municipal owner of a utility but to protect the consumers of a utility, I learned that the Borough would legally guarantee to treat all consumers alike, that no one municipality, including Wilkinsburg, would be given any preferred rate for water—by the indenture to be agreed on.

"I knew before I started that the consumers would eventually pay for it and the forty year bonding period says just that. Anybody would know that.

"I thought it would be a good idea to have representatives of other municipalities represented in the management and learned that it is not possible by law unless they are also owners. I discovered that to place the ownership in the hands of all consuming municipalities would not be agreed to by the owners—the Mellons know something about business and have had some little experience at it.

"I was particularly interested in who would be named to operate it by being named on the authority—that is the burning question in all municipal—owned utilities—as witness the Pittsburgh ownership of its own water company and the political appointments (both modern and ancient) who have been named to it. I knew if politicians were named to the Authority they could only be removed by three methods—by their term expiring, by being convicted of malfeasance, or by death. When I learned of the method of choosing the authority, their business and financial experience and their complete, non-political background, I felt content—at least for the first three years—after that it will be up to the public and the public press to watch who will make the appointments.

"I finally was given a copy of the Peter F. Loftus report of the company; its holdings, condition and the recommendations for financial readjustments—a half million dollars lower.

"When it was unofficially agreed to I thought it was time to tell folks about it. Apparently it didn't gee with the fears of the Council who was afraid Wilkinsburg would be certain to be buying its water from another municipality that wouldn't hestitate to pipe condensed maple sugarwater through the mains if they could supply their own ward heelers to the hundred and some jobs of the water company.

"The members of Council felt they had arrived at a good decision that would win them the plaudits of their community. I warned that the publishing of the ordinance would keep the secret about as secret as a Tommy Manville divorce—they wanted one more week. I warned that the thing would break last week and it broke in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Friday—and a country newspaper lost a scoop—which is not, however, highly important to a weekly newspaper.

"The important thing is that the awkward efforts to maintain dignity, maintain secrecy, keep from lying and just plain lying have resulted in a situation that has brought three law suits and one Senate investigation in three days.

"Solicitor Rundel of Edgewood and Solicitor Dierst of Swissvale got wind of the affair and immediately demanded information—as is their duty to their clients. They were met with dignified silence. It proved that dignified silence is not the answer to give a lawyer, even when another lawyer gives it—as that is a primary lesson in first year law school.

"The opposing attorneys (who have been joined by Solicitor Anne X. Alpern of the City of Pittsburgh) have taken the only action they could take as honest solicitors—but it was all so unnecessary—because our boys were intrigued with the idea that an eight million dollar purchase, involving 23,000 customers, could be kept a secret when the necessity for secrecy was long past—and indeed highly dangerous.

"I have printed the Loftus report on another page. It looks to be like a good proposition for Wilkinsburg and the Mellons, although I can't see how the other communities are either going to gain anything or lose anything.

"All the members of the Authority feel the company should continue under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission and there is good likelihood that the Legislature will shortly amend the present Authority Act and require that all municipally-owned utilities come under the authority of the Commission.

"The condition of the forty-year bonds, the underground pipes, the expenses, the replacements and the profits are explained in other columns of the Gazette. Financial statements of the Pennsylvania Water Company are available at the company offices.

"The Authority has indicated it does not intend to change the personnel in case it ever becomes an authority, but will keep the management of the company in the hands of capable water engineers.

"This is the story of the so-called water deal.

"Not to justify all of the secrecy in this matter but to suggest why many matters that should be very public are made secret, let me remind everybody concerned that Wilkinsburg recently raised taxes one-half a mill. This occurred after they theoretically discussed the expenditure of every department of the municipality. It was all done in a very expensive building, housing a room a half-acre in size, lined with row after row of plush-bottomed seats for interested citizens to be comfortable while observing their representatives govern.

"When it was done there was a full Council, a secretary, an engineer, a solicitor and the other gentleman being a part of the Government, mounted on the rostrum, while out in the half-acre of seats sat one, lone citizen, quietly (by reason of law) watching his town government raise the taxes, abolish a health department and do the things they do in places like that.

"I was the lonely fellow.

"All of that sometimes conspires automatically for secret government.

"If there are other important secrets of the water company affair I don't know of them.

"JOHN McDOWELL."

Very frankly I have cited this case as an example of what legally can be done under our present act. From experience, I know the Pennsylvania Water Company property to be a good property, to be a valuable property, and if I were a member of the council of Wilkinsburg I would certainly do everything in my power to acquire that property. I think that would be a splendid investment for the Borough of Wilkinsburg.

However, Mr. President, the thing I do object to about this transaction is this question of secrecy, and this is not the only instance where we have found the same thing to be true in our investigation.

Under the laws of the state as they exist today, we have made possible—and I am not making any accusations in this particular case and I do not care to have anyone infer that I do—we have made possible the greatest boondoggling age in the history of this state since the boondoggling of the 1890's, and I think everybody in our state has felt that those days were past beyond recall.

I call this to your attention because I want you to know the splendid job Senator Becker and his committee have done, and I know with that co-operation and with an investigation of affairs back home and with suggestions, before this Session of the Senate closes we can propose amendments to this bill that will stop the gap which will prevent many of these things from happening again in the future.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MOTION THAT BILL GO OVER IN ORDER

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 305, go over in its order.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

(A voice vote having been taken the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, this bill has not been read three times; this bill was not read at length.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules that the bill has been read three times and agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I wondered, when you passed Senate Bill No. 176 over in order, why you would do so, when here was a bill of interest to every county in the state, one that has particular significance to the county commissioners who are endeavoring to put tax sale properties back into circulation in order that tax returns may again come into the counties to carry on the normal expenses of running the county governments. Every man in this Senate, I believe, knows exactly what Senate Bill No. 176 amounts to. However, we passed it over in order, and then we passed over in order Senate Bill No. 304. Of course, everybody knows why that was done, because its main features and provisions are included in the amended Woodward Bill No. 46.

I just wonder why you would pass a bill over in order at this time, when there is so much talk about getting things done here for the good of the people of Pennsylvania, and we take up at this time a political bill, and when I say political, I mean political in the bad sense.

Members of the Senate, thousands of defense workers, because of inability to get to their jobs, due to poor transportation facilities, shortage of labor and rationing of gasoline, have moved closer to their work wherever possible to do so.

Why take a mean advantage of the willingness of those men and women to co-operate and make our war effort successful?

We have before us a piece of legislation that will deprive them of the very thing that they are making weapons for, so that our boys can fight for the right of franchise, of free voting.

Do you realize, members of the Senate, that you are hereby taking from thousands of Americans the privilege of voting? You say, of course, you are not doing that, that they still have a system whereby they can still be registered. Oh, yes, they can still be registered all right, but you are afraid that the manner under the law today is too simple, by having registration cards they can have their change of address taken care of and therefore be eligible to vote in the elections. What group are you keeping from voting? No trouble, or not too much trouble on behalf of the group of persons who are known as employers, rich landholders and so on, they get back and forth all right, they live in old established homesteads, their registration is safe, and they vote right; but you are not so sure the defense workers are going to vote right, especially after this session of the Legislature, when almost every right, almost every freedom, almost every gain that they had made under the liberal administration of Governor Earle that has not been taken from them during the James administration will be taken from them during this administration. You are disturbed that they may wake up and find out that they have been sleeping too long. Maybe you are even a little disturbed that they may look into your platform promises of fairness to labor and fair treatment to those who work and toil for a living. You are afraid that if they are on the eligible registration lists they may vote against the Republican Party, so you propose in Senate Bill No. 305 to disenfranchise them, to take away from them the greatest American right under the Constitution, take away from a man his right to vote, and then you have destroyed for him the very thing that the Constitution stands for.

Mr. President, there is no good valid reason for the passage of this bill; if there is, I am willing to listen to it. I defy any member of the Senate to give me a good reason, a good valid reason, for the passage of this kind of legislation, during a war period, when thousands upon thousands of workers are living in temporary quarters, if you please, close to their employment, in order that they can produce the goods with which to win this war, and here they are working six and seven days a week, long hours, and they find themselves on election day—and you all know this, that they will not know about this act being passed, a worker will not know that he has to go and register, he will not know that, and ninety per cent of them will go to the polls in their respective voting precincts with full confidence that as Americans they will be privileged to cast their votes for candidates of their own choosing.

What will they then find? They will find that the Farrell bill, Senate Bill No. 305, Printer's No. 171, passed by a Republican Senate, approved by a Republican House, and signed by a Republican Governor, has taken away from them the right of franchise, the right to vote, the right to cast their votes in a free American election.

Even Governor James, to his everlasting credit, had the courage to stand up against the politicians in the party and vetoed this piece of legislation, and although Arthur James, in his own way, did some things that I as a Democrat did not approve of, I have always given him credit for this and other acts, where he showed some spark of leadership and independence, which your party for many years has fostered and sponsored, in some of the greatest leaders that this state has ever had, and here you are digging deep down into the bag of political tricks and bringing up one of the worst monstrosities that any political mind ever created. You are taking from the defense worker who, through no choice of his own, has moved from the street where he was living, or down the street a couple of houses, you are taking from him the right to vote.

Do you not realize how serious this is? What was all this talk last week about Jefferson? Did you not learn anything sitting over in the House and hearing a couple of school boys talk to you, you men of mature age? Did you learn nothing about this man who conceived this particular nation of ours, who conceived the right of the people to vote, who took the attitude that all individuals were alike on election day? No, you did not learn anything. You just reached into your bag of tricks and you have come up out of that bag of tricks with what I call one of the worst pieces of legislation, especially in a wartime. Why take away from these men, these Americans that right? I am not sure how they are going to vote—for the last couple of years they may even have voted Republican or stayed at home—but that has nothing to do with it.

I appeal to you men, you members of the Senate on the other side, to search your consciences to see whether or not this particular type of legislation belongs on the statute books of Pennsylvania.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, what the gentleman from Westmoreland says this bill does, that is just what it does not do. This bill prevents disfranchisement of voters one hundred per cent. This is a decent, honest registration bill for Philadelphia—we have never had one—and if I have not done one thing in the Senate of Pennsylvania during my two terms here, if this bill is passed, I have certainly added a step forward in the interest of good government.

Mr. President, I am sick and tired of political workers assisting voters, when it is the duty of the registration commissioners to register the voters.

This is the third registration bill I have introduced and if you pass this bill, you will have protection in registration; this bill is fool-proof.

Under the old registration bill the City Committee of the Democratic Party and the City Committee of the Republican Party go to the Commissioners of Registration and they each collect sixty thousand cards, and they use the workers to go out and register the voters—they are not sworn, they are not responsible, but they go to the voters. They will, for instance, go to one house and there are five, six or seven voters in that house. and they will ask them if they want to register, and they say they do want to register. These voters are not sworn but they fill out the cards, and then they talk politics and ask them their party, and if they happen to be of the opposite party to that of the political worker, they go outside and throw the cards in the ash can. There are thirty thousand voters in Philadelphia every year that are deprived of the right to vote, because political workers on both sides tear up the cards or throw them away. Only yesterday I heard a ward leader—I will not say whether Republican or Democrat—say that he tore up five hundred cards, and whether he be Republican or Democrat, that is outrageous.

This is one of the best registration bills, Mr. President, that I can think of. I just want to read to you what the Philadelphia Bulletin says about the bill, and the Philadelphia Bulletin is pretty nearly on the up and up.

In an editorial last Saturday the Philadelphia Bulletin says:

"A bill in the Legislature by Senator Farrell proposes to abolish the removal card privilege for those who change their voting divisions, and to require complete new registration in such cases. This is worth serious thought."

Now, Mr. President, let me tell you what this bill does. This bill is fair to Democrats and Republicans alike. How could it be otherwise? In Philadelphia at the last election one hundred votes separated Republicans and Democrats, out of a million votes.

When the Registration Commission registers a voter, these men are sworn, and they are known as traveling registrars. The Lord knows that I provided for a lot of traveling registrars in the last bill, two years ago, to take care of emergencies, but not to disenfranchise a single voter. It is the political workers who disenfranchise them.

By the way, these traveling registrars are trained, they are under bond, they are sworn, a voter appears before them—and that is the way it should be—the man appears before them to be registered, and it does not put him to much trouble, he gives his name, his address and his age and where he moved from—that is important, where he moved from is important—because no war worker is going to have any advantage on Lou Farrell. I have lived in one division for sixty-six years, and some fellow that moves here from Virginia, unless he puts his hand on the Bible and swears that he is a qualified voter, he is not going to destroy my vote. Mr. President, no political worker is going to destroy my vote, whether Republican or Democrat, he is not going to destroy my vote.

There has been a total of thirty thousand people in Philadelphia at one election, who went to the polls to find out that their cards were not in the folder, and they were told they could not vote. I live in the country, and to my utter surprise, at the last election ten people were told they could not vote, and I know why. A minister and his wife, a man who was badly wounded in the first world war, were turned away, were not permitted to vote, because a political worker had torn the cards up. A park guard came to my house last night and he said that forty voters in his division were denied the right to vote.

Mr. President, just what the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, says this bill will do is just what this bill does not do. This bill prevents disfranchisement of voters.

Mr. President, let me tell you something, and I can say I was never more sincere in my life. A couple of years ago, the Common Pleas Court of Philadelphia sent Judges out to the voting districts to put men back on the voting lists that had been disqualified or disfranchised by political workers. Judge Allen Stearns, in my district, was one of the judges and I realy forget who the other judge was. I went to the station house to have a manufacturer and seven members of his family restored to the voting list but I threw up my hands when I went there and saw a station house as large as this room, with seven or eight hundred people standing there, all clamoring to be registered. This man is a big manufacturer, but I told him he might as well go home, as he was going to lose his vote.

Mr. President, under my bill, they will not lose their votes, nobody will lose his vote. This bill will stop the disfranchisement of voters, it will stop the political workers from registering people when it is the duty of the Registration Commission to register the voters, and nobody else, and this bill does that and that alone.

Mr. President, I will stand on this bill one hundred per cent as an honest registration bill for Philadelphia, and I do not care who it favors or who it hurts. It certainly will not harm the war worker, he is no better than Lou Farrell, I have to walk into the polls to register, put my hand on the Bible and swear to all questions asked, and he certainly has to do the same thing.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FARRELL. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, how many registrations does the Senator from Philadelphia expect before the Registration Commission for the coming election?

Mr. FARRELL. There are a million voters in Philadelphia, and when you talk registration to me, I know, I speak that language, for this coming year there will be between 90,000 and 100,000 registrations.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Will the Senator from Philadelphia tell me where the Registration Commission offices are?

Mr. FARRELL. On the fourteenth floor of City Hall annex, but I might suggest that under my bill of two years ago it gave the Registration Commission unlimited traveling registrars to take care of every emergency.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. How many elevators are in that building?

Mr. FARRELL. Six passenger elevators, and two freight elevators.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Has the Senator from Philadelphia ever experienced the taking of prospective voters to the Registration Commission on the fourteenth floor?

Mr. FARRELL. Many times, Mr. President.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Many times?

Mr. FARRELL. Yes.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The Senator from Philadelphia has stated in his own words that he is expecting between 90,000 and 100,000 new registrations; he has stated, this is his own testimony, that the Registration Commission offices are on the fourteenth floor of the City Hall annex.

The Senator from Philadelphia has stated that there are six passenger elevators and two freight elevators. In the name of common sense how does the Senator from Philadelphia expect 100,000 people to go to the fourteenth floor of the Registration Commission? How does he expect these men, whom he says he will not give one inch, even though they are war workers, to go and register? He says, "let them go register because I have to register too". How does he expect the war effort to be enhanced when he tells these men who come home weary with sweat on their brows from making bullets and building ships to prepare the nation for its ultimate victory, how does the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, expect these men to go up and register at City Hall.

He knows he does not expect them to go there. He knows that thousands of people will be discouraged, and he knows that when they know they will have to go up to the City Hall Annex Building, and find the elevators disabled and the fourteenth floor crowded, and that there is not sufficient number of clerks to make these new registrations, they will either stay away, or if they do go, they will walk away from the Registration Commission. So what do you fear, Senator Farrell?

In my district many of them vote Republican. I do not care, let them vote Republican, let them vote Democratic, that is their prerogative, that is their right under our Constitution. So what do you fear, Senator Farrell, they still may vote Republican. I think we are doing a grave injustice by passing this bill, because I think as Senator Farrel's statement, "let them register the way I have registered," is an unjust expression and I do not think he means it from the bottom of his heart. I think that Senator Farrell is patriotic enough to know that while they are at work to build our armaments we should stand side by side and not create an obstruction to their rights.

Senator Farrell, I have a very high regard for you. I know you are a gentleman and a good Senator, and do not let me change my opinion, when you say that the war workers should do what you do. God bless them, for they are building the essentials needed for ultimate victory, and I hope that after a good night's sleep you will change your vote.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, not one person has to go to the fourteenth floor of City Hall Annex to register, with its six elevators and its two freight elevators, not one person. In this bill the power is given to the Registration Commission, unlimited power, to send trained registrars, not politicians or political workers, but to send trained registrars out into every ward, as often as is necessary, and there will not be one man inconvenienced and there will not be one man, if you pass this bill, that will be disqualified.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, the salient feature of the permanent registration act is the removal card. People have gone and registered and then they forgot about it for three or four years. By removing the removal cards as a feature of the Act you are scrapping the permanent registration act. I would prefer to have the same conditions as prevailed before 1937, when we had three registration days and had all voters re-register. I can not understand the thought it will be possible to prevail upon voters, people who move from one place to another, to keep on re-registering every time they move. Due to defense changes which are now prevailing Philadelphia will lose hundreds of thousands of voters.

This is the reason, Mr. President, why I maintain it is a misnomer to call this a permanent registration act, and if these removal cards are omitted, I say give us the old system, because under present conditions thousands of Philadelphians will be disenfranchised.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I can not doubt the sincerity of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell, but what he neglected to tell the members of the Senate was that the Registration Commission of Philadelphia is Republican controlled. They will name the traveling registrars in all probability, if it is done as it usually is in a political party, the very men that he condemns, political workers, will be the traveling registrars. There will be Republicans visting Republicans homes and the ones who will be disenfranchised will be the Democratic voters of the City of Philadelphia.

You fellows can nod your heads, but, you know, I am going to tell you something—we used to be cocky, we thought we had the state and the people, but, you know, the people of America have a way of finding out when they are being dragged around, and they do not like it—they do not like it whether you do it or we do it—and the time will come when you will pay for the sins you are now creating.

I say, sincerely and honestly, that this is a bill to disenfranchise war workers of Philadelphia who have moved, because of necessity in the war effort to live closer to their work, and the particular workers who will be disenfranchised will be the Democratic workers.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, at the present time we have five different permanent registration acts on the statute books, one for Philadelphia, one for Scranton, one for Pittsburgh, one for third class cities and one for the boroughs and townships. Take all the camouflage away from this talk of Senator Lou Farrell and you find that the people of Philadelphia are going to be entirely different from any other county in the state. There is noly one reason for that—and he gave it in his speech, not meaningly—that the election was pretty close in Philadelphia last year and with the record that the Republican Party is making up here now he is afraid it is going to be, not close, but it is going to be on the Democratic side next year, and he is doing anything he can to block the war workers, who, I am sure after last week and this week, know what type of government is being given by the Republican majority in the House and the Senate and the Republican Governor.

The people of Pennsylvania are not dunderheads. Senator Reed once said in the United States Senate, they can read your Republican platform and they can read and see what you have done here and what they are doing here. The gentleman from Philadelphia quoted from the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and said it was usually, to quote his expression, on the up and up. I want to read an editorial from the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin that appears today entitled "Taking Their Own Medicine;" and it reads as follows:

"TAKING THEIR OWN MEDICINE

"Everybody knows the story of the visitor who, inquiring for a restaurant proprietor, was told he was out to lunch—the implication being that he couldn't stand the food prepared in his own establishment.

"A similar situation prevails in the House at Harrisburg, where the members have been compelled to listen to a reading of their own bills—with this difference, that, unlike the restaurant man, they have no avenue of escape. The Constitution provides that bills shall be thus read, but it has been customarily ignored in the interest of speed. Now filibusterers have become great sticklers for constitutionality, and their fellow-members have been subjected to an endless barrage of legalistic verbosity.

"Conceivably the experience may prove wholesome. The job of trying to make sense out of laws has hitherto been left to members of the bar. Perhaps the horrors lately enacted at Harrisburg may persuade some legislators that bills ought to be shorter, simpler and easier to understand.

"By and large filibusters are obnoxious. But lawmakers compelled to assimilate their own product are likely to get scant sympathy from a public too long mystified by the linguistic convolutions of the word-slingers."

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, a few years ago we had personal registration in Philadelphia and at each election every voter had to register. That was changed to a permanent registration, with removal cards available. Senator Stiefel was erroneous in saying that this bill kills the good attributes of the latest bill, as it does not do any such thing, because if you still live in the same place you registered from, you continue to be registered and you are eligible to vote, without having to re-register.

This bill only makes it impossible for those who remove from one place to another to be disfranchised by having their removal cards torn up, and the bill enables them to register so that they will be sure of voting at the next election.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, this bill undoubtedly denies to many citizens of our state the right to vote.

Long years ago, our forefathers came to this country to escape religious persecution, economic insecurity and economic inequality. For years they enjoyed those privileges in this country, but as time went on, the father country, England, denied them the right of representation, although they taxed them. This was the primary cause of the revolution that started back in 1775, which had its beginning at Lexington on April 14, 1775. The basis for this revolution was taxation without representation.

The war went on for approximately one year, when the colonies, in their wisdom and cunning, decided to adopt the Declaration of Independence, giving every man the right to be represented. Let me quote, now, the Declaration of Independence as it was adopted back on July 4, 1776, in the City of Philadelphia, within only a stone's throw of my home:

"When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the arth, the separate and equal"—Do you want to hear it? We will contnue on until the early hours of the morning; if you want a filibuster, you will get it.

"This pertains to the right to vote. Do you think this is a joke? It was not a joke to them, my friend—very important. You may laugh as you will, but it is very important to me and to the citizens of the state of Pennsylvania. This goes beyond the question of politics. I repeat:

"When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the Powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and Nature's God entitled them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government. laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security—Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies (this is before 1776) and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world."

Mr. President, and members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, this is a serious matter and not a joke, not something to be made light of, my friends. When you deny people the right to vote, you deny them everything, everything we have to live for, my friends.

Now let me continue with this Declaration of Independence.

"He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

"He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

"He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, (understand me, for the accommodation of large districts of people) unless those people relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, (and our people have not relinquished that right in the Legislature) a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

"He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their Public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

"He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

"He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative Powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the meantime exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

"He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for Naturalization of foreigners;" (and this is one instance in which foreigners desire to vote and when they move from one district to another, under our laws today, they do not desire to be disenfranchised, Mr. President.)

"Refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

"He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary Powers.

"He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

"He has erected a mutitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our People, and eat out their substance.

"He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our Legislature.

"He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil Power.

"He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of Pretended Legislation:

"For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

"For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from Punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

"For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

"For imposing taxes on us without our Consent:" (Imposing taxes on us without our consent, the very basis of the revolution which took place in 1775, and here we are today ready to deprive thousands in the state of Pennsylvania of the right of representation and yet tax them, mind you, my friends).

"For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury:

"For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

"For abolishing the free System of English Laws in the neighboring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

"For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments: (Today we are trying to destroy one of the basic laws of our government).

"For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with Power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

"He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

"He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

"He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

"He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

"He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

"In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms; Our repeated

Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free People.

"Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow those usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

"We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be Free and Independent States;"

"And I take it, my friends, that we are free and independent and should give everybody the right to vote, and when we deny them that right to vote, we deny them everything that our forefathers fought for.

"That they are absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the Protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

Mr. President, from 1776 to 1781, our colonies fought for their independence and fortunately for us today they were victorious and in 1783 the treaty of peace was signed.

In 1787, a Constitutional Convention met for the purpose of adopting a Constitution of the United States. That Constitution was adopted in 1789, giving the citizens, the people of our country, the right to vote, the right to enjoy all our branches of government, whether it be executive, judicial or legislative.

Now, let me read to you the Constitution of the United States. This is our constitution. I did not make it, I did not prepare it; it was prepared back in 1787 and finally adopted in 1789 by our forefathers, so that we could live as free men as set forth in our Declaration of Independence; whether we be rich or poor, black or white, we all have certain rights. I have a good voice; I have patience too. I am not finished yet; far from it.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia tell the Chair just what bill be is speaking on.

Mr. JASPAN. I am speaking on Mr. Farrell's bill. I am defending the right of certain people to vote, a right which was given to them by our Declaration of Independence, followed through by our Constitution of the United States, and our Constitution of the state of Pennsylvania, which was adopted in 1874, and you will get the amendments too. I want to be exact and precise on this and I do not want any mistake made about it.

The Constitution of the United States of America—that is a grand Constitution, and I think every man in this Senate, as a matter of fact, every man in the State of Pennsylvania, together with every citizen, and I will say foreigners in the United States, enjoy and respect this Constitution, and I hope my friends on the other side respect it, but tonight they are trying to destroy certain rights, guaranteed us under this Constitution, the right to vote.

"ARTICLE I

"LEGISLATIVE POWERS VESTED IN CONGRESS

"Section 1. All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives."

Here is something, a conundrum in which you may be interested, Senator Geltz, paragraph 1—he is asking for it, I will give it to him—in May 1785 a Committee of Congress made a report—I am not selling sausage now, I am giving you some baloney though—there is a lot of commotion here, Mr. President. If they want to joke it is all right with me. You have plenty of time, haven't you? No? Then I will take it. I am not joking, if they want to joke, well, all right. I have the voice and plenty of time and can continue until three or four o'clock tomorrow morning.

"In January, 1786—(I take it that is about one hundred and fifty-seven years ago; I think if my mathematics are correct, and that brings us down to 1943) the Legislature of Virginia passed a resolution providing for the appointment of five commissioners (not Public Utility Commissioners) who, or any three of them, should meet such commissioners as might be appointed in other states of the union, at a time and place to be agreed upon, to take into consideration the trade of the United States; to consider how far a uniform system in their commercial regulations may be necessary to their common interest and their permanent harmony; and to report to the several states such an act, relative to this great object, as when ratified by them, will enable the United States in Congress effectually to provide for the same. The Virginia commissioners, after some correspondence, fixed the first Monday in September as the time, and the city of Annapolis as the place for the meeting, but only four states were represented, viz: Delaware, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania; the commissioners appointed by Massachusetts, New Hampshire, North Carolina and Rhode Island failed to attend. Under the circumstances of so partial a representation, the commissioners present agreed upon a report drawn by Mr. Hamilton, of New York"—

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, we on this side can not hear what the gentleman is saying.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Jaspan, can you read just a little bit louder.

Mr. JASPAN. If there is anybody here that can not hear me there is something wrong with this Senate.

"Congress, on the twenty-second day of February (that is not Thomas Jefferson's birthday, that is George Washington's birthday) adopted a resolution in favor of a convention, and the legislature of those states which had not already done so, with the exception of Rhode Island, promptly appointed delegates."

Mr. PRESIDENT. Which bill is the Senator now speaking on?

Mr. JASPAN. I am talking on the registration bill, which at the present time denies certain people the right to vote in this state under this law, but under the Declaration of Independence that I read, and under the Constitution of the United States, the people are given the right to vote, and taxes are levied.

I think I have the right, Mr. President; this is a serious matter my friends. I am very serious about this matter, because if this bill is passed, there are at least 100,000 citizens of the city of Philadelphia who are today working for Uncle Sam in order to win this great war, and the soldiers who are over on Guadalcanal, the Solomon Islands and England, who will be denied the right to vote.

To my mind, this is purely political expediency—let us not kid ourselves. This is a very serious matter. I do not know of any leader in the city of Philadelphia who has agreed to the introduction of this bill, to say nothing of our Democratic leaders, and they certainly have gone on record as opposed to it, my friends, so I am going to continue this. I may be a bit blustery and loud, in what I am going to say but I am giving you the truth. My friends want to vote, and there are others today, who are working in war plants who are anxious to vote and if we are going to deny them that right, let us destroy the Constitution, let us destroy the Declaration of Independence, let us destroy our Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania. My friends, let us realize we have government today, and if we deny them the right to vote, as I said before and others have said, that is the most precious right that man or woman has today, and it is a very serious matter to trifle with, for the sake of a few votes.

I realize that in Philadelphia only last year, the Republicans won by only 150 votes, but that does not make any difference to me, it could be 1,500 or 150,000 votes, but let us not destroy the right of a citizen to vote; it makes no difference to me whether it affects one party or the other; but I say by all means give the people the right to vote, and let us not pass any bill which in effect would destroy that right given to them in our Constitution—which I am reading now—gives them that right, let us not destroy it. I propose to continue with that.

"COMPOSITION OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

"Section 2. 1. The House of Representatives shall be composed of Members chosen every second Year by the People of the several States, and the Electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for Electors of the most numerous Branch of the State Legislature.

"QUALIFICATIONS OF REPRESENTATIVES

"2. No Person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained to the Age of twenty-five Years, and been seven Years a Citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an Inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen."

Now, then, here is a very important problem that we were very much interested in last week. Although it was solved back in 1942, as a result of the call made by Governor James, when he said he would call a special session of the legislature provided the Democrats and Republicans would agree on a reapportionment bill. After much consideration and deliberation it was finally agreed upon, and the Senate and the House were called into session, and it cost approximately $300,000. That bill went through and today is law.

Yet today our friends on the other side want to change that, notwithstanding the fact that over $300,000 was spent to enact that law, and today I hear the cry from the other side, that if you filibuster, if you read bills at length, why that will cost the Commonwealth plenty of money. Did they consider that in 1942? Of course not. But today, for political expediency, they will involve us in the expenditure of large sums of money. Let us have government, but if we are going to have it, let us make it more consistent.

"APPORTIONMENT OF REPRESENTATIVES AND DIRECT TAXES—CENSUS.

"3.[3] [Representatives and direct Taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this Union, according to their respective Numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole Number of free Persons, including those bound to Service for a Term of Years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three fifths of all other persons.] The actual Enumeration shall be made within three Years after the first Meeting of Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent Term of ten Years, in such Manner as they shall by law direct."

In 1942, this legislature met and passed a reapportionment law—it is law today, and yet, within that same ten years, a bill was passed by this Senate only last week and sent to the House and as I said before, there is no question in my mind as to its unconstitutionality, yet this Senate saw fit to pass such a bill, and in all likelihood, the House constituted as it is, will pass it. I do not know what the Governor will do, but I say now when it goes to our Federal courts, and if, by chance, to the Supreme Court of the United States, I say that law will be declared unconstitutional. Never, in the history of the United States, has any one state passed a reapportionment bill twice within a period of ten years. This is the exception here today, and for what reason? Political expediency.

"The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty Thousand, but each State shall have at Least one Representative: and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

Mr. President, this next paragraph is very important to this legislature and to the citizens of this state who have the right to vote, yet by tonight's vote they are denied this right to vote at any future date for these representatives. That is where this connection comes in.

"FILLING OF VACANCIES IN REPRESENTATION

"4. When vacancies happen in the Representation from any State, the Executive Authority thereof shall issue Writs of Election to fill such Vacancies.

"SELECTION OF OFFICERS—POWER OF IMPEACHMENT

"5. The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers: and shall have the sole Power of Impeachment.

"OF THE SENATE

"Section 3. 1.[3] [The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the Legislature thereof for six Years; and each Senator shall have one vote.]

"CLASSIFICATION OF SENATORS—FILLING OF VACANCIES

"2. Immediately after they shall be assembled in Consequence of the first Election they shall be divided as equally as may be into three Classes. The Seats of the Senators of the first Class shall be vacated at the Expiration of the Second Year, of the second Class at the expiration of the fourth Year, and of the third Class at the Expiration of the Sixth Year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year;[1] [and if Vacancies happen by Resignation, or otherwise, during the Recess of the Legislature of any State, the Executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next Meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such Vacancies.]

"That is classification of Senator filling of vacancies—very important to our group; while it applies to Congress, we have Senators in this body, and it is applicable to the State of Pennsylvania.

"QUALIFICATIONS OF SENATORS

"3. No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the Age of thirty Years, and been nine Years a Citizen of the United States, and who shall not when elected be an Inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

"VICE-PRESIDENT TO BE PRESIDENT OF SENATE

"4. The Vice President of the United States shall be President of the Senate (here we have the Lieutenant Governor presiding over the Senate) who shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided."

I have plenty of time my friends, take it easy. Want me to take my coat off?

"SELECTION OF SENATE OFFICERS—PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

"5. The Senate shall chuse their other officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the Absence of the Vice President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

"SENATE TO TRY IMPEACHMENTS

"6. The Senate shall have the sole Power to try all Impeachments. When sitting for that Purpose they shall be on Oath or Affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside: And no Person shall be convicted without the Concurrence of two thirds of the Members present.

"JUDGMENT IN CASES OF IMPEACHMENT

"7. Judgment in Cases of Impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from Office, and Disqualification to hold and enjoy any Office of honor, Trust or Profit under the United States! but the Party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to Indictment, Trial, Judgment and Punishment, according to Law.

"CONTROL OF CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS

"Section 4. 1. The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof: but the Congress may at any time by Law make or alter such Regulations, except as to the Places of chusing Senators."

That is something that very much interested us last week, but now is a matter of history, although I had hoped that the House would not concur with the Senate. The fact of the matter is, as I stated before, a reapportionment bill was passed by both the Senate and the House last year, and now the attempt is made to reapportion congressional districts once more during the period from 1940 to 1950, and I challenge any member of the Senate to show me where another state in the United States, since its incorporation, since its commencement, did the same thing.

"TIME FOR ASSEMBLING OF CONGRESS

"2. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every Year, and such Meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by Law appoint a different Day.

"EACH HOUSE TO BE THE JUDGE OF THE ELECTION AND QUALIFICATIONS OF ITS MEMBERS—REGULATIONS AS TO QUORUM

"Section 5. 1. Each House shall be the Judge of the Elections, Returns and Qualifications of its own Members, and a Majority of each shall constitute a Quorum to do Business but a smaller Number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the Attendance of absent Members, in such Manner, and under such Penalties as each House may provide.

"EACH HOUSE TO DETERMINE ITS OWN RULES

"2. Each House may determine the Rules of its Proceedings, punish its Members for disorderly Behavior, and with the Concurrence of two thirds, expel a Member.

"JOURNALS AND YEAS AND NAYS

"3. Each House shall keep a Journal of its Proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such Parts as may in their Judgment require Secrecy; and the Yeas and Nays of the Members of either House on any question shall, at the Desire of one fifth of those Present, be entered on the Journal.

"ADJOURNMENT

"4. Neither House, during the Session of Congress shall, without the Consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other Place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting.

The PRESIDENT. What bill are we now on, Senator Jaspan?

Mr. JASPAN. I am speaking on the same bill, which denies the right to many of our citizens to vote, a right which was guaranteed to them under the so-called Declaration of Independence, our Constitution of the United States of America and likewise the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania.

"COMPENSATION AND PRIVILEGES OF MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

"Section 6. 1. The Senators and Representatives shall receive a Compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States. They shall in all Cases, except Treason, Felony and Breach of the Peace, be privileged from Arrest during their Attendance at the Session of their respective Houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any Speech or Debate in either House, they shall not be questioned in any other Place."

Mr. President, I have no complaint to make; in a drama at times a little comedy is injected and I am willing to tolerate it. Is that fair enough? You have got time, Mr. Majority Floor Leader; I have more time and I have the strength, you take it from me.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, the Declaration of Independence, the preamble and the Constitution and so forth have nothing to do with the Philadelphia registration bill to make people honest, and I would like to know what the order of the day is.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell is well taken.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I have already discussed the Declaration of Independence and I am now proceeding with the Constitution of the United States.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, is well taken. The discussion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspan, has nothing to do with the bill before us, as the Senator well knows.

Mr. JASPAN. I do not agree with you, Mr. President. This is a very important problem. I am not here trying to filibuster—perhaps we can learn some thing from the Constitution of the United States or the Constitution of Pennsylvania that has been adopted by the citizens of this state, and the citizens of our country, which give the people the right to vote, and when an attempt is made to deny them the right of sovereignty, then it is high time that we learn something about the Declaration of Independence, which is the basis of our law today, our Constitution of the United States of America and the Constitution of the state of Pennsylvania, which makes provision as to the requirements for voting, and that is what I intend to come to, Mr. President. I am not here deliberately delaying the proceedings. I think you know me better than that and I think other Senators do, but this is very very important. I do not want to delay, I do not want to filibuster, but I want to give them the facts as I know and understand them.

There are a hundred thousand people in the city of Philadelphia, if this bill is passed, who are going to be denied the right to vote, and I feel that by pointing out now the provisions of our Declaration of Independence, our Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania, the author of this bill and the Senators on the other side will gladly send this bill back to committee where it belongs, and let it sweetly lie there to be buried.

"INCOMPATIBLE OFFICES—EXCLUSIONS

"2. No Senator or Representative shall, during the Time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil Office under the Authority of the United States; which shall have been created, or the Emolments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no Person holding any Office under the United States, shall be a Member of either House during his Continuance in Office.

"REVENUE BILLS TO ORIGINATE IN HOUSE

"Section 7. 1. All Bills for raising Revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with Amendments as on other Bills.

"MANNER OF PASSING BILLS—VETO POWER OF PRESIDENT

"2. Every Bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall before it becomes a Law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his Objections to that House in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the Objections at large on their Journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such Reconsideration two thirds of that House shall agree to pass the Bill, it shall be sent, together with the Objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two thirds of that House, it shall become a Law. But in all such Cases the Votes of both Houses shall be determined by Yeas and Nays, and the Names of the Persons voting for and against the Bill shall be entered on the Journal of each House respectively. If any Bill shall not be returned by the President within ten Days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the Same shall be a Law, in like Manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their Adjournment prevent its Return, in which Case it shall not be a Law.

"CONCURRENT ORDERS OR RESOLUTIONS, TO BE PASSED ON BY PRESIDENT

"3. Every Order, Resolution, or Vote to which the Concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of Adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the Same shall take Effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the Rules and Limitations prescribed in the Case of a Bill.

"1 GENERAL POWERS OF CONGRESS—TAXATION

"Section 8. 1. The Congress shall have Power to lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defense and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

"BORROWING OF MONEY

"2. To borrow Money on the credit of the United States:

"REGULATION OF COMMERCE

"3. To regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes;"

Mr. President, the next paragraph is very important with respect to this bill that is before us, that is, Senator Farrell's bill, which to my mind deprives many of the right to vote. Yes sir, thank you sir, I will take it with you.

"NATURALIZATION AND BANKRUPTCY

"4. To establish an uniform Rule of Naturalization and uniform Laws on the subject of Bankruptcies throughout the United States;

"MONEY, WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

"5. To coin Money, regulate the Value thereof, and of foreign Coin, and fix the Standard of Weights and Measures;

"COUNTERFEITING

"6. To provide for the Punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current Coin of the United States;

"POST OFFICES

"7. To establish Post Offices and Post Roads;

"PATENTS AND COPYRIGHTS

"8. To promote the Progress of Science and useful Arts, by securing for limited Times to Authors and Inventors the exclusive Right to their respective Writings and Discoveries;

"INFERIOR COURTS

"9. To constitute Tribunals inferior to the Supreme Court;

"1. To declare War, grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal, and make Rules concerning Captures on Land and Water;

Now, Mr. President, take the section of the Constitution dealing with the power to declare war. The author of this bill has forgotten that Congress has the right to declare war and when we declare war certain citizens of our state, of our city, of our county, and of the several states of the United States are called to bear arms to protect this country against invaders and for the citizens to bear arms to fight to save our democracy, yet this very bill before us denies the right of many of those boys who are being called into the service the right to vote, if they have moved within a few months before they were called into the service.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Charles H. Ealy) in the Chair.

Mr. JASPAN.

This bill, Mr. President, if passed and enacted into law, it is very evident, amounts to treason. I say that because it denies the right to vote to many thousands of citizens of our state, and simple wonder it is that my friends on the other side object to my reading this, as it bears very much on the subject, Mr. President. I will accommodate you. I have got the voice and I have got the time too.

"ORGANIZING, ARMING AND DISCIPLINING MILITIA

"16. WILLIAM JACKSON, Secretary.

"Section 2, Article 1. The President to be Commander-in-Chief of Army and Navy—"

Mr. President, this is very important here and bears o nthe subject. As I pointed out in many other sections—I am serious, not joking or kidding about—the President is to be Commander-in-Chief of Army and Navy and Head of Executive Departments—May Grant Repreives and Pardons.

The President shall be Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, and yet under this bill before us today, it is a desperate attempt to deprive them of the right to vote and it is very unfair and dishonest to those men who are ready to give their lives for our benefit, for the benefit of our country.

Gentlemen, let us not be deluded into the belief that this bill before us will help; it is purely a political bill and has for its purpose the disenfranchisement of hundreds of thousands citizens of the state of Pennsylvania, and for that reason, and for that reason alone, I object to it. If you only deprive one man of his right to vote, it is treason in my mind, let alone the thousands and hundreds of thousands.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Has the gentleman concluded.

Mr. JASPAN. No sir. A gentleman here says for me not to hurry. I desire to continue. I am not taking offense at what he says or at what anybody else says; I am taking it in the proper spirit. You do not object, do you? I am not insisting on order; I am perfectly satisfied to let them do as they please, but let me say to you, my friends, that under the Constitution of both this state and the United States every man has the right to vote, and when any attempt is made to deprive that man of his right to vote, then I feel that the author of this bill and the members on the other side are violating the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the state of Pennsylvania.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Chair insists on order. The gentleman is entitled to be heard.

Mr. JASPAN. Thank you very much, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMORE. The Chair insists that the Senate be in order. The gentleman is entitled to the courtesy of being heard.

Mr. JASPAN. Should I ask for a roll call, Mr. President? Is there a quorum here?

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Senator will proceed. The Senate will be in order.

Mr. JASPAN. For the edification of the Senators on the other side—for those who are not familiar with it, I think this will help the Senators with respect to this particular bill before this Senate tonight—apparently you are trying to adopt tonight a bill which will interfere with the right of men to vote.

Now, Mr. President, I will proceed, section 1, article 6, page 19, Pennsylvania Manual, 1941, Volume 85, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—if you ask for it I will give it to you—Arthur James, Sam Lewis—no, he is not here; you know that as well as I do.

We now come to the Declaration of Rights under our Constitution of the United States.

We now come to Article XIII. This is very important, Mr. President, to this bill. This particular section bears very much on the subject, and notwithstanding the noise, bustle, and rush and everything else—

PREVIOUS QUESTION

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move the previous question.

Mr. WADE. I second the motion, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. I have the floor, Mr. President.

Mr. LETZLER. I second the motion, Mr. President.

Mr. JAMES. I second the motion, Mr. President.

Mr. WATKINS. I second the motion, Mr. President.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. JASPAN. I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. JASPAN. It is impossible to move the previous question while somebody is on the floor.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Chair rules otherwise.

Mr. JASPAN. I desire to discuss this question, which is very important to the citizens. May I say a word or two?

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The previous question has been moved by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, and seconded by the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, and other Senators.

Mr. JASPAN. I disagree with you, Mr. President. I realize that if I appeal from the ruling of the Chair I must first put it in writing and have it signed by four Senators.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Chair has ruled on the motion of the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, seconded by at least four other members.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, may I ask the Chair to permit the Senate to be at ease for a few moments so that I can make a proper appeal from the decision of the Chair? I realize that under our rules, in order to appeal from a decision of the Chair, it is necessary to put it in writing. I have had no time to put it in writing and have it signed by four members of the Senate. I have not had time. I ask for that decency, for that courtesy.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the previous question has been called.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The previous question having been moved, that cuts off debate, and the only thing then, in the opinion of the Chair, is to proceed with consideration of the bill.

Mr. JASPAN. I am discussing this bill, Mr. President. Am I to take it that I am denied the right to discuss a matter affecting thousands of citizens of this state, who under this bill are going to be deprived of the right of sovereignty? Is that what you intend to do here? I would like a ruling.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. A call for the previous question cuts off debate. We are now on the matter of voting on the call of the previous question.

Mr. WATKINS. Roll call, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Clerk will call the roll.

Mr. JASPAN. May I have a word, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Clerk will call the roll.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. JASPAN. I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, am I to be denied the right of the floor?

The PRESIDENT. The roll will be called.

Mr. JASPAN. I realize that, but I certainly have some say in this body. I represent a district.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The previous question having been called, properly seconded by at least four Senators, the Clerk will call the roll.

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred.)

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no".

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Westmoreland will be so recorded.

Mr. BARR. I desire to be recorded as voting "no".

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Allegheny will be so recorded.

MOTION TO HAVE SPECTATOR REMOVED

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, there is a gentleman in the gallery, outside the rail, who is insulting Senators. I ask that the Sergeant-at-Arms remove him.

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman will please retire.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, has the result of the roll call been announced.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The vote on the previous question is 27 in favor; 12 opposed. The motion is carried.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JASPAN and were as follows, viz:

Woodring,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The motion having been carried, the bill previously having been read at length the third time and agreed to, the question now before the Senate is shall the bill pass finally.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, may I say for the sake of the record, with respect to this bill, that I arose to my feet tonight intending to discuss this bill at length, as very important factors enter into this bill, which as yet have not even been touched upon. However, I take it that right is being denied me as the representative of a very important district in the state of Pennsylvania. Mr. President, I have certain rights here.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia is out of order, the previous question having been carried.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The point of order of the gentleman from Delaware is well taken.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell. Did I understand you, Senator Farrell, to say that the registration commissioners in Philadelphia were in favor of this bill?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Delaware will state his point of order.

Mr. HEYBURN. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator McCreesh, is out of order. The previous question has been moved and carried.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I would like to talk on the bill before a vote is taken. It is seldom that I take the floor to speak on a bill. I do not think you have a right to stop that before a vote is taken.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Unfortunately, Senator McCreesh, the previous question has been called and carried, for the purpose of voting on the bill.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, you are not going to allow us to say a few words on the bill? Yes or no?

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Unanimous consent of the Senate would be required. Is there objection?

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. I object, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. There is objection and the Chair must sustain the objection. I am sorry.

This bill has been read at length on three separate days, considered and agreed to, and is now on final passage.

On the question the Clerk will call the roll.

(The Clerk started to call the roll.)

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred:)

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, we have a right to talk on the bill.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I rise on a point of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, this gentleman is privileged to talk on the bill on final passage. I think the Chair is out of order.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Schuylkill will proceed.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, the Clerk having started the calling of the roll, the only thing in order is the roll call.

Mr. DENT. That is right, the roll call is the only thing in order.

(The Clerk again proceeded with the calling of the roll)

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, is this roll being taken on final passage?

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. There is nothing in order excepting the calling of the roll.

(The Clerk again proceeded to call the roll)

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no".

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Westmoreland will be so recorded.

Mr. DENT. And now, Mr. President, before the result is announced, as I understand it, I started to debate on this bill purposely after third reading, without a vote being taken on third reading.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise on a parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Westmoreland will proceed.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I want to know from the Chair whether this vote was on the third reading or whether it was on final passage?

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. As the Chair understands it, the bill was read three times, previously.

Mr. DENT. That is right, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. If the Senator from Westmoreland started to debate before third reading of the bill, in the opinion of the Chair the gentleman from Westmoreland was out of order.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I started to debate this bill immediately following third reading—if you will have the minutes read back, I believe I will be upheld in my contention—after the Chair said "This bill having been read the third time," then I got upon the floor right at that point. If it is on final passage I only want that information.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The bill is now on final passage.

(The Clerk concluded calling the roll.)

VERIFICATION OF THE ROLL

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I ask that the roll be verified.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Request has been made to have the roll verified.

The Clerk will call the names of those recorded as having voted "aye."

The Clerk read the names of those recorded as having voted "aye" as follows:

Becker,
Bowers,

Chapman,
Crider,

Deltrick,

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Are there any corrections?

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Allegheny will be so recorded. The attention of the Chair was temporarily distracted. The negative roll will again be verified.

The Clerk again read the names of those recorded as voting in the negative as follows:

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DiSILVESTRO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. I wish to speak, Mr. President, in explanation of my negative vote. Mr. President, on account of the debate being shut off, I am not in a position to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, any further. However, I voted "no" because the Registration Commission in its 1942 report, just issued, on page 12, recites that 96,784 removal cards were filed in advance of last year's primary and general elections and that all were handled so promptly and so efficiently that not one person lost his right to vote, not one person.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to make a brief statement with regard to the bill which just passed.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none. The gentleman from Allegheny may proceed.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, following the reading of Senate Bill No. 305, Printer's No. 171, I told the members of the Senate that the bill on third reading was not read at length, and the Chair did not have the bill before him, but the Chair ruled that the bill had been read at length. That was not so, as I followed the bill, and, therefore, I tell the President and members of the Senate that this bill has not been passed according to the Constitution of the Senate of Pennsylvania, and if ever this bill should come up for Court action I intend to be there at that time.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Chair understands that the Lieutenant-Governor, who was presiding at that time, ruled that the bill had been read at length.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to give my reasons for voting "no" on this bill, so that it may be made a matter of record.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Is there objection?

Mr. WATKINS. I object, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to give my reasons for voting against this bill.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. There has been objection to the request of the gentleman from Philadelphia, and therefore the Chair will have to rule against the request.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I rise on a parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. JASPAN. Am I to understand that I am denied the right to express to this body my reasons for voting against this bill.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Permit the Chair to answer your inquiry. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, was given two hours or so to speak on this bill and then further debate was cut off by the previous question being moved and carried. The Chair therefore ruled against the Senator from Philadelphia.

Mr. JASPAN. I say in answer, Mr. President, that through a technicality, debate in this body for the first time within my memory has been suppressed. There are many other things I could have brought out very clearly.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The Chair has ruled, Senator.

SENATE TO PROCEED WITH CONSIDERATION OF CALENDAR TO EXCLUSION OF ALL OTHER MATTERS

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I move that the Senate proceed to consideration of the Calendar, to the exclusion of all other matters, until adjournment.

Mr. TALLMAN. I second the motion, Mr. President.

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 363, entitled:

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not desire to delay the business of the Senate but I wonder whether the members of the Senate realize that this bill reduces the minimum fine from $50 to $12.50 on a series of offenses under the law that governs the operation of aircraft in the state of Pennsylvania.

As I read the act, under the present law if a person is flying a plane whose license has been revoked and the reason for revoking the license to fly the aircraft is because it is determined that that aircraft is unsafe for flying purposes, you reduce the minimum fine from $50 to $12.50.

Why even today in the Motor Code as I understand it, if you are driving without a license the fine is $50, and you can not even drive a car, as I know it, without some strict regulation.

Another one of the features of this bill, Mr. President, is that it reduces the minimum fine from $50 to $12.50, if you display or try to represent as one's own any federal airman's or aircraft license. Those of you who never have been in an aircraft must realize that any novice that knows just a little about an airplane can take one off the ground and endanger the lives and property of innocent by-standers and everything else when he flies a plane without a license.

I do not think $50 is a too great a minimum fine anyway, for persons who would take the lives of others in their own hands or jeopardize lives and property by flying planes around when they are not licensed pilots.

Remember that after this war is over we are going to have the greatest boom in flying that the world has ever seen, and I think this Act ought to remain at least as it is on the books. However, as one man says, you have the votes, but I do not think you ought to use them to pass legislation which is not sound.

For instance, in Section (e) of the Act it says "tampering with or making use of or navigating any aircraft without the knowledge or consent of the owner or custodian thereof," and that means—maybe I am wrong in what I am reading, perhaps I do not follow it—but as I understand it any person violating these rules, under Section (e) page 4, second paragraph, line 9, where it says "Penalty. Any person violating any of the provisions of sub-sections (b), (c), (d), (f) or (g) of this section shall upon summary conviction before a burgess, alderman, magistrate or justice of the peace be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than—" and then fifty dollars is stricken out and in place thereof $12.50 is substituted—if I am wrong I wish someone would tell me so that I can understand what this is about.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, Section (e) about which the gentleman from Westmoreland is complaining, is not changed in the clause to which he objects. Clauses (a) and (e) are taken care of in the next to the last paragraph on page 4, in which it states that the fine shall not be less than $100 nor more than $500 and imprisonment for not more than one year. The reductions in fines in the section to which the gentleman from Westmoreland object are for the lesser offenses under the act, and the reduction is not in the maximum but only in the minimum, and it still provides for imprisonment of thirty days, if the magistrate is so inclined, so I do not think there is any danger in the reduction of the minimum in this bill, as complained of by the gentleman from Westmoreland.

Mr. DENT. That may be a valid argument for passage of the bill, Mr. President, I do not pride myself but I did have eight hundred some hours in the air and I spent four years in the Marine Air Corps and I learned something about planes, and if you do not believe section (c) to be a serious section in this Bill, for instance—I will read it to you: "(c) To lend to or knowingly to permit the use of by one not entitled thereto any federal airman's and aircraft license issued to the person so lending or permitting the use thereof."

I think that is a very serious section of the act, because if you lend your license to someone you are only subject to a $12.50 fine, but the thing I can not get through my head is this, what is the cause for the passage of this act? Where is the demand for this kind of legislation? If you can demonstrate to me that there is a hue and cry for the passage of this kind of legislation, all right, I am willing to go along, if there are some necessary moves that have to be made in order to make our air flying safer when the war is over, because it is going to be a very serious problem in navigation in the next few years but I do not think we ought to fool around with this type of legislation at this time.

The SPEAKER (Ira T. Fiss) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Rev. C. Ralston Smith, Pastor of The Pine Street Presbyterian Church, Harrisburg, a guest of the Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we rejoice that great as Thou art, Thou dost still delight in the fellowship of mere man. We are Thy people and the sheep of Thy pastures. Guide with Thine eye, we beseech Thee, our ways in the earth that we may at last be found in the fold of Thy eternal home.

Our petition tonight is for those who guide the destiny of our nation. Just Thou art and dost rule by law and order. Thou seest sin as a reproach to any people. Supervise then, the acts of those who have been invested with great responsibility in the leading of our nation, our commonwealth, and our community. Particularly endue with power from on high these representatives of the people that theirs may be both wisdom to discern the right and diligence to follow in its way.

Cleanse our hearts that we may act from honest motives purely. Enrich our faith that we may trust in God and heaven securely. In the name of Jesus Christ who loved us and gave Himself for our sins. Amen.

PRESENTATION

The SPEAKER. The Chair asks unanimous consent of the House to permit a former Speaker of the House, the Honorable Elmer Kilroy, to come to the rostrum for the purpose of making a few interesting remarks. The Chair hears no objection. It gives the Chair great pleasure to present to the House a former Speaker, the Honorable Elmer Kilroy.

Mr. KILROY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to present to a Member of this House a photograph of a great football game. It has been hanging in the office of Mr. Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics for more than forty years. I personally have seen it there most of those years but it was not until last Saturday when the ball game between the A's and the Phillies was postponed on account of rain that I took particular notice of this photograph, some of whom were a former mayor of a large American city, a former judge from Phidadelphia, now deceased, and many other boys who later became famous. It gave me a real thrill when I saw that a Member of this House was one of that team.

In 1902 Mr. Connie Mack owned and managed a football club called the Philadelphia Athletics, which won the Eastern Professional Championship.

Mr. Connie Mack requested me on his behalf to present this photograph to the quarterback of this great team, your own Earl Hewitt from the county of Indiana.

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman from Indiana to come to the rostrum. I think we should have some remarks from a great quarterback of many years ago, Mr. Earl Hewitt.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Kilroy, Members of the House, ladies and gentlemen, it would take no stretch of the imagination to realize what you people are thinking as I stand before you this evening. You are wondering how a guy like that could ever play football. I might say that forty years makes many changes in the physical makeup of a man, although we should mentally improve as we become weak physically, but this is not quite the case here. I do certainly appreciate this kind thought of Mr. Mack. I was in a small school, although at that time it might be interesting to know that I weighed 185 pounds, I had lots of big, bushy hair, I wore a 17 collar and I wore a big turtle neck sweater, which made me look like a football player. I might say that although we had a small school at State College during those days, we had some very remarkable players on our team.

I know that time is very precious tonight on account of the long calendar, but I might mention to you the two Pierce brothers, Hawley Pierce and Bemus Pierce. They were both All-American. Hawley Pierce weighed 209 pounds, was six feet one inch tall and he had a very fine family. His son was a great electrician for the General Electric and his daughter sang on the radio for a number of years, being full blooded Indians. There was Blondy Wallace, who was captain of the Penn team in 1900, and he was perhaps one of the greatest players of all times, having made the All-American team. Ed Bader was of no school, although he was mayor of Atlantic City for about sixteen years. He died of pneumonia. We also had Bosey Riter of Princeton, Dr. Merriman of Oberlin College, and Curly Davidson of the University of Pennsylvania. Then we had Tiger McFarland, who, as his name implies, was a great player, from W. & J. We had Keagdon, of Columbus, who weighed about 225 pounds and was six feet tall and is today a very prominent lawyer in the city of New York. We had from Syracuse Steinberg, who played halfback and Pasty Weir, a great end. We had many famous players, many of whom have passed on to the great beyond and have taken the great venture.

My greatest blessing has been continued good health, and I thank God tonight for being able after forty years to stand here and address you people. I thank you very much.

Mr. KILROY. Thank you, Mr. Speaker and members of the House for the courtesy you have extended to me this evening.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to thank the former Speaker, the Honorable Elmer Kilroy, as well as the good quarterback of forty years ago, Mr. Earl Hewitt.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. HERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to present and have the entire Philadelphia delegation sponsor a privileged resolution.

Messrs. Kolankiewicz, Dillon, Herman, Scanlon, Skale, Green, Brigerman, Thompson, Boory, Corrigan, Duffy, Hersch, Cohen, Hoggard, Trent, Welsh, Cullen, Samuel Rose, O'Brien, Tate, Chudoff, Modell and Tate offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted:

In the House of Representatives, April 13th, 1943.

Whereas, Although the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is customarily occupied with the consideration of weighty matters of State, nevertheless it can, on occasion forget its august dignity long enough to entertain matters of a purely romantic nature, and

Whereas, It was the privilege of this House, by the adoption of an appropriate resolution, at its last Session on February 18, 1942, to place its stamp of approval upon the engagement of our fellow member the Honorable J. Harold Levy to Miss Mildred Gorenstein, and

Whereas, Since the adoption of said resolution the course of true love has apparently run smoothly for J. Harold Levy and Miss Mildred Gorenstein were married Thursday, April 15, 1943, and

Whereas, The milestones in J. Harold Levy's course from celibate to head of a family seem to be passed only during sessions of the Legislature, and

Whereas, The Members of the House accordingly anticipate further occasion for congratulatory resolution or resolutions at future sessions, therefore be it

Resolved, That this House extends its congratulations and good wishes to the said J. Harold Levy and wishes him and his bride a long and happy married life, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the happy couple immediately.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I am at a loss for words. To say that I am very happy would be putting it mildly, but to say that I am very happy about returning here tonight after spending a very delightful honeymoon in New York City would not be telling much of the truth. I am certainly glad to be back, and I thank you, Mr. Speaker, and the sponsors of the resolution and the Members of the House on behalf of my very fortunate bride.

The SPEAKER. If Mrs. Levy is present will the lady please rise? The Chair extends congratulations to the bride and the groom.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman from Philadelphia going on his honeymoon?

Mr. O'BRIEN. I want to go on record, Mr. Speaker, as saying that the only time I have ever seen the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, out-shouted was on his wedding night.

The SPEAKER. It was so sudden.

SENATE

TUESDAY, April 20, 1943.

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern War Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John C. Bell, Jr.) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE, D.D., offered the following prayer:

O Lord, our God, the daily meeting of this Senate is opened with prayer. Our fathers introduced the custom because they were God-conscious men. We of today retain the custom. May we do so for the reason that we believe, as they did, in the God of Nations. More than they knew we know that Thou art our God, for we have seen Thy directing hand and preserving care in our Nation's history. Against foreign enemies we have been victorious. Through the horrors of a civil war that threatened to divide and destroy the Nation Thou did'st bring us to unity and peace. May that unity never be broken.

Our peace has again been broken by the unwarranted assaults of enemy nations who envy our prosperity and security. Millions of our young men have offered themselves on the altar of patriotism and many lives are being sacrificed. We pray fervently that they may not die in vain, and we believe they will not. God be with them. Cheer their hearts and fortify their souls as they battle for victory and permanent peace.

And we on the home front, having thus far suffered nothing but minor inconveniences, may we not forget what is being done for us, but gladly respond with all we have and are to support those who bear the brunt of battle. Only thus can we prove our patriotism.

And may the God of Battles direct us all, from the President to the humblest worker in the cause.

In the name of our Divine Commander. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HEYBURN and Mr. CROWE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, in the vote on Senate Bill No. 305, the registration commission bill, last evening, I now discover that after having voted "no" on the bill, that the official records of the Senate do not show that I voted.

I would like the record to show me as voting in the negative. I am sure every Senator in this body recalls not only the interrogation that I conducted with Senator Farrell, but also my statement giving my reasons for voting in the negative, after the filibuster had ceased.

I, therefore, ask the Senate to record me as voting "no" on Senate Bill No. 305, the registration bill.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator DiSilvestro, the record shows that Senator DiSilvestro did not vote on Senate Bill No. 305. The Senator will also recall that that vote was verified.

However, if it meets with the approval with the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. DiSilvestro, the Chair suggests that his statement as of today be incorporated in the Legislative Journal.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. In order to correct the statement of the Chair, I feel that on account of the pandemonium that existed last night, that I can not allow the responsibility to rest on my shoulders. I feel that because the clerks were tired last night the slip-up was involuntarily and not wilful.

However, I wish to be protected in my vote by having today's record show my intention of voting "no."

The PRESIDENT. Will it be satisfactory to the gentleman from Philadelphia if his remarks of today are incorporated in the Legislative Journal.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Yes, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Very well, they will be so recorded.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. COX asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, before introducing this bill which I hold in my hand, I would like to make a few introductory remarks. I propose to present to the Chair a bill to abolish capital punishment in Pennsylvania. My remarks are not an argument in favor of this bill, because the bill is not in controversy yet.

I make my remarks because many bills which I have thought remedial and for the social interest of this Commonwealth still rest in committee, perhaps that is because other members of the committee do not think that they are as remedial as I think they are. Yet I hope today I can introduce into the Legislature a piece of legislation so extremely important that at some later session of the Legislature it will be enacted into law.

At the beginning, very early in the history of our civilization, our method of treating persons who broke laws was to punish them. We got that idea from the Mosaic Code and I am glad to see in Pennsylvania today that, with the exception of capital punishment, we have completely forgotten the idea of punishment as a method for preventing crime in the treatment of people who have broken the laws of our Commonwealth.

I would like to read from a little article by Warden Lewis E. Lawes, a man so well known in the field of penology that his opinion must carry great weight when you consider a matter as important as this.

The article is as follows:

"I am opposed to the death penalty because the evasions, the inequality of its application, the halo with which it surrounds every convicted murderer, the theatrics which are so important to every court proceeding where the stake is life or death, the momentary hysteria, passion and prejudice aroused by the crime which often make it impossible to weigh the facts carefully and impersonally and, finally, the infrequency of its application—all tend to weaken our entire structure of social control. They make for cynicism and disrespect of all law enforcing agencies, and encourage the desperate criminal toward the extreme crime. He knows that his gamble with the death penalty is safer than with a long term in prison for a lesser offense.

"There is an inherent weakness in any system of law and procedure that does not recognize the reticence of citizens and prospective jurors to invoke the penalty provided by the statute.

"Jury panels have been exhausted time and again because of the court's inability to obtain twelve men willing to pass upon the guilt of a defendant accused of murder, because of their opposition to the death penalty."

I might say that in the United States the following states have outlawed the death penalty, the states of Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, and Porto Rico.

I have been in the Rockview branch of the Western Penitentiary on the day prior to the electrocution of a murdered confined there. I have had the personal experience of knowing what this does to the inmates in a penitentiary, and I hope that if this bill comes out of committee and comes on the floor of this Senate, that I can tell you at length my practical observations of what this bill means to society.

Less than a Constitutional majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the negative.

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred)

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, I ask that the Senators in voting be notified to take their seats by the Sergeant-at-Arms.

The PRESIDENT. It has been requested that the Senators remain in their seats during the calling of the roll.

Mr. DENT. I submit, Mr. President, there is nothing in order except the announcement of the result of the roll call.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that further consideration of Senate Bill No. 361, on final passage entitled:

An Act regulating commercial strip mining; imposing requirements to engage therein, including the planting or sowing of certain lands; giving powers and duties to the Secretary of the Department of Forests and Waters, including issuing permits; providing for appeals to the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County; and prescribing penalties be postponed for the present.

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, as I understand it, the plans are made for the final adjournment of the General Assembly on April 29. If this bill is not to be acted upon by the members of the Senate, the thing to do with it is to drop it from the Calendar or send it back to committee, but I do not like to see a bill as important as this one, sponsored in the interest of sanitation and health, reforestration and good government, continually postponed and going over in order, unless you have in mind ironing out some difficulties which arise when legislation is introduced for some one purpose.

This action being taken today, if you are serious about adjourning April 29 means that this bill is going to die and I do not like to see it die on the Calendar. I would rather the merits of the bill be discussed upon the floor of the Senate to see whether or not it is a party measure or whether it is a measure intended for the welfare of the state of Pennsylvania. If this bill goes on the Postponed Calendar and we adjourn finally on April 29, this bill is a dead bill and I do not believe we ought to do that unless we know fully what we are doing.

Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, the Floor Leader of the Republican Majority.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, is it the intention of the majority leaders of the Senate and the House to adjourn sine die on April 29?

Mr. HEYBURN. We are pressing for adjournment on April 29.

Mr. DENT. Then, Mr. President, under those circumstances, is not the motion of the gentleman from Delaware tantamount to killing this bill?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, there has been objection to this bill and that is the reason the Republican Caucus decided it should be placed on the postponed Calendar. Furthermore, one of the sponsors of this bill, Senator Watkins, is not in the Senate Chamber at present.

Mr. DENT. I do not care what the Caucus did, Mr. President; what I am asking the gentleman from Delaware is this, whether this motion would not be the same as killing the bill, if you intend to adjourn on April 29? A bill must as you know, pass the Senate and then be sent to the House for consideration, go to committee, be reported out and then pass the House.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, a bill can be called from the Postponed Calendar just as easily as it can be reached on the regular Calendar; it takes no particular amount of time to call a bill from the postponed Calendar. It can even be called up today.

Mr. DENT. That is the point I am driving at, Mr. President. Once the Republican Caucus has taken action to place this bill on the postponed Calendar, does that satisfy the Caucus action, and can the bill be called up for consideration by individual members of the Senate, without them being tied by Caucus action? That is the point I am trying to make.

Mr. HEYBURN. I do not quite understand the gentleman from Westmoreland.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, does the motion of the Majority Floor Leader to place this bill on the postponed Calendar fulfill the desire of the Caucus?

Mr. HEYBURN. That is right.

Mr. DENT. Well then, Mr. President, I take it, after it is on the postponed Calendar for a period of time, the individual members are at liberty to then vote as they see fit if the bill is called up.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, any member of the Senate can call this bill up from the postponed Calendar.

Mr. DENT. That is all right, Mr. President. I just want to say to you that I intend to call this bill up, but I will wait until the co-sponsor comes in.

Mr. HEYBURN. Does the gentleman mean the Republican sponsor?

Mr. DENT. That is right, Mr. President, my Republican colleague.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 535, entitled:

An Act to further amend section one article eight of the act approved the second day of June one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one (P. L. 176) entitled "An act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal-mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith" providing that only persons who are registered holders of certificates of qualification or service shall be employed as mine foremen and assistant mine foremen

Section 1 Section one article eight of the act approved the second day of June one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one (P. Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

PRESENT—1

Shapiro,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, may I inquire as to how the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Jones, voted?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Jones, is not recorded as having voted. The Clerk did not hear him vote.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, we have just voted to approve this bill on third reading and we are now about to vote upon it upon final passage. Before this is done I wish to call to the attention of the Senate the fact that I am afraid the sponsor of this bill and those who are behind it do not really approach the question with a full knowledge of the situation, and because of the importance of the matter, and because of other pending legislation upon the same subject, and because of the various ideas that have been advanced on the matter of taxation, at the risk of boring the Senate, I particularly call the attention of those who are interested in taxation to some of the things that we ought to consider at this time.

Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 176, sponsored by the Senator from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman, provides that there shall be an amendment to the Act of 1941, known as No. 221, which was approved the 28th day of July A. D. 1941.

Taking the Act of 1941 as a starting place, it is proposed by Senate Bill No. 176 to amend the Act of 1941 by writing a new section No. 1, and so that it may be intelligently considered I want to read to you what section No. 1 provides in the Act of 1941.

Section No. 1 of the Act of 1941 reads as follows: "Section 1. The County Commissioners of each county are hereby authorized within one year from the effective date of this Act to sell at public or private sale in the manner provided by law for the best price obtainable all seated and unseated lands heretofore purchased by them at tax sales and upon which the period of redemption provided by law has expired."

With that section before you as provided in the Act of 1941, the balance of the Act does not appear here unless we bring it before you. The Act of 1941 had four sections, Sections 2, 3 and 4 have not been explained and are not being considered here unless we bring it up in this manner.

Now then, going back to section 1 of the bill that is being considered here, if this bill is passed, section 1 as it will appear in the amended bill will read like this:

"Section 1. The County Commissioners of each county are hereby authorized" and then they strike out the words "within one year from the effective date of this act," which of course, leaves it open for any time after the adoption of the bill.

Now, taking it up from there it reads: ". . . to sell at public or private sale in the manner provided by law for the best price obtainable all seated and unseated lands for purchase by them at tax sales and upon which the period of redemption provided by law has expired."

Section 2 of this proposed bill says: "The provisions of this Act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment."

What I want you to consider is this, Mr. President, that section 2 of the 1941 Act says this: "Section 2. All sales of any such lands heretofore made by any county commissioners shall be valid and binding on the county, and all deeds and conveyances given by the county for any such lands are hereby ratified, confirmed and validated, and the purchasers thereof and their respective heirs, sucessors and assigns shall hold and may convey such titles and estates indefeasibly as to any rights of the county therein, notwithstanding the fact that the time within which such sales were by law required to be made had expired when such sales were made."

I must call your attention to section 3, and this is what I am afraid people have not considered—Section 3 reads as follows:

"Section 3. The provisions of section seventeen of the act, approved the twenty-ninth day of May, 1931, (Pamphlet Laws, two hundred eighty) entitled 'An act relating to delinquent taxes on seated lands, and prescribing interest charges on nonpayment thereof; requiring the receivers and collectors of county, city, borough, town, township, school district and poor district taxes to make a return to the county commissioners of such unpaid taxes, and providing for the lien thereof; authorizing the county treasurers to collect such taxes and to sell seated lands at public sale for taxes heretofore or hereafter returned as unpaid; and authorizing the county commissioners to purchase such lands and resell the same under certain circumstances' as amended, is hereby repealed in so far as the same is inconsistent with the provisions of this act.

"All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

"Section 4. The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment."

This bill proposes in its new Section 1 that you may sell at public or private sale in the manner provided by law. I submit that you can not, in the manner provided by law, make a public sale because section 17 of the Act of 1931 is repealed by the Act of 1941 in its original form and in its amended form and section 17 of the Act of 1931 is the Act that relates to public sales.

Now, here you are going to say that you can go on any time hereafter and make these sales of lands either publicly or privately but in accordance with the provisions of the existing law, and you have no law on public sales.

I want to make you an explanation. That was the thing that worried me and I introduced a bill known as Senate Bill No. 100 and finally it went through this Senate without a dissenting voice, in the last analysis, but it is being held up in the House with other propositions, and I am afraid that those who are holding it up have not considered the fact that by the Act of 1941, section 17 of the Act of 1931 has been repealed and therefore it becomes necessary, in order to go on record, because I think they are going to bungle, taxation measures, the same as they have since 1933, I am going to put on record what ought to be done and what I have tried to get the Senate and the House to understand.

The Act of May 29, 1931, (P. L. 280) was an Act providing for the return of seated lands for non-payment of taxes and for the certifying of the same, to the county treasurer, who was authorized to sell said lands at certain times, and also provided that where there was no bid equal to the taxes the county commissioners must purchase the same.

Section 17 of the said Act provided the method to be used by the county commissioners in selling ceded lands at public sale—remember that—after the period of redemption had expired. There you have a provision in 1931 that the Act of 1931 takes care of public sales and you do it by section No. 17.

The Act of May 25, 1933 (P. L. 1019), gave the commissioners authority to sell county lands at private sale—the Act of 1933, then, is a private sales Act. Why? By establishing a procedure which differed from the procedure to sell land at public sale. Get this: by the Act of 1931, there is a certain procedure and that is public sale. By the Act of 1933, there is a certain procedure relating to private sales.

Now, then, Mr. President, the Act of June 20, 1939 (P. L. 498), amended section 17 of the Act of 1931, by providing that county commissioners should sell county lands for which the period of redemption had expired within six months. The Act of 1939 provided that you should sell those lands that were to be sold at public sale within six months from the time of the passage of the Act of 1939.

Under said amendment they could either sell at private sale under the provisions of the Act of 1933, or at public sale under the Act of 1931.

The Act of July 28, 1941 (P. L. 541), which I have just referred to here a few minutes ago, a new Act not even indexed under Taxation, provided that the commissioners should sell at either public or private sale in the manner provided by law all seated and unseated land purchased by them at tax sales within one year from the date of the Act and it specifically repealed Section 17 of the Act of 1931, as amended by the Act of 1939.

Now then, what do I try to do by Senate Bill No. 100? I am trying to re-enact this 1931 Act in so far as Section 17 is concerned. Until we get that Act passed in the House and signed by the Governor, you can not carry out the plans of this proposed bill here, of which I am in favor and for which I am going to vote—you can not carry it out. Why? Because this only amends the Act of 1941 and says, in the manner provided by law and they are depending that "in the manner provided by law" will be taken care of by Section 17 of the Act of 1931.

Section 17 has been repealed and does not exist and until it has been re-enacted, either by the proposed bill which I have introduced, Senate Bill No. 100, or some other bill to the same effect, you can not really carry out a bill like Senate Bill No. 176.

I hope that I am not boring the Senate, because this is an important matter and a good many newspapers think that the proposed bill No. 100 will take something from them. I want to tell you something further. We had a hearing on Senate Bill No. 100 and only two or three members of the committee could be present, because it was delayed, caucuses were going on and the Senate then became interested in other general affairs and did not attend the meeting, at which we presented these facts, and this is the first time the Senate has had the information giving reasons why Senate Bill No. 100 should be enacted.

Mr. President, I want to tell you something else. At that hearing it was stated by some of us to what it meant to have this corrective bill No. 100 go through.

For instance, the Erie city solicitors say they had 450,000 properties to advertise alone and to advertise them alone it will cost them $18,000 and they have already advertised but by reason of the fact that there was bungling in 1941, and they really did away with the Act of 1931, sales might not be legal and, therefore, we have a proposal under Senate Bill No. 100 which is this; where any such public sale has been advertised under the provisions of this section prior to this amendment, and such sale not having been held, readvertisement of such sale need not be advertised three consecutive weeks nor include a list and description of the lands to be sold, but need only be advertised by one insertion in one or two newspapers as aforesaid at least thirty days prior to the sale and include the purpose, time and place and the terms of such sale with a reference to the prior advertisement.

Newspapers in this state will not be harmed. They have already had their money for these advertisements and the city of Erie will save and has already paid for it about $18,000.

The county of Jefferson has 1,700 properties affected by this, which have been advertised and not sold for want of time and for fear the titles would not be good.

I hope that the Senators in voting for this bill will see that it is amended in the House in some way, to take care of that Section 17 of the Act of 1931.

I call this to your attention and ask you to use your influence to get Senate Bill No. 100 out, so that this Senate Bill No. 176 will be, so far as public sales are concerned, the authority. Senate Bill No. 100, as introduced by me, is a proper bill. I thank you.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Section 2 The provision of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, I request that the roll be called.

The PRESIDENT. Previously the gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Jones, stated that he was entitled to have the roll called and mentioned the fact that the Constitution required it.

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, I say that the Constitution requires the reading of all bills three times at length.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct. However, there is no provision, is there, in the Constitution that the roll be called excepting on final passage?

Mr. JONES. The Constitution requires that bills be read at length three times and I request that that constitutional provision be complied with.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair was inquiring about the request of the Senator from Luzerne for a roll call. The Chair understood that the gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Jones, stated that the Constitution required a roll call on third reading.

Mr. JONES. I ask that a roll call be had.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, the gentleman from Somerset, Senator Ealy.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Somerset permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EALY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Will the gentleman from Somerset tell me whether the General State Authority is at this time receiving an amount of money from the Federal Government for the use of the Butler Sanitarium.

Mr. EALY. If I understood the question, Mr. President, it was the amount of money that was spent in the construction of this building?

Mr. BARR. The Butler Sanitarium is at this time leased to the Federal Government, is it not?

Mr. EALY. I did not understand the question.

Mr. BARR. At the present time, is the Butler Sanitarium leased to the Federal Government.

Mr. EALY. That is right.

Mr. BARR. Can the gentleman from Somerset tell me the amount of money the Federal Government is paying the General State Authority each year as rental.

Mr. EALY. I am not sure. The purpose of this bill, I might explain, is this: the Federal Government has leased this building for a hospital and they have a tentative agreement with the General State Authority as to the purchase of the building, should the Federal Government desire it. It is felt that under the General State Authority Act that this power was not given to the General State Authority and this bill is intended to make sure that there is such authority.

Mr. BARR. Senator Ealy, if this bill is passed, in all probability the Butler Sanitarium will be sold to the Federal Government; is that not correct?

Mr. EALY. Not necessarily so.

Mr. BARR. But under this Act it is possible.

Mr. EALY. It is possible, yes.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, we are more than willing to lease the Butler Sanitarium to the Federal Government for the duration of the war anytime they may need it, but does not the gentleman think that we have a need for a tuberculosis hospital in western Pennsylvania.

Mr. EALY. I do not want to go into that subject. I think it has been demonstrated that there are other buildings which would be sufficient. There are different theories as to the way to treat this disease, whether patients should be treated in a single building or whether it should be done in clusters of buildings, and members of the medical profession, as I understand, are changing their ideas about the method for treating this disease.

However, for the present the Federal Government has leased the buliding and has made a great many changes there, so that it would be difficult to change it back again to a tuberculosis hospital without a great deal of expense, as I understand

Mr. BARR. For the information of the Senator from Somerset, the lease between the Federal Government and the State Authority provides that the Federal Government shall put the hospital back in its original condition.

Mr. President, I happen to be in a position to know that in Allegheny County and in that particular end of the state, there is a need for a tuberculosis hospital. We have in the city of Pittsburgh the Tuberculosis League Hospital which receives an appropriation from the state of Pennsylvania and it is a very fine hospital, but it is inadequate for the needs. We also have a city hospital known as the Leech Farm and it also has a terrific waiting list.

I do not think that when the General State Authority went to the trouble of building a hospital in the western part of Pennsylvania for tuberculosis patients that we should here in the Senate—vote to take that hospital away from the people of Western Pennsylvania. Therefore, I am going to ask the Senators from at least the Western part of Pennsylvania to vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I just want to say that in 1939, when we came into the Senate, as I remember the situation, there elapsed a considerable period between the time we would make application to get some constituent admitted to a tuberculosis hospital and the period in which the patient would be admitted.

At the present time, I have been having this experience, that within a week or ten days from the time of making application to get a person admitted they have been hospitalized, and that has not been in isolated cases, it has been recurring frequently in cases which have been brought to my attention. I am deply interested in the suggestion made by the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, that there is a waiting list, because I was definitely under the impression, with our present tuberculosis facilities, that hospitalization is now being expedited very rapidly, and I think that before a bill of the character submitted by the gentleman from Somerset is voted for or against, on the theory of a waiting list for hospitalization for tuberculosis patients, we should check into the situation.

Mr. BARR. Maybe I belong to the wrong political party.

Mr. WALKER. I have been telling him that, Mr. President, but he will not listen to me.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, my point is this, that for a person who is the victim of tuberculosis, one of the cures is visiting, to keep such person in good mental condition, and if you take a person from the western part of the state and send him up to the northeastern part of the state, he can not receive those visits that are so necessary in the cure of the disease of tuberculosis.

Mr. EALY. I just want to say with regard to the matter of using this hospital for federal patients, that it is expected, after this war is over or even during the war, that a great many of our boys who have been injured will be brought home from Africa and from the East Indies, and hospitals are needed here in Pennsylvania for those troops. The Butler Sanitarium is one that the Federal Government urgently needs and has asked us to transfer this hospital to it temporarily with the thought of purchasing it finally. If the Federal Government does not want it, of course, it will be turned back to us.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would hate to see this hospital go to the Federal Government. This does not in any way affect the question of whether the General State Authority should continue or not, but I recall now that last week when our committee was conferring with the Governor, he suggested that tuberculosis in Pennsylvania can be licked in the next ten years. The members of the medical profession in this Chamber will realize that in order to do that it will require institutions, in fact it will require more institutions than we presently have.

One of the basic reasons for the construction of the Butler Sanitarium, as I recall it, was that there were no similar institutions located in that section of the Commonwealth. It was said that the people in that neighborhood were entitled to have a hospital where they could visit their relatives without traveling miles through the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to see those who are unfortunate enough to be confined in these institutions. This hospital was built purposely for surgical and medical treatments. If we are going ahead with our program for eradicating tuberculosis, we must remember, first, that now tuberculosis is on the increase. Every congested area in the Commonwealth in Pennsylvania has been made aware of that fact. We know it in Philadelphia, downtown in our institutions, from the number of patients that come to the clinic for examinations for other than tuberculosis, and when we take x-ray pictures, as we require in each case, and we find evidence of tuberculosis in those cases, then we immediately go to the family to take further pictures to see how far the disease has been communicated to the family. Those are all essential elements in the eradication of this disease.

This institution is a necessary institution. If the Federal Government needs hospitals, it can afford to build hospitals wherever it needs them. It took us years to get this hospital and it will take years to get another one.

I have no objection if the Federal Government can use it during the war, if after the war we can get it back and put it to a use that we will absolutely have for this institution, not only in Western Pennsylvania but in every congested area where, as a result of war work, there has been an increase in tuberculosis.

These are not my statements. These are facts reported in the medical journals and by people connected with the hospitals, and facts that people who are connected with hospitals know as a matter of experience, and it sems to me that this is a bad time to dispose of this hospital.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I believe this would be a poor business proposition. As I understand it the Butler Sanitarium cost about $2,250,000 to build and we are now receiving from the Federal Government $160,000 a year. There is no question but that the war itself and the post-war period will last at least ten years. If the Federal Government uses that hospital for ten years that would mean rental payments to the Commonwealth of $1,600,000 which would be paid against the original cost of $2,250,000. In other words, gentlemen, we will receive for Pennsylvania one of the best hospitals in the state, which is sorely needed, for about $650,000.

Looking after the interests of the taxpayers of Pennsylvania, I believe it would be a poor business proposition to dispose of this hospital at this time.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President and members of the Senate, we are now talking about what is known as the Butler Sanitarium, which was built during the Earle Administration, or at least the money was appropriated and received from the Federal Government to build it. I maintain this position, that it was ill-advised when it was placed on ground lying northwest of the city of Butler, where the elevation is between fourteen and fifteen hundred feet, when all of the other sanatoria of Pennsylvania are on much higher ground.

It has been established by the medical profession of the state of Pennsylvania that institutions for the treatment of those suffering from tuberculosis should be on high elevations, but that is not the argument that is being brought to this Senate. I ask my colleagues who are talking against this measure, where is our obligation today? Is our obligation to those people—and I have every sympathy for those who are suffering from tuberculosis—or is our real obligation to the boys and girls who are going out all over the world to fight the real battle of America? Are the boys and the girls who are doing that deserving of more immediate consideration or are these folks who are suffering from tuberculosis and who are being hospitalized in Pennsylvania today because we do not have the over-crowded conditions that existed just a few years back.

I say to you gentlemen of the Senate, that this is a war measure, this is a real war measure. We should turn over every facility of the state of Pennsylvania and make it of service to the Federal Government in this period of stress. It is much more important that we win the real battle of America first. Are these people better off to have their homes taken away or to suffer inconvenience from lack of immediate hospitalization?

I say to you, members of the Senate, particularly on the other side, you are simply against this bill because it is sponsored by a Republican, because really it belongs to the Federal Government now and every facility, I repeat, and everything we own in Pennsylvania should be laid at the disposal of the Federal Government in order to hospitalize those boys and girls when they come home.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I think that this matter is of sufficient importance that we should approach it on the basis of facts and as dispassionately as possible. I resent the constant recurrence of the sentiment which is attached to every bill that comes on the floor of this Senate, that if the bill does not pass, the war is going to be lost. There is not a man in this Legislature that does not share with Senator Wade the desire to do everything that can possibly be done for the boys who are in Europe today, and for the boys who eventually will have to be hospitalized.

We know this, however, that at the present time the state of Pennsylvania has leased to the Federal Government for the purpose of hospitalization this hospital, and there is no reason to believe that the authorities in Pennsylvania will not continue to lease that hospital for that specific purpose.

Tuberculosis was once known as the great white plague. It ravished the country and it was only due to the fact that medical science realized the importance of isolation of people who were carriers of tuberculosis that we were able to relegate that disease medically to the position today that it is not the great threat to society that it once was.

We must understand that in times of great industry, of great employment, that there are many occupational diseases which people have, which ordinarily they would not have. We know in industry today that there is a silicosis, which is growing, and as a result of that silicosis, we are going to find many more diseases which affect the lungs.

The building of the sanitarium at Butler was not undertaken without due deliberation. The General State Authority built many fine institutions all over the state of Pennsylvania. It is true that since that institution was built there has been great conflict throughout the state as to whether or not the institution had to be used presently, and evidently the persons who have control of the administration of this state have determined that at the present time it is not needed for that specific purpose, but we do know that there will come a time when that hospital will have to be used, and I personally hope that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is not going to cede to the Federal Government this hospital which has been built at great expense to the Commonwealth, when in the future there will be a need for it.

If it were a situation where it were a choice as to whether or not we were going to permit the use of this hospital for the purposes indicated by Senator Wade, that might be a question of a different matter, but at the present time our state government has leased the hospital and certainly may continue to lease the hospital as long as it is needed.

The Senator drew a distinction between these people who are ravished by this dread lung disease and the boys fighting our battle, and I think that in the heat of debate he made statements perhaps that he did not intend to make, because I do not think that Senator Wade, a gentlemon who certainly is familiar with the question of health, because of the type of business he is in, would have suggested to this Senate that we should relax for one minute our vigilance in attempting to stamp out tuberculosis.

So the question was determined in the negative.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODWARD. In the good old days when there were no Democrats here and there was no Democratic Caucus, I would not have to stand up here and say anything, but this bill has not a shred of a partisan issue in it, it is a scientific procedure, and I would like to challenge any New Deal Democrat to explain why he would vote against this bill.

Mr. DENT. I accept the challenge, and on the basis of my being on one leg today and the gentleman from Philadelphia being rather old, I think we are on rather equal terms.

The bill, as I see it, takes the special funds of the Department of Forests and Waters and puts them into the general fund. Maybe I am in error. However, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward, before I cast my vote.

Senator WOODWARD. I would be glad to hear from my contemporary, Senator Dent.

Mr. DENT. As I understand it, the special funds in the Department of Forests and Waters are funds that were created by special licenses for special privileges in the state; does this wipe that fund out?

Mr. WOODWARD. Yes. This is one of the few remaining special funds that ought to be wiped out.

Mr. DENT. Thank you very much. Mr. President, the question of whether or not they ought to be wiped out, of course, is a matter of opinion. The fisherman and hunters of this state, as I understand it, pay license fees and they do so on the same premise that motorists pay into the motor license fund. Does this bill wipe out the special fund in the Fish and Game Commission, which is under the Department of Forests and Waters? That is all I want to know.

Mr. WOODWARD. Oh no, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. That is all I want to know. I thought my question was understood. Then what special fund is it?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, a committee approved this special fund on the ground that the Department of Forests and Waters plant trees and then they wait about forty years to harvest the crop—that was far-sighted on their part—when they sold the trees they put that money into a special fund—that is just one experience but all special funds are bad and I think my contemporary should know that.

Mr. DENT. I do not know. I only have one fund—I do not have any special fund personally, so I would not know—but if it is their desire to take this money and reforest with it I do not see any sense of taking it away from them.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, the Governor and I wrote this bill and it is assured of passage. I am awfully sorry the gentleman from Westmoreland will have to vote against it.

Mr. DENT. Of course, Mr. President, if the Senator from Philadelphia and the Governor have agreed, there is nothing much we can do about it except to vote.

Section 5 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, could not this investigation be conducted by the Joint State Government Commission?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes, it could.

Mr. COX. I can not understand the reason for the bill, Mr. President. I do not make this statement because of pride of authorship. Two bills remain in committee and I understand they are going to remain there until the Senate adjourns. One bill would provide a very badly needed study of our educational system and the other a very badly needed study of our penal system.

Last week when I inquired of the Majority Leader what the possibilities were of these studies being made or these commissions being set up, I was told that the Legislature has a Joint State Government Commission and if a study were needed the Joint State Government Commission could conduct an investigation.

I submit to the members, although this commission sponsored by Senator Thomas may be necessary, and I do not deny it is not, I still feel the other subjects I mentioned are of just as great importance, if not of more paramount importance.

Mr. DENT. Every now and then in the political handling of legislation we run across something that happens that I think every man in the Senate ought to know about. A few weeks ago, after the gentleman from Schuylkill, Senator Watkins, and myself had introduced strip coal legislation, I received communications from certain parties who asked me to meet them and discuss this legislation, and I did so. It was proposed to me then that we drop this regulatory bill in favor of a commission to study the strip mining proposition. I rejected the idea and the offer because I knew as every man in this Senate knows, that strip mining in and around the bituminous fields is necessarily a war baby. We have permanent stripping operations, of course, which continue during peace times, but the vast majority of strip mining is performed during war time, because, in most instances, it is coal of low cover and of inferior grade and can be sold more easily during a time when there is a great demand for coal.

The purpose behind the suggestion of those men of appointing a commission was to delay action upon any legislation that might regulate strip mining operations during this war time.

Mr. President, I think I speak with some authority, because I have participated in companies that have done considerable stripping operations. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I want you to believe me when I say to you that this bill creating this commission is not at all necessary. We have, through years of study in the industry, proposed to this Senate a measure that will be a first step towards getting rid of the eye-sores created by strip mining.

This particular commission, with an appropriation of $5,000 is nothing and will be nothing but a delaying action. It has been truthfully said by the Majority Leader that we have recreated the Joint State Government Commission with power to investigate any activity in the state that they believe the Legislature should know something about.

Therefore, I submit that the proper place for this investigation, if it is needed, would be in the Joint State Government Commission, made up of members of the House and the Senate, with the power in that commission to name a sub-Committee, of which the gentleman from Mercer, Senator Thomas, who sponsored this bill, can be named chairman if the commission so desires, money can be made available from the funds of the commission, and the investigation can be carried on.

But I want to say to you, Mr. President, that before Senator Thomas ever saw this bill I had the bill presented to me and I was told very plainly—it is the identical bill, I have read it, the identical proposal—and the proposal was made to me very plainly that we would substitute this for some regulatory measure that had already been presented to the Senate and also to the House.

So, Mr. President, I want to say to the members of the Senate that the men behind this type of legislation who talked to me—I will not say they are the persons who interested the gentleman from Mercer, Senator Thomas I only say that the men who talked to me are the men who came into the state of Pennsylvania with strip mining machines and equipment from West Virginia and Ohio, right over the state line, and are strip mining in Western Pennsylvania and have no intentions whatsoever of continuing in business when the war is over.

Legitimate strip miners, men who have for years engaged in that particular type of industry, are in favor of some sort of regulation, in so far as restoring the land after they have finished striping coal is concerned.

This particular bill was proposed to me by men who are foreign to our state and our state interests and are only in here to reap the harvest during war time, and then will leave our fair land torn and bleeding from the wounds they gave it by taking the coal out of the ground and leaving it for our children and our children's children to look upon with shame, due to the lack of foresight upon the part of their fathers who were in the Legislature at the time this happened.

During the last war they tore up thousands of acres of Pennsylvania's fair land to get strip coal out and they are now doing the same thing, and by the time this investigation is over they will have taken their booty and skinned across the state line into Indiana, West Virginia and Ohio.

Mr. President, I ask the sponsor of this bill in all fairness to let this bill die, because it will be only used to forestall proper regulation of an industry that asks for regulation.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, before this bill gets too far I should like to call to the attention of the members of the Senate that while it may be necessary for druggists to keep records of drugs, they still come under the Harrison Act. This bill does not merely do that. It requires a book, which has not been published, never has been and probably never will be unless this bill becomes a law, to be kept in every drug store. I have made inquiries from the group having charge of drugs in this Commonwealth and asked about the book and the book does not exist.

They tried two years ago to get such a bill through the House and it was defeated then—then there was no such book and now there is no such book—and it seems to me a silly proposition to try to put through a piece of legislation like this.

Now a druggist is requested to keep a record of sales of drugs under the Harrison Act; I have no objection to that but this is just an idea to sell books to druggists for no good reason at all.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. LLOYD H. WOOD, GOODWIN and KOLANKIEWICZ. (Concurrent) (Not Printed)

In the House of Representatives, April 19th, 1943.

The success of the celebration of the bi-centennial of the birth of Thomas Jefferson held on Wednesday, April 14th, in the Hall of the House of Representatives at a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives, was due to those who appeared on the program.

That it was a success, is attested by the things that have been said about it since the termination of the meeting.

His Excellency, the Governor, again assumed his new role as State orator, and again delighted his audience with the charm and sincerity of his delivery, and the interesting nature of his discourse, and Dr. Robert L. Johnson, President of Temple University, brought to his audience a new conception of the third President of the United States.

These addresses, however, were the parts of the arranged program that were expected to be worth hearing, and it was that expectation which accounted for the large number of persons attending. It is needless to say that no one was disappointed.

It was, however, the speeches made by the two school boys of the Commonwealth, James M. Gammon, a junior at the West View High School, and Francis E. Zabkar, a student at Pennsylvania State College, that surprised and amazed and delighted every person fortunate enough to have attended the celebration.

Each held his audience by the substance of his discourse and the skill of his delivery, and won the applause and commendation of every one in attendance; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concurs), That this General Assembly is most grateful to His Excellency, the Governor, to Dr. Johnson, and to the young men who contributed so much to the success of the celebration, and to them it hereby extends its thanks, and its assurance of deep appreciation of their contribution; and be it further

Resolved, That, in evidence of that gratitude and appreciation, the Chief Clerk of the House is hereby directed to send a copy of this resolution to His Excellency, the Governor, to Dr. Robert L. Johnson, and also to James M. Gammon and Francis E. Zabkar.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.
